THE Anglo-Saxon language has been studied at Lafayette College for many years in the light of modern philology. It seemed necessary to print, for the use of its students, general laws of phonology and syntax, with tables of analogous paradigms, prefixes, suffixes, and idioms. In preparing this outline for the press, love of the work has led me to fill it up into a Comparative Grammar. Other Comparative Grammars have discussed several languages, each for the illustration of all, and of language in general; this book is an Anglo-Saxon Grammar, and uses forms of other tongues and general laws of language only so far as they illustrate the Anglo-Saxon.

The hope has, however, been cherished that the methods of Comparative Grammar might be exemplified more fully than they have yet been for our students, in connection with the early forms of our mother tongue, and that in this way the Anglo-Saxon might be associated with the modern Science of Language, and share its honors.

If this hope should be answered, the book may serve as an introduction to the masters in whose light it has grown up—to JACOB GRIMM, the greatest genius among the grammarians, whose imagination and heart are as quick as his reason and industry, and make his histories of speech as inspiring as poetry—to FRANCIS BOPP, impersonation of pure science, who never spreads his wings, but who pursues his thread of thought with unflinching sagacity till he loses it in the islands of the Pacific—to GEORGE CURTIUS, master of the new and the old, surest and safest of guides—to POTR—to KUHN and his collaborators. Special students of Anglo-Saxon must spend their days and nights with GREIN, whose Glossary of Anglo-Saxon Poetry first made possible a thorough treatment of its grammar, and to whom this work is every where indebted. MAETZNER, and KOCH, and HEYNE have also been my constant companions.

SCHLEICHER, RUMPELT, and HOLTZMAN I have used most in phonology and etymology, BECKER in syntax.

There are a good many Anglo-Saxon Grammars. The Latin Grammar of ÆLFRIC, written in Anglo-Saxon, is a valuable Anglo-Saxon Grammar. Other grammars, to the time of RASK, are mainly arrangements of the declensions and inflections on the ground of external resemblances, with outlines of syntax. Some of them are learned works. RASK classified on the basis of the supposed stems, but with mistaken views. The real relations of the Anglo-Saxon inflections were fixed by Bopp in fixing those of the Gothic. In German, Anglo-Saxon has a place in the Comparative Grammars of Grimm, Heyne, and others, and in the great English Grammars of Mactzner and Koch. The English still use Rask; Hadley, in Webster's Dictionary, goes with Grimm. It is pleasant to remember that Jefferson, who started this study in our colleges in his University of Virginia, made an Anglo-Saxon Grammar.

Labor has not been spared to fit this book for use. The examples have been translated; the citations made easy to verify; leading rules and groups of facts have been brought together; indexes have been made; the resources of the printer freely used to make every thing distinct. Paradigms and the historical discussion of them are kept on opposite pages, so that they may lie before the eye together. The type has sometimes been varied for that purpose, and spaces filled with matter not strictly in the plan, such as the changes from Anglo-Saxon to English.

I wish to thank WILLIAM G. MEDLICOTT, Esq., of Longmeadow, Massachusetts; he let me take from his precious collection, and use at my own home, Anglo-Saxon texts not elsewhere to be had for love or money. And, finally, all those who find this book of value should join me in thanks to the Trustees and Faculty of LAFAYETTE COLLEGE, who were the first to unite in one Professorship the study of the English language and Comparative Philology, and who have set apart time for these studies, and funds for the necessary apparatus to pursue them.

FRANCIS A. MARCH.

INTRODUCTION.

---

1. During the fifth and sixth centuries, England was conquered and peopled by pagans (Saxons, Angles, Jutes, etc.) from the shores of the North Sea; the center of emigration was near the mouth of the Elbe. The conquerors spoke many dialects, but most of them were Low German. Missionaries were sent from Rome (A.D. 597) to convert them to Christianity. The Roman alphabetic writing was thus introduced, and, under the influence of learned native ecclesiastics, a single tongue gradually came into use as a literary language through the whole nation. The chief seat of learning down to the middle of the eighth century was among the Angles of Northumberland. The language was long called Englisc (English), but is now called Anglo-Saxon. Its Augustan age was the reign of Alfred the Great, king of the West Saxons (A.D. 871-901). It continued to be written till the colloquial dialects, through the influence of the Anglo-Norman, had diverged so far from it as to make it unintelligible to the people; then, under the cultivation of the Wycliffite translators of the Bible, and of Chaucer and his fellows, there grew out of these dialects a new classic language—the English.

2. The spelling in the manuscripts is irregular, but the Northumbrian is the only well-marked dialect of the Anglo-Saxon, as old as its classic period (10th century), which has yet been explored. The Gospels and some other works have been printed in it. The common Anglo-Saxon is sometimes called West-Saxon.

3. After the period of pure Anglo-Saxon, there was written an irregular dialect called Semi-Saxon. It has few strange words, but the inflections and syntax are broken up (12th century).

4. The former inhabitants of Britain were Celts, so unlike the invaders in race and speech, and so despised and hated, that they did not mix. There are in the Anglo-Saxon a handful of Celtic common names, and a good many geographical names: the relation of the Celtic language to the Anglo-Saxon is like that of the languages of the aborigines of America to our present English.

5. The Anglo-Saxon was shaped to literary use by men who wrote and spoke Latin, and thought it an ideal language; and a large part of the literature is translated or imitated from Latin authors. It is not to be doubted, therefore, that the Latin exercised a great influence on the Anglo-Saxon: if it did not lead to the introduction of wholly new forms, either of etymology or syntax, it led to the extended and uniform use of those forms which are like the Latin, and to the disuse of others, so as to draw the grammars near each other. There are a considerable number of words from the Latin, mostly connected with the Church; three or four through the Celts from the elder Romans.

6. There are many words in Anglo-Saxon more like the words of the same sense in Scandinavian than like any words which we find in the Germanic languages; but the remains of the early dialects are so scant that it is hard to tell how far such words were borrowed from or modified by the Scandinavians. Before A.D. 900 many Danes had settled in England. Danish kings afterward ruled it (A.D. 1013-1042). Their laws, however, are in Anglo-Saxon. The Danes were illiterate, and learned the Anglo-Saxon. Of course their pronunciation was peculiar, and they quickened and modified phonetic decay. It is probable that they affected the spoken dialects which have come up as English more than the written literary language which we call Anglo-Saxon.

7. The other languages sprung from the dialects of Low German tribes are Friesic, Old Saxon, and, later, Dutch (and Flemish), and Platt Deutsch. The talk in the harbors of Antwerp, Bremen, and Hamburg is said to be often mistaken by English sailors for corrupt English. These Low German languages are akin to the High German on one side, and to the Scandinavian on the other. These all, with the Mæso-Gothic, constitute the Teutonic class of languages. This stands parallel with the Lithuanic, the Slavonic, and the Celtic, and with the Italic, the Hellenic, the Iranic, and the Indic, all of which belong to the Indo-European family of languages. The parent speech of this family is lost, and has left no literary monuments. Its seat has been supposed to have been on the heights of Central Asia. The Sanskrit, an ancient language of India, takes its place at the head of the family. Theoretical roots and forms of inflection are given by grammarians as those of the Parent Speech, on the ground that they are such as might have produced the surviving roots and forms by known laws of change.

8. The following stem shows the order in which these classes branched, and their relative age and remoteness from each other. At the right is given the approximate date of the oldest literary remains. The languages earlier than these remains are made out like the Parent Speech; that is, roots and forms are taken for the language at each period, which will give the roots and forms of all the languages which branch from it, but not those peculiar to the other languages.

- A. Indo-European. Parent Speech.
- 1. Indic. B.C. 1500. Sanskrit Vedas.
- 2. Iranic. B.C. 1000. Bactrian Avesta.
- 3. Hellenic. Before B.C. 800. Greek.
- 4. Italic. B.C. 200. Latin.

- 6. Celtic. 8th Century.
- 7. Slavonic. 9th Century. Bulgarian Bible.
- 8. Lithuanic. 16th Century.

9. The following stem shows the manner in which the languages of the Teutonic class branch after separating from the Slavonic. The Gothic (Mæso-Gothic) died without issue; the Low German is nearer akin to it than the High German is. The branches of the Scandinavian (Swedish, Danish, Norwegian) are not represented.

PHONOLOGY.

10. Alphabet.—The Anglo-Saxon alphabet has twenty-four letters. All but three are Roman characters: the variations from the common form are cælographic fancies. P þ (thorn), and Ð ð (wên), are runes. Ð ð (edli) is a crossed d, used for the older þ, oftenest in the middle and at the end of words.

Old Forms.	Simple Forms.	Roman.	Names.
Ǽ a	A a	A a	ah
ǣ æ	Æ æ	Æ æ	ǣ
B b	B b	B b	bay
C c	C c	C c	cay
D d	D d	D d	day
Ð ð	Ð ð	DH dh	edh
F f	F f	F f	ef
G g	G g	G g	gay
Ḧ h	H h	H h	hah
I i	I i	I i	ee
L l	L l	L l	el
M m	M m	M m	em
N n	N n	N n	en
O o	O o	O o	o
P p	P p	P p	pay
R r	R r	R r	er
S s	S s	S s	es
T t	T t	T t	tay
ᚦ þ	P þ	TH th	thorn
U u	U u	U u	oo
ƿ ƿ	ƿ ƿ	{ VV vv } { (W) (w) }	wên
X x	X x	X x	ex
Y y	Y y	Y y	ypsilon

Some of the German editors use ä for æ, æ for ǣ, ë for e derived from i, ö for ø, æ for ǣ, j for i semi-vowel, and v for p. Sometimes k, q, v, z are written, mostly in foreign words, uu or u for p, and th early for þ, d. Semi-Saxon ȝ is used for g=y initial, gh medial, gh and z final.

11. Abbreviations.—The most common are  $\text{ȝ} = \text{and}$ ,  $\text{þ} = \text{þæt}$  (that),  $\text{ȝ} = \text{odde}$  (or), and  $\text{—}$  for an omitted m or n; as,  $\text{hā} = \text{ham}$ .

12. An Accent (´) is found in Anglo-Saxon manuscripts, but in none so regularly used as to make it an objective part of an Anglo-Saxon text. It is found oftenest over a long vowel; sometimes over a vowel of peculiar sound, not long; seldom, except over syllables having stress of voice. Sometimes it seems to mark nothing but stress. Most of the English editors represent it by an acute accent; the Germans generally print Anglo-Saxon with a circumflex over all single long vowels in the stem of words, and an acute over the diphthongs, as brôðer, fréond. In this book, to guide the studies of beginners, a circumflex is used over all long vowels and diphthongs, and the acute accent (´) over vowels only to denote stress. For accented consonants, see § 19.

13. Punctuation.—The Anglo-Saxons used one dot (.) at the end of each clause, or each hemistich of a poem, and sometimes three dots (:·) at the end of a sentence. Modern pointing is generally used in printed text.

14. Sounds of Letters.—Vowels:

a like a in far .	i like i in dim .
â “ a “ fall .	î “ ee “ deem .
æ “ a “ glad .	o “ o “ wholly .
â “ a “ dare in New England.	ô “ o “ holy .
e “ e “ let .	u “ u “ full .
e in the breakings (not diph- thongs) ea , eo , eâ , eô , very light.	û “ oo “ fool .
ê like e in they .	y “ i “ dim , but with the lips thrust out and rounded. (French u .)
	ÿ same sound prolonged.

Unaccented vowels are like accented in kind, but obscure.

The consonants have their common English sounds; but note

c like k , always.	i (=j) before a vowel, like y .
ch “ kh in work-house .	s like s in so .
cp “ qu .	t “ t “ to .
d “ English th in a similar word: ôðer , other, dôð , doth.	þ “ th “ thin .
g like g in go . German schol- ars may use German g 's.	p “ w .
hp like wh in New England.	pl, pr, and final p nearly close the lips. (German w .) x like ks .

15. Accent.—The primary accent in pronunciation is on the first syllable of every word: bròd'-er, brother; un'-cûd, uncouth.

The first syllable is mostly the root, or a prefix defining it: but prefixes of verbs and particles are relational. See § 41, 4.

Proof of accent comes from alliteration, rhyme, the mark (§ 12), progression, and other phonetic changes.

Exception 1. Proper prefixes in verbs and particles take no primary accent: such are á, an, and, æt, be, bi, ed, for, ful, ge, geond, in, mis, òt, of, ofer, on, or, tó, þurh; un, under, pið, piðer, ymb, ymbe: an-gin'nan, begin; æt-gad'ere, together; on-geán', again. So some parasyntheta; onsæg ednes, sacrifice.

(a.) But parasyntheta from nouns, pronouns, or adjectives, retain their accent: and'-sparian < and'sparu, answer; in'-peardlice < in'-peard, adj., inward; ed nípian < ed nípe, renewed. Such are all verbs in and-, ed-, or-, found in Anglo-Saxon poetry; many adverbs in un-, etc.

(b.) Many editors print as compounds adverbs + verbs, both of which retain their accent. Such are those with æfter, bi, big, efen, eft, fore, forð, from, fram, hider, mid, miðer, gegn, geán, tó, up, út, pel.

Exception 2. The inseparable prefixes á-, be-(bi-), for-, ge-, are unaccented: á-lýs'-ing, redemption; be-gang', course. (Parasyntheta from verbs.)

A secondary accent may fall on the tone syllable of the lighter part of a compound or on a suffix: o'-fer-cum'-an, overcome; heof'-on-steor'-ra, star of heaven; hýr'end'e, hearing; lás'mýg', lying.

20. Changes of Sound.

I. VARIATION: exchange of one sound with another.

1. Euphonic: through the influence of other sounds in the same word or phrase:
  - (a) Qualitative: through influence of the kind of sound which follows or precedes. . . . . { Assimilation.
(a) Change of vowel through influence of i,
u, or a in the following syllable . . . . . Umlaut.
(b) Change of vowel through influence of consonants . . . . . Breaking.
(c) Change of consonant through influence of i, y . . . . . Assibilation.
(d) Change of consonant through influence of other consonants.
  - (b) Quantitative: through the weight of sound which follows or precedes. . . . . Compensation
    - (a) Change of quantity or quality.
    - (b) Change of accent.
2. Accentual: through influence of accent. . . . . Gravitation.
  - (a) Strengthening accented syllables in a certain way . . . . . Progression.
  - (b) Weakening unaccented syllables . . . . . Precession
Here also may be placed as appendix.
Changes in root vowels which, in the Teutonic languages, have come to distinguish tenses of the verb . . . . . Ablaut.
3. Mimetic: through influence of other like words:
  - (a) Conforming to other words, in declension, conjugation, etc. . . . . Conformation.
  - (b) Simulating etymological relations. . . . . Simulation.
  - (c) Sundering, bifurcation, dimorphism.
4. Etymologic: uninfluenced by other sounds in the same language . . . . . Lautverschiebung. Shifting.

II. FIGURATION: change of form without change of sense, by dropping, adding, or changing the order of sounds.

1. Dropping: . . . . . Apothesis.
  - (a) Beginning a word. . . . . Aphæresis.
  - (b) Ending . . . . . Apocope.
  - (c) Within:
    - (a) Vowel before a vowel . . . . . Elision.
    - (b) Vowel before a consonant . . . . . Syncope.
    - (c) Consonant or syllable. . . . . Ecthlipsis.
2. Adding: . . . . . Prosthesis.
  - (a) Beginning a word . . . . . Prothesis.
  - (b) Ending . . . . . Paragoge. Epithesis.
  - (c) Within . . . . . Epenthesis.
3. Changing the order of letters . . . . . Metathesis.

III. CONTRACTION: drawing together vowel sounds to avoid the hiatus.

1. Complete:

- (a) Within a word . . . . . Synæresis.
 (b) Between words . . . . . Crasis.

2. Incomplete: a partial rhythmic union, so that the two vowels serve as one syllable in poetry:

- (a) Within a word . . . . . Synizesis.
 (b) Between words . . . . . Synalœpha.

Laws of Letter Change.

1. A vowel may assimilate a vowel by umlaut. § 32.
2. A vowel may change to its breaking before l, r, h, or p, m, f, and after e (se), g, or p. § 33.
3. Between two vowels a surd may change to a sonant or a mute to a continuous. § 35, 3.
4. If a surd follows a sonant, gemination of the surd is produced. § 35, A.
5. If a surd precedes a sonant, the sonant is changed to a surd of the same organ. § 35, B.
6. A mute before another consonant may change to a continuous of the same organ. § 35, 4, b.
7. Before n a surd or mute may change to its cognate nasal. § 35, 4, e.
8. A vowel may change to a consonant of the same organ to avoid the hiatus. § 36.
9. Between two vowels a continuous may change to a mute. § 36, 2.
10. One of two contiguous mutes may change to a continuous, one of two continuous to a mute. § 36, 3, 4.
11. A consonant may be dropped and the preceding vowel lengthened by compensation. § 37.
12. A vowel may be dropped and the preceding consonant doubled by compensation. § 37, 2.
13. Gemination, when final or next to a consonant, is simplified or dissimilated. § 27, 5.
14. Apothesis is found of a syllable of inflection, and of an unaccented stem vowel final; before a vowel; before l, n, r; d, t, st; e, g, m, p, and other consonants. § 44-46.
15. Ecthlipsis is found of d, t, s, st, before st; of n before d, f, s; of d, g, h, i, p, mostly between vowels or before a liquid. § 47.

16. Epithesis, epenthesis, and metathesis are used for euphony. § 49–61.
17. Synæresis may occur after ecthlipsis of g or h, or the change of p to u. § 52.

21. Every classic speech is an ideal; the folks at home do not speak it. We have no direct description of the pronunciation of Anglo-Saxon; but we have Greek text written phonetically with Anglo-Saxon characters (Hickes, Pref., xii. +), and know that they were sounded nearly like the corresponding letters in the Latin of the missionaries. These characters represent only the most striking varieties of sound, and those vaguely. There must have been very great diversity in the folkspeech. The view given in § 14 is general or ideal, as seems suited to a practical manual. An examination of the laws of the language, and its relations to other languages, will suggest further remarks.

22. Voice.—Breath is made sonant by vibrations of the vocal chords—ligaments which may be stretched across the wind-pipe. The quality of a vowel depends on the general shape of the cavity containing the vibrating column of air. For a, the tongue lies flat; for i, we breathe or blow into a narrow-necked bottle; for u, into a bottle without a neck.

23. Short Vowels.—The simple vowels are a, i, u. Pure a may be gradually changed to i, if the tongue be slowly raised toward the palate; to u, if the lips be slowly closed. Between a and i are æ, e; between a and u is o; between i and u is y. The vowel sounds shade into each other like colors.

In any word or stem the same short vowel is found in all the Teutonic tongues, and any changes are explained by umlaut, breaking, or other phonetic laws working within the language.

a, æ.—In Anglo-Saxon a is found before a single consonant followed by a, o, u, e < a; before m, n, and in some foreign words. Before m, n, it also suffers assimilation to o: man > mon; before a consonant combination beginning with l, r, h, it breaks to ea: sealm, psalm; before a syllable containing i or e < i, i-umlaut changes it to e: hladan hle(de)st, to load; u-umlaut changes it to ea: bealu, bale; in other situations, words having a in other languages show a regular shifting of a to æ; thus, in monosyllables ending in a single consonant: bæc, back; in polysyllables before a single consonant followed by e: bæcere, baker; before consonant combinations, especially those beginning with f or s: craft, craft. Alfred's time shows a for ea, oftenest before l. In folkspeech the sounds of a varied from a in father to a in hat on one side, and to o in hot on the other. Accented ǎ often changes in English to the sound of a in name, through progression, i-umlaut, or shifting: macian > māken > make.

e.—This is i-umlaut of a: temian, tame; a-umlaut of i: help-an < root hilp, help; or a light toneless sound which may be the ghost of any sound: gife, Gothic gibōs, gibái, giba, gift. Old MS. often use ae for e < a (so Alfred): gen. -w, -ws. The same word is sometimes written with w and e, or ea and e: dæg, deg, day; seah, sch, saw. In the folkspeech the sounds varied from nearly a drawling ää (as in äärth, earth), through e in met, to the light sound of German final e, French mute e.

i.—This simple sound holds its ground well; but a-umlaut sometimes changes it to e: piſed, weaves, pl. peſud; u-umlaut and breaking both change it to eo: lim, limb, pl. leomu; feohte, fight. It exchanges in writing with y, and sometimes with ea: miht, myht, meaht, might. Perhaps an a-element was in some words creeping in, as in English long i (= â + i), eniht, Northumbrian enaiht, knight.

o.—This is treated as u-umlaut of a, or a-umlaut of u, or an assimilation of a by m or n: rodor, Old Saxon radur, heaven; curon, coren < coran, chose, chosen; comb, comb. In folkspeech it varied from o in not to nearly u in full.

u, y.—Like i, u holds its ground. It changes in writing with o on one side, and y on the other; and probably varied in folkspeech from u in nut to nearly the French u. y is i-umlaut of u, eo, ea, sometimes u-umlaut of i, exchanging with eo. It was a favorite letter with the penmen, and is often found for i, and sometimes for e, w: cyning, king; eald, yldest, old, oldest; ceort > cyrlise, churlish; lyden, leden, Latin; gyst-sele, gæst-sele, guest-hall.

24. Long Vowels.—Two like short vowels uttered as one sound make a long vowel: aa = â, ii = î, uu = û.

Long vowels are produced by compensation, progression, and contraction.

A long sound is, however, different in quality as well as quantity from its short. The anticipation of the double utterance affects the position of the organs. A given long vowel may, in fact, arise from the coming together of unlike vowels: τιμῶμεν from τιμῶμεν; nor do two like vowels always give their long : Greek εε give ει, οο give ου. The Anglo-Saxon long vowels vary in kind (quality) from their short ; a prolonged is not exactly â, nor e prolonged exactly ê. We give the long mark, therefore, whenever the quality of sound is that of the long letter, though the vowel may be unaccented, and the sound obscure.

Proof of length is found in accent (§ 12) and gemination in the manuscripts ; presumptive evidence is also found in the origin and relations of vowels, and the analogy of other languages.

That a letter is not accented is no proof that it is not long ; but when one is abundantly marked in good manuscripts, it must be held long. The pronouns mê, þê, hê are abundantly marked, and therefore we give them as long, though analogy is perhaps against it. These words, however alliterate in poetry, fall in with a general law as to accented open syllables which has a plain physiological basis, and the corresponding words are long in English, and were long in Latin.

Monosyllables ending in a vowel are long, except enclitics and proclitics, which are really affixes or prefixes to other words.

â corresponds in part to Gothic ê, in part to Gothic âi, and has oftenest passed into English ô : Gothic hâim, Anglo-Saxon hâm, home, Germ. heim ; in þâ, â, etc., it is progression of a. It varied through â in far, wall, Ger. mahnen, nearly to ô in home.

æ corresponds to the same Gothic letters as â, but comes into English with the sound of ee : Gothic sâi, Anglo-Saxon sê, sea, German see. It is i-unlaut of â, and simple shifting also, which may be stopped by a following m, n : hâte, hêt(e)st, hêt(ed), call, callest, calleth.

ê is i-unlaut of ô : fôt, fêt(e), foot, feet ; simple shifting of eâ > êa : hêran, hear. It springs also from contraction of old duplications, from lengthening of open monosyllables : mê, me ; hê, he ; þê, thee ; and from compensation : þên < þegn, thane ; perhaps here also gê < ger, ye ; þê < þec, thee ; and other such pronouns. It likes m or n after it, and in such cases may stand for an original â or ê. It varied in folkspeech from nearly e in there to ey in they, with the final y-sound (ee) pretty plain. It goes over to ee completely in English. (Progression.)

i corresponds to the î of other languages. It has risen in English under the accent to the sound of â + i (§ 38, 1) : bîtan, bite ; drîfan, drive. It exchanges in the writing with ý, and must have sounded much like it.

ô corresponds to Gothic ô. It springs from contraction of three a-elements, or two a-elements and a u-element : þû.

han > fôn, catch; gefeohan > gefeôn, rejoice; from progression: môna, Old H. German máno, moon; sôna, Mid. H. German sân, soon. It had the sound of o in tone, with a tendency in a labial direction, which has brought it to English oo. § 38, 1.

û corresponds to ü in other dialects. It is often strengthened from u under the accent: hû, thou; nû, now; sometimes springs from compensation: mûd, Gothic mumþs, mouth. It changes in English under the accent to ou: hûs, house. (Progression.)

ÿ is i-umlaut of û, of eó, and of eá: mÿs, mÿs(e), mouse, mice; lÿge < root leógg, lie; hÿr(i)an < root heár, hear. § 38, 1.

25. Diphthongs.—Two unlike vowels heard in one syllable make a diphthong. The forms ea (iá), eo (ió), ie, are generally called breakings; eá, iá, eó, ió, iê, are often true diphthongs, and then they differ etymologically from breakings. For Breakings, see § 33.

eá, iá = Gothic áu > áú > iá > eá. It is found in many positions: final; before r, h, m, n, p: freá, lord; teár, tear; heáh, high; dreám, dream; leán, loan; breáp, brow. It is also found as a g-se-breaking of á: geáfon, gave; secán, shone. It is an unstable combination, tending to á > English ó or to ê > English ee, as more or less of the e-sound works in. The prevailing set is, on the whole, to ê: steáp, stêp-an, steep.

eó, ió = Gothic iú. It is also an assimilation of i, í, by p or l: treóp, Gothic tríva, tree; feól, Old H. German fíla, mud; apparently also by h, g; but in these cases a change of h, g, to p may be supposed: híhan > heón, depart; fríg, freó, free. It is a peculiar progression from i final (perhaps here also a labial sound is to be added): beó, Old H. German bí, bee. It often also springs from contraction, especially of the reduplication, exchanging with é. It exchanges in writing with ió. It is found often for eá. It changes to ú: súpan, sup; súcan, suck. It must have had a peculiar sound or sounds—an unstable combination, tending to u > English u in sup on the one side, and to é > English ee on the other. The prevailing set is, on the whole, to é. A similar sound is produced by g-se-breaking from ó: sceó, shoe; but the e is lighter.

ie is used in Alfred's speech for eá < au, í, eó.

26. Northumbrian Vowels.—a is often used where Anglo-Saxon has ea, sometimes where it has e, i, eo, u.

æ interchanges with ea: æll, eall, all, all; æ for e is abundant; e for æ frequent; oe for e frequent. Assimilation of wo < we,

vu < wi, is found: wosa, Anglo-Saxon pesan, to be; wutta, Anglo-Saxon pitan, to know; also ul < il: sulf, Anglo-Saxon silf, self; sulfēr, Anglo-Saxon seolfōr, Gothic silubr, silver.

â is often written aa; it exchanges with î; is a progression of a, ca, before liquids. æ is found written aae. ê is seldom i-umlaut of ô, is used sometimes for eô (lautverschiebung), often for î, Gothic ê, oftenest for êâ. œ is i-umlaut of ô, or represents Anglo-Saxon ê not umlaut.

ea interchanges with eo, a favorite sound which displaces sometimes Anglo-Saxon e, i. eâ interchanges with eô. îô for eô is frequent; eâ for î. There are found ai for i, ei for ê or î, eu for eôp, and oi.

27. Consonants.—The stream of breath is stopped in speech in three main ways: by contact between the root of the tongue and the palate (a round surface against a hollow one), the tip of the tongue and the teeth (a sharp against a flat surface), and the upper and lower lips (two flat surfaces). If a sonant breath be stopped, the sonant letters, g guttural, d dental, b labial, are produced. If we blow instead of breathe, a slight change is made throughout the vocal organs: viz., the glottis is thrown open, the chords no longer sound, and the shape which the organs take at the places where they meet and part is varied: hence the smooth, surd letters, c(k) guttural, t dental, p labial. These are mutēs. If the breath be not wholly stopped, continuous letters, i guttural (palatal), d and English z dental, (English v) and p labial, are made; or, if the stream be blown, h guttural, ʃ, s, dental, f, hp, labial. If, when the breath is stopped, the veil be raised which separates the nose from the pharynx, the resonance of the nasal cavity gives n in ng guttural, n dental, m labial; l and r are trills. Each consonant stands for two sounds: viz., the closing of the organs, ap; and the opening of the organs, pa. For a fourth kind of stop, see Assibilation, § 34.

1. A stop of the first kind, which will pass for a g, may be made any where from the very root of the tongue forward to the middle of the mouth. Some nations make their g in one place, some in another. Further forward it becomes impossible to stop with a humped tongue, and the tip comes into play. This may be touched, so as to make a d, any where from the front g-stop, or even further back, to the meeting of the teeth. Just where g and d run into each other is i consonant (English y). Some tribes count gutturals and dentals as all one. The Sandwich Islanders have to be taught to tell c from t, and possibly the Roman populace may have had a similar habit. See Assibilation, § 34.

2. h, j, d, f are pronounced as spirants, but are, historically, representatives of ch, th, dh, ph, which were once pronounced as separate letters (e. g., ch as kh in work-house), and hence are called rough or aspirate mutes, a name retained in historical grammar by their representatives. See Table, § 17.

3. R is described as a trill of the uvula in the Northumberland burr, and of the tip of the tongue in English and German; l as a trill of the side edges of the tongue. No trill is heard in English in America. In r the tip of the tongue is raised and moved slightly while the breath is poured over it. In l the tip is raised to the dental stop, and the breath issues freely between its sides and the cheeks.

4. Gemination is the doubling of a consonant. Physiologically it arises from an analysis of a consonant by which the sound made in closing the stop is united with the foregoing vowel, and that made by opening is united with the following vowel. Or it arises from combining two complete consonants, e. e., shutting and opening the organs twice: back-kitchen. The last is seldom heard in English. Historically it springs from gravitation (§ 38) or assimilation (§ 35). It is most common with liquids and s. A real gemination can not occur at the beginning or the end of a word, nor before a second mute, nor is it easy after a long vowel. For the orthographic rule in Anglo-Saxon, see § 20, Rule 13. Double g is written cg, double f, bb.

5. Dissimilated Gemination.—When gemination of a nasal (m, n) would occur before l or r, the trill calls for so much breath that we drop the nasal veil, and that changes the latter half of m into b, of n into d. In some other cases a continuous consonant or vowel is dissimilated for force of utterance: ss > st, mm > mp, nn > nt, i > ig, u or p > up, are found; spindel < spinl; timber < umr, Goth. tumrjan. §§ 28, 36, 81.

28. Gutturals (Palatals): c, g, h, i, n. c has given place in English before e, i, y, to k (a graphic change merely) or to ch (Assibilation, § 34). This ch appears in late manuscripts, and the assibilation was doubtless begun in the folkspeech earlier; but the new sound does not show in the alliteration, and should not be given for Anglo-Saxon c. The assibilation of sc > English sh, is excluded for similar reasons. ct > ht, § 36; ci > ce, § 37; cg = gg, § 37; sc = x, § 51.

g comes into English as g in go, give; as dg in edge (Assibilation, § 34); as y in youth. It stands in the place of j (= English y) of other languages in three places: (1.) Beginning the following words: gê, ye; geâr, gêr, year; geâra, yore; geôc, yoke; geôgud, youth; geól, yule; geond, yond; geong, young; gese, yes; gist, yeast; git, yet. Compare Sanskrit juvan, Latin juvenis, Gothic jugg, German jung, Norse ánger, Anglo-Saxon geong, iung, English young.

(2.) Within words in the place of i (= j) before a vowel in inflection: nerian = nergan, to save; inserted: lufie = lufige, love; ge inserted: earðian = earðigean, to till.

(3.) Final for i: hii = hig, they.

All these changes seem natural if g in these words be pronounced as the English y. It is certain that these words were at all times often so pronounced: we find nung in Anglo-Saxon as well as geong, nerian as well as nergan. But words like geong alliterate abundantly in Anglo-Saxon poetry with words beginning with g hard, and not with other kinds of words beginning with io, ia, or another vowel; while in Norse the words beginning with i, j, alliterate only with vowels. It seems certain, therefore, that this ge sounded more like a hard g than like e or i before a vowel, which was nearly the English y. It is better to accept the fact that a guttural breathing was inserted between the vowels of lufie by those who wrote lufige, than to soften out the g to try to simplify the phonology; g and j run into each other. Words in g hard in Anglo-Saxon run into y in Old English, and return to g in English: forgitan, foryeten, forget; gifan, yeven, give; geat, yate, gate, etc. These are dialectical variations, but real differences of sound. In Anglo-Saxon g had such sounds as in modern German.

h represents the guttural rough (ch) and the simple breathing. They were both in the folkspeech originally; both are now given in the dialects of England. The guttural is not, however, recognized as separate in alliteration or otherwise in the literature of the Anglo-Saxons any more than in the English, and may be omitted from the literary, though not from the comparative grammar of both. It is sounded in initial hl, hn, hr.  $h > g$ ,  $h > p$ , § 35, 3;  $h < g$ , § 35, 4, b; ht < ct, § 36, 3; h dropped, Apocope, § 44; Ethelipsis, § 47. x producing breaking = hs.

i consonant goes into g, from the most forward utterances of which it is distinguished by being not so tight a stop. It is found sometimes, especially in foreign proper names, alliterating with g, and should then be pronounced like g.

n in ne, ng (Goth. Greek gg), is the English guttural nasal.

29. Dentals (Linguals): t, d, p, ð, s, l, r, n. t < dd, § 36, 5; < td, § 35, B; st < sd; t < d, Assimilation, § 35.

d for d between two vowels seems to indicate a disinclination to begin a syllable with d: ud < ld; dd < di, § 37: d and p are not uniformly used in any of the manuscripts; there were certainly two sounds, as in English. The uniform use of p beginning words and d elsewhere is calligraphic, not orthographic. The real sounds may yet be made out; compare §§ 194, a; 41, (3). English surds indicate A.-Sax. surds, unless they spring from other dialects than those which had most influenced the Anglo-Saxon. Assimilation by l, § 35; breaking by l, r, § 32.

s and z undistinguished, but see § 189, b. n, Ecthlipsis, § 47.

30. Labials: p, b, f, β, m. p begins only words of foreign origin. b changes to f in the middle and end of words, except mʰ and bb < bi. The Old Saxon, Friesic, and Norse have the same tendency to change the middle mute labial b to the continuous f in the middle of words, i. e., not to close the mouth tightly between two vowels. The Old Saxon and Friesic have both surd and sonant continuous forms, f and English v. This Anglo-Saxon f is written u (v) sometimes (hliuade, B., 1799), and it has changed in English to v: heawod, heafod, head; heofon, heaven; pulf, pulfás, wolf, wolves. The folkspeech had a sonant continuous labial, and it may be distinguished in the weak verbs. See § 189, b. The runic p is like the English w, but must have varied in the dialects as it does now in England. In initial pl, pr (often parasitic), and at the end of words, it must have been spoken with a nearer approach to closing the mouth. Bede represents it in Latin by vu, the Normans by gu; the parasitic v, g plainly indicate a vigorous utterance. It changes to u when final and preceded by a consonant: bealu, genitive bealpes, bale. Latin u and v were the same letter; the present separation of them was completed only in the 18th century. w is of German origin; it had come into common use in Semi-Saxon. Assimilation of p and m, § 35, 2; mm < mi, § 37, 2; m > u, § 41, 3, A; ecthlipsis of p, § 47.

31. Northumbrian Consonants:

(1) GUTTURALS.—c and g interchange: finger, fincer, finger; dringes, he drinks; ce and p: getreud = getryced; c > h, c > ch, see h. g assimilates a preceding e or é to ei: deigu, Anglo-Saxon pegu, thane; weig, Anglo-Saxon peg, way; in such cases there may be ecthlipsis of g: maiden, Anglo-Saxon mægdēn, maiden; or g > h: fifteih, Anglo-Saxon fiftig, fifty; g < p: drigu, Anglo-Saxon þrīpa, three; g and i consonant have the same relations as in Anglo-Saxon. h.—Prothesis of h is found in heald, old, etc.; often before l and r: hlādia, to lead; hrowe, row; apothesis in lāfe, Anglo-Saxon hlāf, loaf, etc. Ecthlipsis between vowels is the rule, and occurs elsewhere. c > h and g > h, with a change of the h to ch, are common at the end of words: Anglo-Saxon mec > meh, mehch, me; occasional within words: mieil, mihil, michil, much. Bede uses ct for ht.

(2.) DENTALS.—t for d is found: heafot, head; apocope in second singular of verbs: slæpes dā, sleepest thou. Apocope of d is common: hælen < hælend, savior; assimilation of ld: manigfallice, manifold. There is no p; d and ð interchange: dagás, dagás, days; bróðor, bróðor, brother. Ecthlipsis of d occurs when the pronoun dā, thou, agglutinates with its verb: sprecestu for sprecest dā, thou speakest. d final changes to s: cwoedas < cwoedat, they say. d > z: bezere, baptist. Liquids.—Apocope of n is the rule in the infinitive, and frequent elsewhere; ecthlipsis before t, f, s, as in Anglo-Saxon. Metathesis of r is more common than in Anglo-Saxon; ecthlipsis occurs in bygen < byrgen, tomb; epenthesis in efern, evening, and its compounds. Metathesis of l and of n occurs. s < d, see over.

(3.) LABIALS.—b suffers apocope: dum, dumb, etc.; b < f: feber, Anglo-Saxon fefor, fever. f > u and ub: dioul, dioubol, Anglo-Saxon deafol, devil, where u is perhaps English v. For p are written u, ur, w. Initial p before u, and sometimes oe, is left unwritten: ulf = uulf, wolf; oeg = woeg, way. Prothesis is found: woxo, ox; and epenthesis: sunder, sunder. Initial hu, su, do not contract with a following vowel, as in Anglo-Saxon, yet notice parts of cuma, cuman, come. Ecthlipsis of w occurs before oe: coed, quoth; and between two vowels; final it becomes a vowel, or drops, or changes to g.

The manuscripts are late, and the whole aspect of the dialect indicates a revolutionary period of speech.

EUPHONIC CHANGES.

VARIATION.

32. Umlaut is a change of vowel through the influence of a, i > e, or u, in the following syllable.

The conception of a sound tends to put the vocal organs in a position to utter it. We conceive the later sounds in a word while yet speaking the former; hence the tendency to utter a sound between the two. No umlaut shows in Gothic. Old H. German has most a-umlaut; Norse, u-umlaut.

(1.) a-umlaut.—The conception of a coming a affects the utterance of i, so as to produce the intermediate sound e; so it changes u to o: helpan < root hilp, help; boga < root bug, bow. It sometimes changes i to eo: nid, neodan, neath; leafut, live.

- (2.) i-umlaut changes a, â, ô, u, ea, eo, û, eâ, eô,

a, e, are between a and i; ô is from a (§ 38); y is between u and i; ea, eo have parasitic u (§ 33); eâ, eô have radical u (§ 38); and when the umlaut was established u was the effective sound in all. For examples, see §§ 207, 211, 208, 204, 208 (2), 208 (6), 206, 208 (3), 206. When an old i is lost, its umlaut is called concealed: fât, fât(i), foot, feet. § 84. Umlaut stopped in secondary forms, whose primary have it, is rückumlaut, § 189, d.

(3.) u-umlaut.—A coming u often changes a to ea (ia) (nearly o in sound), i to eo (io) for iû: bealu, Old H. German balo, bale; beadu, O. H. German Badu-, battle; meoluc, O. H. German miluc, milk; seofun, Gothic sibun, seven.

33. Breaking is the change of one vowel to two by a consonant.

The consonants most difficult to make, the trills l, r, and the gutturals c, g, h, are often accompanied by an involuntary sympathetic movement of other parts of the organs, which produces what may be called a parasitic sound—the lip semi-vowel u, p, or the palatal i. Americans hear the parasitic i in the Southern cear for car, gearden for garden; the u in hear, leer. The g-sc-breakings are produced by a parasitic i > e, the h-l-r-breakings by a u > o, a. The h-l-r-breaking ea oftenest stands where there should be umlaut e < a, or shifting x < a, and the a of ea represents the parasitic sound. Labial assimilation has the effect of u; sometimes of i by conformation. Analogous effects are traced here and there through all languages. Compare §§ 34, 35, 2, b, 50.

(1.) l, r, h, oftenest before a consonant, break foregoing a to ea (ia), i to eo (io): scalm, psalm; earm, arm; hleahor, laughter; (second consonant dropped), eal < eall, all; mear < mearh, mare; (single h dropped), slân < sleahan, slay; meole, milk; eorl, earl; leoht, light. For ea, eo, ie occurs in Alfred's time.

(2.) m, f, p, and u-umlaut have the same effect, § 35, 2, a: § 32.

(3.) g-sc-breaking has a slight i-sound between c (sc), g, or p, and a vowel after it: ceaster < Latin castrum, camp; secô, shoe; geador, together; (peota < pita, wise man). It may be found before a, o, e, â, ô, ê.

34. Assibilation is the assimilation of a dental or guttural with a following i-sound. It gives rise, among many striking facts, to a fourth set of letters, made by turning the inverted tip of the tongue up to the hard palate, § 27. Such a stop, when blowing, produces tsh (tch in fitch); when breathing, dzh (dy in edgy); if the stop be not complete, it produces, when blowing, sh in shall; when breathing, zh (zi in glazier).

1. HISTORICAL.—These sounds are not recognized in the Parent Speech, Latin, Greek, Gothic, or other most ancient alphabets; and hence, though they are now found almost all the world over, they are generally represented by combinations of the earlier letters, and treated as compound consonants. They seem as a matter of fact to have been contrivances to take the place of certain difficult combinations of the simpler sounds. Among the Indo-European languages, the Slavonic have most assibilation; the descendants of the Latin come next.

It was common in the folkspeech of Rome; ci interchanges with ti before a, o, u, in the oldest remains of Latin. It is not certain whether this springs from a dialectic adoption of the imperfect articulation common every where among children, or from some peculiarity of the Roman populace, e.g., one like that of the Sandwich Islanders (§ 27, 1). When the Germans were sifted over the Romanic regions, the chaos of language favored the assibilations, and they spread in various modifications over Europe, as far as the Romanic speech had influence.

The English has the following:

Latin natura > English nature. (English u = i + u.)

zi > zh: Anglo-Saxon grasian > English graze > grazier.

Gutturals.—ci > tsh: Latin castrum > Anglo-Saxon ceaster > English chester (Winchester); Anglo-Saxon fecian, fetian > English fetch.

i > dzh: Latin iocus > Italian gioco > English joke.

The beginnings of the following are in Anglo-Saxon: sc before a and o has often changed to see in the oldest manuscripts: sceacan for scacan, shake. The sound of sh for sc in O. H. German first appears in the eleventh century, and afterward rules in High German. As for the Low German, sh is not yet in Dutch, but in Platt-Deutsch it has become common as in English. There is no indication in the alliteration that see is pronounced sh, nor can it be received as current literary speech. In the Anglo-Saxon of the eleventh century, ch for c begins to appear: child < cild, child. This is also outside of the literary speech, and springs from foreign (French) influence. The other changes are still later, and more purely Romanic in their source. The only German assibilation is sh, and that is later than classic Anglo-Saxon.

2. PHYSIOLOGICAL.—(a.) Assibilation of Dentals.—t+i: tion in question. Trying to sound io as one syllable tends to change i to y. In t the tip of the tongue is pressed to the upper gum, and the voice blown; in y the tip of the tongue is dropped to the lower gum, and the middle is humped up toward the palate, and the voice breathed. In tsh the tip is inverted and turned up to the hard palate, and the voice blown. This is a compromise in two points of view,—as to the place of the stop (between the t-stop and the y-stop), and as to the kind of stop (inverted tongue against hard palate—a roundish against a flatish surface: see § 27); but it is not a mechanical result of an attempt to go rapidly through t+y: it is a quite new way to make a sound which the ear will accept as a substitute for the two. The explanation of d+i (soldier) is the same, except that the voice in d and in dzh is breathed instead of blown. The explanation of s+i (pension), and of z+i (grazer), is the same as that of t+i and d+i, except that in these last the stop is not complete either in blowing s and sh, or breathing z and zh. In the change of see to sh, the c goes to h, and only gives strength to the compromise of s+y.

(b.) The English Assibilation of Gutturals, as though dentals, springs from defective articulation. The root of the tongue never works as easily as the more flexible tip. Children say, and Anglo-Saxon children said, tan for can, tin for cin; and chin (tshin) is a not unnatural compromise between tin and cin. When the organs are placed for y, or i, or e, the back of the mouth makes the narrow neck of a bottle, § 22, and it is hard to raise the root to make a c(k) stop. Hence c(k) before y, i, e, is always unstable; and hence a child will learn to say can before cin, and will be more likely to compromise on chin than chan. The most natural result, however, of the difficulty of making this stop is to make an imperfect stop, and give to h aspirate h, ch, instead of c(k), and this tendency has prevailed in the Germanic tongues. From this aspirate a foreign influence easily leads to the assibilated palatals sh, zh, etc. Aphæresis of y takes place in geard > yard, compare § 28; a parasitic d (dj) precedes i, j in Latin words: possibly a guttural y preceded in Italian the present sound of gi as dzh, in gioco < Latin iocus, joke; Giore < Latin Iore, Jove. Latin proper names of this sort alliterate abundantly in Anglo-Saxon poetry with words in y hard. § 28.

35. Assimilation is the act by which letters make each other alike. It includes breaking and unlaut, as well as assibilation. Other changes of this kind are called assimilation in a narrower sense.

(1.) A vowel may assimilate with a vowel. (a.) Umlaut, § 32.

(b.) The vowels become the same: peorod, pered, crowd; pu-dupe, vidua, widow; pelerás, peolorás, Gothic vairilo, lips; nal-lus, nællæs < nealles < ne + ealles, not at all.

(2.) A consonant assimilates a vowel. Consonants of each organ tend to change adjacent vowels to the vowel of that organ.

(a.) Labials put the mouth in such a position that it turns vowel sound to or toward u. The strongest is p. It produces a change of pa, pá, (pe), pi, pi, ap, ip, to o; ô; (po, u); peo; pu, u; eáp; eóp:

epam, epámon > com, cómon, came; Northumbrian posa, Anglo-Saxon pesan, to be; píta > peota, wise man; piht > puht, whit; deáp, dew; treóp, Gothic triva, tree. Compare § 52. Before m (u), sometimes a > o, i > eo; before f (p, b), a > ea, i > eo: camb > comb; him > heom; cafor > Latin aper, boar; gifa > geofa, giver; compare § 32; -am > -um, § 71, b. Note also the diphthongs, § 25.

The gutturals c (sc), g, place the organs so as to call out a parasitic i-sound (breaking, § 33), while h, and the linguals l and r, especially when followed by another consonant, had a burr (ü-sound), which brought a preceding i to eo (§ 23), Northumbrian u: silf > sulf, § 26. For i > eó before h, g, see § 25.

In Latin l brings in u most,—m, b, p, f, sometimes: nebula, νεφέλη; spatula, σπαράλη; Heceuba, Ἑκίβη. The dentals bring in i: machina, μηχανή; Masimssa, Μασανάσσης. The r likes e before it: camera, καμάρα; cucris < cinis.

(3.) A vowel assimilates a consonant. (a.) Assibilation, § 34.

(b.) Between two vowels a surd may change to a sonant, or a mute to a continuous; h > g, s > r, d = p > d, g > p, hp > p, b > f: slóh, slógon, I slew, they slew; ceás, curon, chose; epæd, epædon, quoth; bāgian, bāpian, to dwell; habban, hafad, have, haveth; for seah, sæge, sápe, saw, § 197.

(4.) A consonant assimilates a consonant. This occurs in Anglo-Saxon mainly when, by composition, inflection, or apothesis, two consonants are brought together which can not be easily pronounced in the same syllable. The most common case is the coming together of a surd and sonant. One can not breathe and blow at once.

(a.) When surd and sonant letters are brought together, the surd assimilates the sonant.

.1. If the surd follows the sonant, a gemination of the surd is produced. In this way ff, ss, ss, are sometimes produced from bf, ds, ds: offrian < Latin ob + fero, of-fer; bliss < blids, blids, bliss. And by simplifying gemination (§ 27, 5), dst > st, dst > st: cpūdst > cpīst, quothest; hledst > hlest, loadest.

Exception (1). dp is often written dd, according to the orthographic rule that d is always to be used for p within a word: ōd pe, ēppe, ōdte, or. (2). ndst changes to ntst, according to the analogy of case B, through the influence of the n, which supports the d: gs > cs = x, a favorite letter; ms > ns, § 130, c.

B. If the surd precedes the sonant, the sonant is changed to the nearest surd of its own organ. Thus, to ct, ht, pt, ft? ss, st, st? tt: sōcde > sōcte > sōhte (§ 26), sought; stēpule > stēpte, erected; drīf(e)t > drīft, driveth, § 194; pīsre > pīsse, of this; cysde > cyste, kissed; cj̄sd > cj̄st, chooseth; gr̄tde > gr̄tte, greeted. After this analogy, gs > cs = x, ndst > ntst: agse > axe, ashes; stendst > stentst, standest.

And by simplifying gemination (§ 27, 5), final td > t, std > st: bl̄td > bl̄t, sacrificeth; birstd > birst, bursteth; and after a consonant: ēhtde > ēhte, persecuted.

(b.) An explosive consonant before, and rarely after another consonant, may change to a continuous of the same organ.

1. The explosive is a complete stop, and hence it is not easy to make any sound but s after it in the same syllable. S assimilates back and forth.

2. This rule may indicate Assimilation or Dissimilation, § 36, 3.

gt > ht; gst > hst: belge, bilht, bilht, to be angry; ng stands. cs > hs: ācsie > āhsie, ask; cd > hd: sēcd > sēhd, seeks (Pask). st > ss: piste > pisse, wist. st > sd: ielhesd, eldest (Alfred).

(c.) Before n or m a surd or explosive may change to its cognate nasal; fn > mn, gn > ng, fn > mn: nefne > nemne, unless; stefn > stenn, stem; gefrigan > gefringan, inquire; pifman > pimman, woman. The nasal veil is raised for n, m too soon, §§ 27, 28.

36. Dissimilation.—(1.) A vowel may change to a consonant to avoid the hiatus with another vowel; i > g, u > p: nerian > nergan, to save; lufian > lufigan, lufigan, to love; bealu, genitive bealpes, bealupes, baleful. Compare § 27, 5.

(2.) Between two vowels a continuous sometimes changes to a mute; d > d: prād, pridon, I writhed, they writhed, ? § 35, 3, b.

(3.) The former explosive sometimes changes to a continuous of the same organ. § 35, 4, b, 2. bul > fūl, ct > ht, gt > ht, tt > st: habban, hæfde, have, had; sōcte > sōhte, sought; āgan, āhte, own, owned; mōtde > mōtte > mōste, must; pitte > piste, wist.

(4.) One of two continuous may become explosive; fīd > fīt; sd > st, § 194; ld > ld: beald, Goth. balps, bold; hs > xʔ § 28, h; mm > mb, mp; nn > nd, nt; ss > st, §§ 27, 5; 49; 50.

(5.) The former sonant becomes a surd in dt > (td >) t (§ 35, B) in the third singular of verbs (Conformation): stendd > stent, standeth. See rather § 194, a.

(6.) Successive syllables.—In Latin and English, -al and -ar interchange to keep l or r from successive syllables: stellar, solar, liberal, literal; so coerulean < coelum. The former assibilation is often smoothed in America: pronunciation, § 34. The former aspirate is not smoothed in Teutonic as it is in Greek.

37. Compensation.—(1.) A consonant is dropped and the preceding vowel lengthened at the same time. 1. Before d, f, s, with ecthipsis of n, a change of a, e, i, u, y, to ō, ē, ī, ū, ȳ: tōt, Old II. German zand, Latin dent-is, tooth; sōft, Old II. German snfi, soft; gōs, Old II. German kans, goose; ōter, other; sōd, sooth; hōsu, company; so genēdan, spūd, sūt, fif, ūser, cūde, ūde, mūt, hūsl, ȳd. 2. With ecthipsis of g, mostly before n: pāgn > pān, wain; þegn > þēn, thane; regnig > rēnig, rainy; þign > þīn, food; fāgr > fāer, fair; sāgde > sāde, said; lygd > lūd, lieth; see īdde > eōde, went. 3. With apocope of e, g, h, r: mec > mē, me; þec > þē, thee; hig > heō (?), they; feoh > feō, fee; gē (< ger), ye; mē (< mer), to me; þē (< þer), to thee; pē (< per), we.

(2.) A consonant is doubled and a following vowel dropped at the same time; i is dropped with gemination of a preceding b, c, d, f, g, l, n, s: habian > habban, have; recian > reccan, to rule; bidian > biddan, to bid; speþian > spebban, to sleep; ligian > licgan, to lie; telian > tellan, to tell; fremian > fremman, to frame; clynian > clyman, to clang; enysian > enysan, to knock.

(3.) After a long root syllable neuter -u drops, and i of stem -iu weakens to e, or drops: sēcian > sēcean, sēcan, to seek.

1. Speech naturally runs in pulses; a certain length of time and a certain volume of sound is pleasantest between the pauses or accentual beats. The tendency of speech to preserve this rhythm by lengthening the remaining letters when one is dropped, or shortening all letters when a new letter is added, is called COMPENSATION, and the name is extended to all adjustments of quantity and accent which restore the rhythm after the adding or dropping of letters.

2. In the pronunciation of Latin according to the English method, an accented vowel in any syllable before the penult is shortened in sound, no matter what may have been its original quantity; while such a vowel in the penult has the long sound. The same law prevails in the Romanic portion of English: brief, bríef, brév'-ity; admire, admi-rer, mir'-acle, mirác'-ulous. The whole body of words conform to what was the fact in the larger number of Latin words. It shows that a long accented syllable followed by two unaccented is more than the natural length of the rhythm. This force of compensation is not so plain in the Anglo-Saxon portion of English, and we do not know enough of the pronunciation of Anglo-Saxon to trace its effects with accuracy. A word with an affix sometimes has a lighter vowel than the kindred word without one: þegn, servant, þignen, maid-servant; þera, bear, þiren, bearish; but the change may be (almost) always explained from assimilation of some kind. Unaccented syllables show compensation. § 46.

3. When more voice than two short syllables follows an accented syllable, the old accent often moves forward, or a second accent is given: admíre, admirā-tion; mir'-acle, mirác-ulous; leg'-ible, leg'-ible'-ity. This law is to be seen most clearly in the Romanic portion of English.

4. Compensation acts in connection with Gravitation. § 38.

38. Gravitation is the tendency of sounds to accentual centers. It is seen in the lengthening of accented syllables, and the lightening and final disappearance of unaccented syllables. It goes on in all languages.

A. Vowels.—RULE I. Progression.—Under the accent the simple vowels a, i, u, lengthen by prefixing a and á.

(a.) Accentual effort opens to the a-shape the neck of the bottle shaped for i or u, § 22; too much a weakens to u or i; aaa > aa, á, etc.

RULE II. Precession.—In an unaccented syllable the progression of simple vowels is reversed; also a goes to o, u, or i, then to ě; i goes to ě; u to o and ě; ě disappears.

(1.) In the Parent Speech were the following series:

a, a + a = á, á + a = áa. i, ai, ái. u, au, áu.

In Anglo-Saxon the following series are found:

	Descending.	Ist term.	Ascending.
a -series:	ě i, u	a, æ, o	â, â', ê	ô
i -series:	ě	i	î	â
u -series:	ě o	u	eô, û	eâ

ASCENDING:  $\sqrt{nam}$  > nâmon, they took;  $\sqrt{bróder}$  (Sanskrit bhrátâ, Latin fráter), brother;  $\sqrt{læg}$  > lâgon, lêgon, they lay;  $\sqrt{scân}$  > shone;  $\sqrt{scîn}$  > scân, shine, shone;  $\sqrt{lug}$  > léogan, lây, lie, lied;  $\sqrt{suc}$  > sûcan, scâc, suck, sucked;  $\sqrt{scîn}$  > shine (English î = á + î);  $\sqrt{mûs}$  > mouse (English ou = á + u).

DESCENDING:  $\sqrt{luf} > luf' \acute{o}de, luf' \acute{a}de, luf' \acute{u}de, luf' \acute{e}de$ , loved;  $p\acute{u}dgal > p\acute{u}dgil, p\acute{u}dgel$ , wide spread; landsceap, landsceipe, landscape; Aprīlis > A'prelis, April; (Gothic marci, Old H. German marī) mere, mere (sea); (Sanskrit madhu) meodu > meodo > Old English mēdē > mead. Here also belong many forms of verbs now accented, but formerly unaccented: binde, bunden <  $\sqrt{band}$ , bind, bound; for a fuller explanation of which, see Ablaut, 158; also nearly all the affixes of declension and conjugation, for which see Etymology, as referred to in the Index.

(2.) The changes in the Anglo-Saxon series may be compared with Rules I. and II. and changes in other languages given on page 8, § 18:  $a > w, o$ , lautverschiebung as in Greek and Latin;  $\acute{a} > \acute{a}', \acute{e}$ , same;  $\acute{a}u > \acute{a}u$  (Rule I.) >  $\acute{o}$  (Greek and Latin);  $\acute{a}i > \acute{i}$ , Rule I. (Latin):  $\acute{a}i > \acute{a}$ , Rule I. (Greek);  $\acute{a}u > \acute{a}$  (Rule I., Latin);  $\acute{a}u > \acute{i}u$  (Rule I. Greek  $\epsilon\omega$ ) >  $\acute{e}\acute{o}$  by  $a$ -umlaut in stems of verbs and nouns, and by conformation elsewhere (§ 32, 40), Sanskrit has  $\acute{o}$ , Friesic  $\acute{i}u$ ;  $\acute{a}u > \acute{a}' > \acute{a}' > \acute{a}$  metathesis to breaking to conform with  $\acute{e}\acute{o}$  (Friesic  $\acute{a}$ ). The descending series already shows itself in Sanskrit in changing  $a$  to  $u$  and  $i$ ;  $i$  and  $u$  to  $\acute{e}$  was not yet in Gothic. See § 23. e. In Latin and the Romanic part of English,  $a$  in open syllables goes to  $i$ ; before  $r$ , to  $e$ ; in close syllables, to  $e$ ; before  $l$ , to  $u$ ;  $e$  often goes to  $i$ , but before  $r$  or in close syllables it remains; facio, efficio, efficient; pater, Jupiter; pario, aperio, aperiēt; damno, condemno, condemn; salto, exulto, exult; lego, diligo, diligent; infero, infer; correctum, correct. (Latin accent originally on the prefix. § 41, 4.)

(3.) The changes from Anglo-Saxon to English take a new start, and are wholly analogous to the original series of the Parent Speech.

(4.) The first lengthening of  $i$  and  $u$  by progression is called guna (masculine strength), a term of Sanskrit grammar; the second is called vriddhi (feminine increment).

(5.) The various kinds of assimilation and sound-shifting work together with progression; the result of the whole upon the vowel system of the Anglo-Saxon is shown in the summary on page 7.

B. From Gravitation also springs (a) the gemination of a consonant ending an accented syllable: the common cases have been mentioned under Compensation (§ 37); (b) also the dropping of consonants in unaccented syllables, and some weakenings, § 41, b.

39. Ablaut.—See Etymology.

40. Mimetic Changes are those occurring through the influence of other words. § 158.

1. Conformation.—The words of all languages show a disposition to conform in inflection to the majority. The Anglo-Saxon nouns have gone over to a single declension in English; and the strong verbs, one after another, go over to the inflection of the weak.

2. Simulation.—The feigning a connection with words of similar sound is an important fact in English and other modern languages: asparagus > sparrow grass. It probably had just as full play in ancient speech, but its effects can not be so surely traced. See carc-ern, § 229; frā, § 254.

3. Bifurcation is the separation of a word into two: borne, born; truth, troth; wake, watch; flour, flower; balsam, balm. There are hundreds of words in English produced by this kind of fissiparous generation. Where it is produced by a foreign word coming into English in different ways, it has been called DIMORPHISM: ration, reason.

4. The law of contrast also operates to sunder different words of similar sound, especially if one of the words have odious associations: grocer < grosser; cucumber < cowcumber; boil < bile.

41. Shifting (Lautverschiebung) is a change of sound not due to other sounds in the language. Changes in climate or modes of life, mixing nations of different stocks, ease of utterance, and more obscure causes, affect the adjustment of the vocal organs to the mind, and so shift the speech of nations. The current corresponding sounds in several of the Indo-European languages are given on page 8.

(1.) VOWELS.—There was a gradual weakening of the vowels in the ancient languages. The Sanskrit a shifts to a, ε, o, in Greek, and to a, e, i, o, u, in Latin; u shifts to o; i to ē. Ease of utterance and consonant assimilation work together for close vowels.

This movement is modified by assimilation, compensation, and gravitation, but in long periods the shifting is plain; a weakened vowel can seldom be found in Sanskrit where the full form is in Greek or Latin. The short vowels are not found to shift in comparing one Teutonic tongue with another. The movement of the long vowels is found on page 8. Within the Anglo-Saxon we have referred to this shifting in speaking of a > æ, a > o, ā > iū.

Mixed vowels and breakings shift to their latter element; diphthongs eā, eó, and all whose former vowel is long, shift to their former vowel: ē (a+i) > i; ō (a+u) > ú; ý (u+i) > i; x > e; ā > ē; ea > a; eā > ā; eo > o u; eó > ó > ú; diphth. eā > ē, etc.: tēd > teeth (ee=i); tōd > tooth (oo=ú); hýran > hear (ea=i); āfen > ēfen, even-ing: cealf > calf; speorne > spurn; secōlu > shool, shoal; beām > beam; beó > bee; eo < i, ea, are in unstable equilibrium, and often shift to e, §§ 203, 204, 33.

(2.) CONSONANTS TO VOWELS.—In the table, j > i, v > u, are noted in Anglo-Saxon; they occur also in Sanskrit, Greek, Latin, etc.: l > u and l > i are common in the Romanic languages: Latin collum > French col > cou, neck; Latin planus > Italian piano, plane. Compare § 35, 2, b. The movement is sometimes reversed, as when a nation moves northward, or northern peoples mix with a vowel-speaking race: Anglo-Saxon g < i. § 34.

(3.) CONSONANTS TO CONSONANTS.—Regular shifting is to weaker consonants: gutturals to palatals, labials, dentals; smooth to middle; rough to middle. Surd to sonant, mute to continuous, § 35, 3, b.

A. Shifting to a co-ordinate consonant.—(a.) One smooth mute to another: λύκος, Latin lupus, wolf. (b.) One middle to another: γλυκύς (metathesis), Latin dulcis, sweet. (c.) Rough to rough. (d.) Spirant to spirant: geseah, gesehen, saw, seen (§ 35, 3, b); ἡμι, Latin semi. (e.) Liquid to liquid: Latin asinus, Gothic asilus, Anglo-Saxon esol, ass; German kind, Anglo-Saxon cild, child; Latin prunum, Anglo-Saxon phuma, plum. (f.) Nasal to nasal: dative -um to -on. These shiftings are occasional, or dialectic.

B. Shifting to another consonant of the same class:

(a.) Grimm's Law, lautverschiebung by eminence (see § 19). With the progress of the Teutonic tribes northwestward they came to use for each smooth mute the corresponding rough, for a rough the corresponding middle, for a middle the corresponding smooth. This first shift is believed to have been completed during the third century; and here the Gothic, the Anglo-Saxon and other Low Germanic, and the Scandinavian languages rested.

The High German went on, and shifted in the same way a second time; so that since the seventh century it stands in the same relation to the other Teutonic languages that they do to the rest of the Indo-European family.

GUTTURALS: k (c) > ch (h) > g? (h): Lat. caput, A.-Sax. heafod, head, O. H. Ger. houpit; ch (h) > g > k: Lat. homo, A.-Sax. guma, man, O. H. Ger. komo; g > k (c) > ch (h): Lat. ego, A.-Sax. ic, I, O. H. Ger. ih. — DENTALS: t > th, dh > d: Lat. tres, A.-Sax. þrī, three, O. H. Ger. dri; d > t > th? (z): Lat. dentis, A.-Sax. tōd, tooth, O. H. Ger. zand; th (Lat. f) > d > t: θήρ, Lat. fera, A.-Sax. deór, deer > O. H. Ger. tior. — LABIALS: p > f > b? (f): Lat. pedis, A.-Sax. fōt, foot, O. H. Ger. fuoz; b > p > f: Lat. cannabis, A.-Sax. henep, hemp, O. H. Ger. hanaf; f > b > p: Lat. frater, A.-Sax. bráder, brother, O. H. Ger. pruoder.

(a.) The change of rough mutes to middle is a regular weakening in Bactrian, Slavonic, Lithuanic, Celtic, and not infrequent in Greek and Latin. That of smooth to rough (the use of parasitic h) is occasional in Sanskrit, Persian, Greek, Latin, and abundant in Old Irish. That of middle to smooth is a strengthening peculiar to the Teutonic, and an enigma. Americans seem to hear foreigners use it freely in talking English. Germans and Celts use more surd breath and less sonant than we. Their g, b, d are heard as k, p, t, their k, p, t as aspirates. "K(h)ill the boys," says Fluellen (Ilen. V., iv., 7). This suggests the hypothesis that Celts adopted the speech of invading Teutons, that their Celtic pronunciation of it as heard by the Teutons became current, and that climatic influences and aliteration made the change thorough. The Teutonic instinct for preserving distinctions helped, since, when the rough weakened to middle, they would incline to change the old middles to preserve the correlation. There are many exceptions to Grimm's Law: 1. A letter is often fixed by combination with another: d in nd, ld; t in st, ht, ft. 2. Rough kh, ph, often early changed to continuous h, f, and rested, § 27, 2. The whole shifting of the High German gutturals and labials is thus disturbed. The corresponding letters, as oftenest found, may be seen in § 19.

(b.) Other cases of shifting may be i > g, h > g, strengthenings in Anglo-Saxon and elsewhere; g > h, d > s, s > r, d > l, b > f > v, common weakenings. Most of the cases in Anglo-Saxon have been referred to in §§ 35, 36.

(4.) ACCENT.—There are three systems of accentuation: 1st, the grammatical, in which the accent is given to that syllable which last modifies the general notion, i. e., to the affixes and prefixes of inflection; 2d, the rhythmical, in which the accented syllable is determined by the number and quantity of the syllables in the word; 3d, the logical, in which the accented syllable is the first of those expressing the main notion, i. e., the root syllable or a prefix of composition defining it. The earliest Indo-European languages are least straitened by any one system; but the first is in its greatest vigor; the Sanskrit acute may be given to any part of a word. The Greek and Latin came under the rhythmical influence, and in the classical time used the acute only on one of the three last syllables. The Teutonic languages became altogether logical, § 15. This shifting of accent is a fundamental fact in the explanation of ABLAUT and many other phonetic facts in Anglo-Saxon and all other Indo-European languages.

FIGURATION.

42. The dropping of sounds is mostly connected with gravitation (§ 38). Adding of sounds without change of sense is rare; but the shifting of accent (§ 41, 4), or the handing over a word to a race with different habits of speech, or even the bringing together by syncope or ecthipsis of difficult combinations of letters occasionally calls for euphonic additions. Prosthesis is mostly gemination (§ 27, 4), or parasitic (§ 33), or conformation with similar words in which the added letter is significant. Metathesis is mostly euphonic and dialectic.

43. Aphæresis is found of unaccented e, ge; of e in en; of h in hl, hm, hr, and elsewhere; of p in pl, pr, pu: bisceop < Lat. episcopus, bishop; pistol < Lat. epistola, epistle; gelic > like; g-látóid > yelawl > clad; eneó > knee; hláf > loaf; huappung >napping; hræfn > raven (§ 31); ymn < Lat. hymnus, hymn; plisp > lisp; prōtan, root; pultor > ultor, vulture.

44. Apocope is found of all syllables of inflection. The vowels go to ë and drop; e and r in the pronouns, and g, h, m, n, s, may drop. See Declension and Conjugation.

45. Elision is found of the stem vowel e, i, and of final e when two words are drawn together: sēcean > sēcan, seek; pergian > pergan, damn; clynian > clynnan, clang; bātan < be + ātan, but; nān < ne + ān, none; nabban < ne + habban, not have; næs < ne + pæs, was not.

47. Ecthlipsis is found of d, d, s, st, before st; of n before d, f, s; of d, g, h, i, p, mostly between vowels or before a liquid: hle(d)st, loadest; epi(d)st, quothest; cy(s)st, choolest; bir(st)st, burstest; for n, g, § 37; feóper (Gothic fidvor), four; þegn > þēn, thane; freógan > freón, to love; teóhan > teón, tug; ner(i)est, savest; nillan > ne + pillan, to be unwilling. Mostly assimilation and gemination.

48. Prothesis is found of h, i consonant (y), and p by blunder (§ 31). Apparent prothesis of b, g, ge, n, s, is found in Anglo-Saxon or English, but probably springs from conformation with the many words beginning with be-, by-, ge-, together, ān, an, ās, out: meltan, smeltan, melt, smelt; nadder, adder; Ned, Edward; Nanny, Anna. So in the French: espace < Lat. spatium, space; conforming with words beginning with Latin ex: éclore, exclure < Lat. exclaudio, excludo, exclude. Real prothesis is pretty common in Greek: ὄφρυς (Sanskrit bhrā), brow; ἀστήρ, star.

50. Epenthesis is found of a vowel between two consonants, e. g., e before r; e, o, u, before m, n, p: of g, n, p, between vowels; of d after n, l (especially followed by l or r); of t after s; of n before g, s, d; of l between a consonant and following ë; of r before s, th, p, and after t, d, g; of b between m and l, r, or a short vowel; of p between m and n, s, or t: meter < Lat. metrum, meter; bōsom < bōsm, bosom; glisnian > glisten; beal(o)-pes, bale's; meoluc < meole, milk (Latin milgeo, Greek ἀμέλω, Sanskrit mṛj'); luſi(g)an, love; giſe(n)ā, gifts'; bāan > bāgan, bāpan, inhabit (§§ 221, 224, e); ſunor > ſunder, thunder; bal(d)-sum, balsam; glisnian > glisten; nihtegale, nightingale; e(n)-sample; Sarmende < Lat. Sarmate; myrt(l)e; cāde > could; hās, hoarse; ſpatu > swarth; co(r)poral < French caporal < cap, chief; cart(r)idge; part(r)idge; chal(d)ron; brȳdguma > bridegroom; timber (Gothic timrjan), timber; nēmol > nimble; scolimbos < Lat. scolymos, a thistle; nemne > nempne (Chaucer), name; glim(p)se; emtiȳ > empty. § 27, 5, 33.

51. Metathesis is found of hp > wh, sp > ps, gn > ng, ns > sn, se > x, ſy > x; of a vowel with a following l or r when a mute precedes; of a vowel with a preceding l or r when a mute precedes: hpit, white (graphic only); pæspe, pæpse, wasp; ſegn, ſeng, thane; clēnsian, clēsnian, cleanse; fiſc > fiſ, fish; āscian, āxian, ask; are (Gothic azgō), ashes; beorht, bryht, bright; idel, idle (graphic); græs, gærs, grass; ōsle, ousel (rare); so irnan, rinnan, run.

CONTRACTION.

52. In the Teutonic languages the hiatus is not generally avoided by contraction, but by elision or epenthesis; or it stands.

(1.) Synæresis is found in Anglo-Saxon after ecthipsis of g or h, and the assimilation of p to u.

When unlike vowels meet, a mixed sound is produced in which the open vowel predominates: á, o, ó, with another vowel become ō; u, e, lengthen the preceding vowel; i drops; a+a=á; u+a=o; i+a=eó (i breaks): fáhan > fón, take; gefeohan > gefeón, rejoice; gefeoh > gefeó; teóhan > teón, tug; freógan > freón, love; epánon > euámon > cómon, come; fæger > fêr, fair; sápl > sául, soul; epic > cuic > cuc, quick; ſleahan > ſleán, slay; epam > com > cóm, come; ſihan > ſeón, grow.

(2.) The reduplication contracts with the root of verbs; ê+á, ê+eá, ê+ó, give eó, which shifts to ē; ê+a, ê+ea, ê+ê, conform. See Inflection, § 159.

(3.) For traces of synæresis, synalæpha, and other contractions in Anglo-Saxon poetry, see §§ 509, 510.

PART II.

ETYMOLOGY.

I. DEFINITIONS.

53. Etymology treats of the structure and history of words. It includes classification, inflection, and derivation.

54. A Word is an elementary integer of speech. It has a mixed nature: it is thought on one side, and sound on the other.

55. Notional and Relational.—An analysis of the words of the Indo-European languages gives two kinds of significant sounds: (1) those connoting qualities: e. g., of acts, as eat, sit, go, know, love; of substances, as wet, red, quick; (2) those connoting relations: e. g., of space, time, subject, object; as here, there, then, me, he. The first are called notional; the second, relational.

56. Radicles are elementary relational parts of words. They are generally single sounds—oftenest a consonant sound. The labials connote subjective relations oftenest; the dentals, objective and demonstrative; the gutturals, interrogative; the nasals often connote negation; the vowels, oftenest simple limitation. Radicles are found (1) as the essential part of words which denote relation (prepositions and adverbs): u-p, up; b-î, by; o-f, of; m-id, with; w-t, at; t-ô, to; î-êr, there; î-ænne, then; sp-â, so; hp-êr, where; hp-ænne, when; (2) of words which denote persons or things directly as having the relation connoted by the radicle (substantive pronouns): m-ê, me; î-û, thou; h-ê, he; s-êô, she; (3) of words which define, as having certain relations, objects denoted by other words (adjective pronouns): m-în, mine; î-în, thine; î-et, that; sp-îlc, such; hp-ut, what; (4) united to roots to form stems, see § 58; (5) united to stems of nouns or pronouns as factors of relation (case-endings or adverbial affixes): smides, smith's; leafás, leaves; hîm, him; î-êr, there; îannan, thence; see § 60; (6) united to stems of verbs as factors of relation (inflection endings): eam, am; lufiast, lovest; lufia-ð, loveth.

57. A Root is an elementary notional syllable. A few are formed by onomatopoe from noises; hring, ring; hás, hoarse; a few from sounds naturally expressive of feeling: hleah-tor, laughter; póp, whoop; or vocal gesture: st, whist; sta-nd; some are a growth from the radicles, and descriptive primarily of being or motion in the direction or mode connoted by the radicle: imian, to go in; útian, to put out; yp-pan, to open (=raise up); far-an, to fare (=go forth); most roots are the expression of an adjustment of the mind and vocal organs to each other, according to which the mind in a certain state tends to put the vocal organs in a given state.

The diffusion of the roots and radicles through all the Indo-European languages, and their perpetuation from the earliest ages through such complete changes of the superficial appearance of these languages, show that there must be some stable adjustment of mind to organs in this family of nations. A comparison with other races shows that it is an extension and modification of a less definite adjustment belonging to the original constitution of man.

58. A Stem is that part of a noun to which the historical case-endings, or of a verb to which the personal endings and tense signs were affixed. Sometimes it is a root, but generally it is formed from the root by one or more relational suffixes:  $\sqrt{man}$ , think > stem man, man;  $\sqrt{su}$ , bear > stem su-nu, son;  $\sqrt{luf}$ , stem lufia > lufian, to love, lufigende, lover. For case-endings, see § 60.

II. CLASSIFICATION.

59. The parts of speech are the Noun (Adjective), Pronoun (Article, Numeral), Verb, Adverb, Preposition, Conjunction, and Interjection.

DECLENSION.

60. A noun has different forms (cases) in different relations in the sentence. The variable final letters of a noun are its case-endings; the rest is its theme.

61. The case-endings in Anglo-Saxon mark the relations of (1.) Six cases: nominative, genitive, dative, accusative, vocative, instrumental.

(2.) Three numbers: singular (one object), plural (more than one), dual (two).

(3.) Three genders: masculine, feminine, neuter.

62. In the Parent Speech there is only one set of case-endings, as follows :

	SINGULAR.	PLURAL	DUAL.	ENGLISH EQUIVALENT.
Nominative . . . .	s	sas	sâs	—Nominative (no sign).
Vocative . . . . . (Stem)
Accusative . . . . .	am	ams		—Nominative Independent.
Genitive . . . . .	as	sâms	aus	—Objective (no sign).
Locative . . . . .	i	svas		—Possessive 's, or of with the objective.
Dative . . . . .	ai	bhjams	bhjâms	— in with the objective.
Ablative . . . . .	at			— to or for with the objective.
Instrumental (1)	â	bhis		— from or out of with objective.
Instrumental (2)	bhi			— by or with with objective.

63. The endings are formed from the radicles (§ 56), and are plainly connected with pronouns and prepositions in Sanskrit and other languages.

(a.) The nominative s is connected with the demonstrative and article: Sanskrit sa, sâ, tat; Greek ὁ, ἡ, τό; Anglo-Saxon se, seô, þæt. It is used only with masculine and feminine nouns, and is a quasi article, as if, in Anglo-Saxon, se cyning (the king) were written cyning-se > cynings. (For the use of the article to mark a subject, see Greek Grammars: Crosby, § 487, 4; Hadley, § 535.) A neuter t (tat) is early found.

(b.) The accusative m appears in the Sanskrit mâm, mâ, me; ama, this, etc.; a vivid conception of any suffering object is expressed by the same sound which is used for one's self as suffering object.

(c.) The genitive s is connected with the demonstrative sa, Anglo-Saxon se, and the common suffix of adjectives from substantives. Prepositions and adverbs of this radicle oftenest mean with, together: Sanskrit sahâ, sam, sa, etc., corresponding in use with Greek σύν, Latin con, Anglo-Saxon ge. So the genitive s marks a personal adjunct, then any adjunct. The original form was perhaps sam, which shows in the plural.

(d.) The locative i appears as in in the pronoun (Sanskrit tasm-in, in that), and is connected with the preposition in; the plural svas is formed on another pronoun: Sanskrit sva, Latin sê, Greek ἐ, self.

(e.) The dative ai is connected with abhi, by, as appears from the pronoun, Sanskrit tu-bhjam, Latin ti-bi, to thee, and from the plural bhjams.

(f.) The ablative t is connected with the demonstrative ta, the, and its force in prepositions and adverbs may be seen in Sanskrit, Gothic, Anglo-

Saxon út, out of; the Umbrian tu, to, out of; Latin -tus (caelitus, from heaven). Variations of the dental radicle are also found in Latin -de, unde, whence; máe, thence; Greek -θιρ, from, etc.

(g.) The instrumental á is from the demonstrative radicle a, and bhi from the labial radicle: Sanskrit bhi; Greek -φι; Anglo-Saxon bi, by (§ 63, e).

(h.) The plural sign is s, and is to be connected in sense with the preposition sam, together with, mentioned in connection with the genitive. This is strengthened by insertion of the pronominal am in the genitive sáms, and the dative and ablative bhjáms. The dual is a lengthening of the plural.

(i.) This account is provisional; the plural most doubtful.

64. Phonetic Decay.—Sounds whose meaning is not vividly felt come under the influence of gravitation (§ 38): they weaken, blend, and at last slough away. When tribes speaking different dialects mix, the case-endings are half caught, and decay is quickened. By this process the Indo-European languages have been losing their inflections. As it goes on, diversity of declension arises, two causes of which may be mentioned:

(1.) Different Endings of the Stem.—Some stems end in a vowel, others in a consonant. Under the operation of euphonic laws each stem has its own effect on the endings. The Comparative Grammarians discuss the effect of many different stems (Schleicher gives fifteen sets of paradigms). In the Teutonic languages the vowel stems have held the original case-endings most firmly, and are called strong; the stems in n are called weak; other consonant stems conform (§ 40), or are irregular.

(2.) Gender.—(a.) Names applied to females use long vowels and liquids; they melt away the strong consonant endings, and attain vowel or liquid endings. Again, all words having such endings tend to assume the habits of feminine names throughout, and become grammatically of the feminine gender.

(b.) The separation of neuter from masculine is not so thorough-going. No special form is needed to distinguish inanimate things as acting, or as addressed; hence the nominative and vocative are not distinguished from the accusative. We take inanimate things in the lump; hence neuters tend to use no plural sign, or to use an ending like the feminine singular, as an abstract or collective form: Greek, Latin, -a; Anglo-Saxon, -u, etc. Latin neuters plural frequently become feminine singular in the Romance languages; Greek neuters plural take a singular verb. The neuter is a masculine with the activity out; the Sanskrit grammarians call it klíva, eunuch.

(c.) Gender has two aspects: (1) it represents a tendency to use different sounds for relations to males from those used for similar relations to females, or to inanimate things; (2) it represents the tendency to couple together words (nouns, adjectives, and pronouns) agreeing in their terminations. From the first point of view there can be but three genders; many languages have but two; some have none. From the second point of view there may be as many genders as there are sets of terminations; some languages have none; some, e. g., the Congoes and Caffirs, have many.

(d.) There was originally no sound as a sign of gender in the Indo-European Parent Speech. It is denoted, however, in the earliest remains by long vowels, especially  $\acute{a}$ ,  $j\acute{a} > \acute{i}$ , for feminine nouns; by  $-t$  in the nominative for some neuters, and indirectly by other case-endings. It has been a constant force, showing itself more and more through all the changes of the language, and in the Anglo-Saxon affords a natural subdivision of the case-endings.

65. There are two classes of Declensions of Anglo-Saxon nouns:

(1) Strong: those which have sprung from vowel stems.

(2) Weak: that which has sprung from stems in an.

There are four declensions distinguished by the endings of the Genitive Singular:

Declension 1.	Declension 2.	Declension 3.	Declension 4.
es	e	a	an

A few masculines of Decl. 1st have some forms from i-stems or u-stems, §§ 86, 93.

67. Gender. General rules. For particulars, see §§ 268–270.

1. Strong nouns. All masculines are of the first or third declension; all feminines of the second or third; all neuters of the first.

2. Abstract Nouns have their gender governed by the terminations. In derivatives the feminine gender prevails.

3. Compound Nouns follow the gender of the last part.

4. MASCULINE are names of males; of the moon; of many weeds, flowers, winds; man, guma, man; pēland; mōna, moon; mear, horse; þorn, thorn; blōstma, blossom; pind, wind.

5. FEMININE are names of females; of the sun; of many trees, rivers, soft and low musical instruments: cpēn, queen; cū, cow; Ælf-þryde; sunnu, sunne, sun; âc, oak; Danubie, Danube; hpistle, whistle; hearpe, harp.

6. NEUTER are names of wife, child; diminutives; many general names; and words made an object of thought: pif, wife; bearn, cild, child; mæġden, maiden; græs, grass; ofet, fruit; corn, corn; gold, gold.

7. Epicene Nouns have one grammatical gender, but are used for both sexes. Such names of mammalia are masculine, except of a few little timid ones: mūs, mouse (feminine); large and fierce birds are masculine; others feminine, especially singing birds: nihtegale, nightingale; large fishes are masculine, small feminine; insects are feminine.

68. Cases alike.—(1.) The nominative and vocative are always alike.

(2.) The nominative, accusative, and vocative are alike in all plurals, and in the singular of all neuters and strong masculines.

(3.) The genitive plural ends always in â or enâ.

(4.) The dative and instrumental plural end always in um (on) (an). Instrumentals are etymologically datives, except -ē, -ŷ.

DECLENSION I.

Stem in a. Genitive singular in es.

69. Here belong Masculines,—monosyllables, derivatives in l, m, n, r, p > u > o, els, rd, d, d, t, nd, st, oc, h, ng, e, ere; Neuters,—monosyllables, often with be- or ge- prefixed, derivatives in l, n, r, p > u > o, d, t, h, e, inle.

The Old High German has wulf, wulfes, wulfa, wulf, wulfu; wulfá, wulfò, wulfum, wulfá. The Old Friesic has fisk, fisk-is (-es), fisk-a (-i, -e), fisk; fisk-ar (-a), fiska, fisk-um (-on, -em), fisk-ar (-a).

For Parent speech, add the endings in § 62 to the stem.

71. Changes in Endings, §§ 38, 64. (a.) The stem-vowel -a in Gothic and Anglo-Saxon does not blend with the terminations as in Latin and Greek, but drops. This declension is thus become analogous to the Latin and Greek consonant declension (Third); compare the singular genitive and plural nominative, and see πομεν, homen, § 95, a, and proper names, § 101, b.

(b.) Case-endings. For original forms, see § 62.

Singular.—Nominative -s is weathered, §§ 62, 64. Genitive -as > -es, precession, § 38. Dative -ai > -a > -e, precession, § 38; sometimes -e > —; hám, home; dæg, day. Accusative -am > —, §§ 62, 64. Instrumental -á > é, § 18, or a-bhí > Lithuanic, Slavonic -a-mi > O. H. G. -ú, Goth. é (in hvé, své, þé, hvadré, etc.) > A. S. -é, -ý, -í, §§ 62, 63, 251, II., b.

Plural.—Nominative a-s(a)s > -ás has farther precession to -as > -es > -s in late A.-Saxon and English. Genitive -(s)ám(s) > -á, § 64. Dative -bhja(m)s > -mjas > -mus > -mr > -m; bh > m nasalizing the labial as in Lith. and Slav. -mus, -mu; -am > -um, labial assimilation, § 35, 2, a; precession to -on, -en is found. Accusative -ans > -ás, compensation, § 37.

(c.) This declension has best preserved the original case-endings, and has transmitted to English the possessive and plural signs.

72. Neuters differ from masculines in this declension in having no proper plural sign, § 64. Their plural ending is -a in Sanskrit, Greek, Latin, and Gothic; -u in O. Sax., O. Fries., and A.-Sax.; — in O. H. Ger. and O. Nor.

(a.) The earlier -a is sometimes found in A.-Sax. (North.); -o is common; sometimes the -u drops, precession, § 38; fútera (u), wings; brimo (u), waters; gebedu, gebed, prayers. For -ra, -ru, in wgra, eggs, see § 82.

74. (1. Common forms.) Like pulf decline strong masculines not hereafter otherwise described: át, oath; dæl, part; stân, stone; cyung, king; récels, frankincense; hláford, lord; snáp, snow, etc. Like scip decline strong neuters not hereafter otherwise described: col, coal; dor, door; geat, gate; gebod, bebod, bidding; gebed, prayer; gebrec, crash; gemet, measure; gefeoh, fight, etc.

(a.) Derivatives in -ad, -ed, -els sometimes drop plural -ás: mónad, months; hæled, heroes; *fætel*s, hags; so those in -r and -nd, §§ 87, 100.

(b.) For datives in -á, genitives in -aná, see §§ 93, 94, 88, c. Gen. -aná is found.

(c.) Stem -e- is sometimes inserted conforming with stems in -ia: fiscéas < fiscás, fishes, § 85.

(d.) Themes in -sc may suffer metathesis, especially in the plural: fisc, fiscás > fiscás, fishes; tusc, tuscás, tusks, § 51.

75. (2. Long monosyllables, neuter, § 37, 3.) Like pard decline neuter monosyllables long by nature or position: bân, bone; bearn, infant; fjyr, fire; gód, good; hors, horse; leáf, leaf; leót, song; speord, sword; piíf, wife, etc.

76. (3. Shifting, §§ 23, 41.) Like dæg or fæt decline monosyllables with root w < a before a single consonant:—masculine hpæl, whale; mæg, son; pæd, path; staf, staff:—neuter bæc, back; bæd, bath; fæc, space; fræd, fringe; blæd, blade; cwæt, cart. So sometimes before sc, st: æsc, ash; gæst, guest.

(a.) The shifting of a to w is stopped in the plural by the assimilating force of the á or u of the ending, § 35, 1.

77. (4. U-umlaut, § 32, 3.) Like hlid decline brim, water; gehlid, inclosure; lim, limb, etc. This umlaut is only occasional.

78. (5. Gemination, § 27, 5.) Stems having gemination simplify it according to Rule 13, § 20; bil, billes, ax, etc.

79. (6. Syncope, § 46, 37.) Syncopated may be words ending in an unaccented short vowel before a single consonant:—masculine engel, angel; ealdor, elder; dryhten, lord; mónad, month; heorot, stag, etc.;—neuter setel, throne; yfel, evil; beácen, sign; tácen, token; leder, leather; pundor, wonder, etc.;—masc. and neut. heafod, head; segen, sign, etc.

80. (7-8. Stems in -ga and -ha.) For g > h and h > g, see §§ 41, 3, b, 118. For ecthipsis of h, see § 47. For contraction hóás > hós, see § 52. Like mearh decline feorh, plur. neut. feorh, beings, etc. Like hóh decline feóh, n. fee, pl. n. feó; hreóh, pleóh, etc.; and with a similar contraction, stems in a long vowel: eá, eás, river; sê, sêas, sea, etc. See § 100.

81. (9. Stems in -pa.) Like bearu decline calu, n., ale; mealu, n., meal, etc. Like cneóp decline treóp, n., tree; heóp, m., servant, etc.

(a.) After a consonant p final shifts to u > o; and before a vowel may have quasi-gemination in up; this u may then have precession to o > e. Similar are Sanskrit sunaves < sumu, son; O. H. Ger. palaves < palu, bale.

82. (10. Stems strengthened by -er, § 228.) Like æg decline ccalf, calf; culd, child; lamb, lamb.

(a.) A similar interchange of stem -a with -era is found in O. H. Ger. -ira, kelb, kelb-ir, calf, O. Fris. kinl-er-a, children, horn-ar, horns. The -er sometimes comes into the singular: lumber, a lamb.

When a single short syllable precedes the stem -ja, Gothic masculines follow harja, otherwise hairdja. The O. H. German has hirti, hirtes, hirta, hirti, hirtu; hirtā, hirtō, hirtum, hirtā; neuter kunni, kunnies (kunnes), kunne (kunne), kunni, kunnu (kunnu); kunni, kunnjō (kunneō, kunno), kunnum (kunnum), kunni. The O. Friesic retains of this declension only a nominative e < ja. For changes in endings, see §§ 71, 72, 85.

84, a. The comparative grammar of the i-stems is reserved for the feminine forms, §§ 88, 89. The plural -ās conforms with the a-stems.

85. (Stem in ia.)—Like hirde decline masculines in -e and -ere: bere, barley; ele, oil; ege, awe; ende, end; mêce, sword; spenge, sponge; freond-scipe, friendship; fiscere, fisher; huntere, hunter.

Like rice decline strong neuters in -e and diminutives in -incke: pîte, punishment; yrfe, heritage; lidincke, a little joint; râpincke, a little rope, etc. Most neuters originally in ia conform with pord, or are now masculine.

(a.) The -e of the singular nominative, accusative, and vocative is by precession from -ia. In the earlier forms a stem -e<-i is occasionally found elsewhere: hirdeâs > hirdâs, hirdeâ > hirdâ, hirdeum > hirdum; mêceâ > mêcâ, etc. The i has sometimes a quasi-gemination to ig, ige, the g or ge representing an opening of the organs from the i-position (§ 28, 2; 27, 5): here (Gothic harjis), herigâs, herigeâs, hergâs, etc., hosts.

(b.) Many words originally in -ia, which have dropped the nominative -e, and ære declined like pulf, are seen to have i-umlaut or other assimilation when compared with other languages: rêc < rêce (Old H. German rouch), smoke; so some i-stems: gast, gest, gyst, gist; plur. gystâs, giestâs, etc.; gastâ, etc., guest (Gothic gasts; plur. gasteis, § 89).

86. (Stem in i. §§ 89–91.)—Few remains are found of masculines in -i. Byre; bite, bite; dryre, fall; hete, hate; sele, hall, occur; cyme, coming, has a plural; some ia-stems conform: pine, friend; hæle, man; hyge, mind; mere, sea. Like byre decline leôde, men, and compounds of -pare (called by Grein fem. plur. of leôd, people, paru, state, but which seem quasi-adjectives like Latin Romani): burh-pare, citizens; Cant-pare, Kentish folks; names of peoples: Deue, Danes; Rómâne, Romans.

Umlaut.—Like fôt decline tôd; from old u-stems, § 91, C.

The Gothic has brôpar, brôpr-s, brôpr, brôpar; plur. (like u-stems) brôpju-s, brôpr-ê, brôpr-u-m, brôpr-u-ns. The other Teutonic tongues show peculiar forms (often undeclined) in their r- and nd-stems. See § 100, f.

Accusative . . . . .	áçvâ-s	χῶρα-ç	equâ-s	gibō-s	gēbâ	gíafa-r

The Old High German has gēba, gēbō (â), gēbō (u), gēba, gēba; gēbō (â), gēbânô, gēbôm, gēbô (â). The O. Friesic has sing. jeve; plur. jeva, jevenâ (jevâ), jevum (on), jeva.

(b.) To the 1st class belong all feminines in u. They are few : faru, journey; lufu, love; scæmu, shame; scōlu, school; pracu, revenge, compounds in -paru (burh-paru, state, etc.).

(c.) For the Parent Speech, add the endings in § 62 to the stem. Gravitation has carried away all the consonants from the Anglo-Saxon case-endings except the m of the dative plural, which is a nasalizing of the original bh (§ 71, b); n in gifenā is euphonic epenthesis (§ 50), as in Sanskrit, a conformation with the weak form in an; m in gifum (gifām) assimilates the u (§ 35, 2, a). The plural -ā suffered precession in late Anglo-Saxon to -a, then to -e, which in English drops. The original -ā is retained in the paradigms as the classic sound.

(d.) Plural -e is a conformation with the i-stems, influenced also perhaps by the Latin. In the sixth century, Latin x=e; -m, -s were silent.

(e.) Root a sometimes suffers shifting to æ, or even i-umlaut to e, before -e: sacu, strife, genitive sæce; pracu, revenge, dative præce, præce, præce, etc. §§ 41, 32.

(f.) Here also are placed nouns in -o < -u undeclinable in the singular, from adjectives: yld-u, -o, -e (eld, age), plur. yldu, -o, -e, yldā, yldum; plural nom. and acc. in ā is found: yldā (Grein), yrmdā, miseries. So ædelo, nobility; brædo, breadth, etc. The plural is rare. Similar words in Gothic are weak: manag-eins (multitude), -eiu, -ein, -ei, plur. manag-eins, -eino, -eim-eins. O. H. German has -in for -ein; O. Saxon has strong forms. The A.-Saxon words conform with the ā-stems. § 40, 1.

(g.) For duru, door; æ, law; beô, bee; eā, river; sê, sea; forms from ia-stems, etc., see § 100; for Northumbrian forms, see page 49.

91. To the 2d class belong all feminines ending in a consonant: they are simple monosyllables; derivatives in -el, -en, -er; -ung;

-nis, -nes; -es; -oc; -od, -ud, d; p-; nearly all strong feminines conform.

(a.) The feminines of the first Sanskrit declension are â-stems and i-stems.

(b.) The apocope of stem i in the singular nominative, accusative, and vocative, is the effect of gravitation (§ 38). That short roots retain the stem vowel (gifu, etc.), while long roots drop it (dâd, etc.), shows compensation (§ 37). Compare the feminine of the strong adjectives.

(c.) The singular accusative -e, the plural nominative, accusative, and vocative -â, and dative -um < -im, are conformations with the 1st class. § 40, 1.

A. (1. Common Form.)—Like dâd decline words of this declension ending in a syllable long by nature or position: âr, honor; bên, prayer; lâr, lore; rôd, cross; pund, wound; pyrd, fate; gesamnung, assembly; so also ides, woman, and some other words in a short syllable.

(a.) Except words like bôc and mûs (4, 5), and like clâ, cleô (§ 100).

(b.) Many have sometimes -â in the dative: some originally -u stems retaining it, others conforming—words in -ung oftenest. § 93, i.

B. (2. Gemination.)—Like pyn decline words of this declension ending short in a consonant: ben, wound; blis, bliss; hen, hen; byrgen, sepulcher; gÿmen, care; prînis, trinity, etc.

(3. Semivowel Gemination.)—Like beadu decline feminines in p > u (§ 30): gearu, gear; scaalu, shadow, but sceade, sceadâ are found; rîsu, providence; seouu, sinew.

(a.) Except syncopated forms like ceaster, and a few like dâd.

(b.) For the simplification of gemination pynn > pyn, see § 20, Rule 13.

(c.) The u of up is made in closing the organs to p (§ 27, 5). It may suffer precession to o > e (§ 38). Final p > u is shifting (§ 30; 41, 2).

C. (4, 5. Umlaut.)—Like bôc decline brôc, breeches; gôs, goose. Like mûs decline lûs, louse; for cî, cow; burh, borough; turf, turf, see § 100. Note also dôhtor, speoster, môder.

(a.) The changes in the roots of bôc, mûs, etc., are i-umlaut concealed: bêc < bôci (Old Saxon bôci), § 32, 2.

D. (6. Syncope.)—Like ceaster decline syncopated words of this declension: they end in an unaccented vowel before l, n, r, or sometimes other single consonants (§ 46): sapel, soul; stefen, voice; lifer, liver; meoluc, milk. Unsyncopated forms occur.

E. For forms from ia-stems; hand, hand; niht, night; piht, whit, see § 100. For Northumbrian forms, see page 49.

(a.) This declension corresponds to the Latin second in so far as it contains those masculine nouns which have their head-cases in a vowel, and so is a complement of declension second. In its original stem it corresponds to the Latin fourth. § 101, b.

The Old High German has sunu (o), sunes, sunju (sunu), sunu (o), sunju (sunu); sunî, sunjô, sunim (sunum), sunî (u). The u-declension is nearly extinct. O. Fries. sun-u (o), -a -a, -u; -ar (-a), -a, -um, -ar (-a).

(b.) Gravitation has carried away all the consonants from the Anglo-Saxon case-endings, except the -m of the dative plural, which is a nasalizing of the original bh. § 38.

(c.) The Gothic âu of the genitive and dative singular is a progression from u (sunu-as > sunâu-as > sunâus), § 38, 1. The Anglo-Saxon â nearly resembles it, and is retained in the paradigms as the classic sound, though it suffered precession in later times.

(d.) The instrumental sunâ, handâ are dative forms.

(e.) The plural -u > o is precession: it is found also in the singular. § 38, 1.

(f.) The plural -â and -enâ conform to the second declension.

(g.) Note the umlaut and shifting in the Old Norse: s > r, u > o, u > y.

(h.) Hand conforms almost wholly to the first declension.

(i.) Some words originally u-stems retain the forms of this declension in single cases, especially in the singular dative -â, and plural nominative, accusative, and vocative -u: feldâ, field; fordâ, ford; sumorâ, summer; pintrâ, pintru, winter; durâ, door. Some words of other stems conform in the same cases: peoruldâ, world; gebrôdru, brothers; dôhtru, daughters; môdru, mothers; gespeostru, sisters; feminines in -ung.

(k.) For irregular forms of pudu, magu, hand, etc., see § 100.

Feminines, Declension II.—In words of the First Class -a is found for Common Anglo-Saxon -u or -e. Feminines sometimes have -es in the genitive singular and -ás in the plural, and then may pass for masculines.

Dative.....	áçma-bhjas	(Locat.)	homini-bus	hana-m	hanun	höu-m

The Old High German has hanu, hanin, hanun, hanun; hanun, hanōn-ō, hanō-m. O. Fries. sing. hona; plur. hon-a, -ana(-ona), -un, -a.

(b.) The singular case-endings are sloughed off; and, in the nominative, n of the stem. In the genitive plural, â has held its ground, and gravitation has modified the stem: a > e > -: ârenâ, ârnâ, honor. The dative has ecthipsis of n (§ 47), and assimilative precession of am to um (§ 35, 2, a).

(c.) Feminines in Gothic strengthen to ô the a of the stem -an throughout, and the â of the case-ending of the genitive plural. In Anglo-Saxon all genders agree; but feminines in the nominative, and neuters in the nominative, accusative, and vocative, for final a take e (Precession, § 38).

(d.) The stem in an was mostly masculine, but has been going over to the feminines in the Teutonic tongues (§ 67, 2).

(e.) The same peculiar gravitation which has brought the short a-stems to the form of consonant stems in declension first, has here produced a new declension by sloughing away the endings and stem. This new declension has been adopted by the Teutonic nations as their favorite for secondary formations having the force of an adjective used as a noun, and for definite adjectives; and it has in the Teutonic tongues a historical and logical importance coordinate with the strong forms. In English the Norman -s joined with -s of the Anglo-Saxon first to kill it, and oren, with the irregular children, brethren, is almost its only memorial in current speech.

96. Like hana decline all weak nouns in -a: bana, death; eempa, soldier; dropa, drop; guna, man; hunta, hunter; móna, moon; oxa, ox; præcca, exile; nafela, navel; hodma, covering; geongra, disciple; egesa, awe; rîsþa, general; gemaca, mate. Some remains of stems in -ian are found: precca = præcca, aglêcca, monster, etc.

97. Like tunge decline all weak nouns in -e: byrne, mail; eorte, earth; heorte, heart; sunne, sun; syrce, sark; puce, week; hlâfþlîge, lady; fiemne, woman; nædre, snake; puduþe, widow.

(a.) Except the four neuters (§ 98).

(b.) Now and then forms are found in -ean for -an, either remains of stems in -ian, or conforming to such stems: cyrice, cyricean, church.

98. Like êage decline êære, ear; lunga, lungs; clype, clew.

99. Like tâ decline beô, bee, beôn, etc.; and masculine freaa > freâ, freaan > freân, lord; tpeoa > tpeô, tpeoan > tpeôn, doubt.

NORTHUMBRIAN.—(Weak Nouns.)

Final -n and -m drop. The a of -an often suffers precession in the masculines to o or e, in the feminines and neuters to u, o, or e. Nouns weak in Common Anglo-Saxon have often strong forms, or mixed strong and weak in Northumbrian: noma (nama), name, genitive noma, nomes. By comparing pages 49, 61, it will be seen that the Northumbrian forms vary irregularly between forms older than the Common Anglo-Saxon and others modified by gravitation and conformation almost as much as the English. See page 19.

100. IRREGULAR NOUNS.

Such are without case-endings (INDECLINABLE), or without certain cases (DEFECTIVE); or they vary in gender (HETEROGENEOUS), in stem (METAPLASTS), in case-endings (HETEROCLITES); or they are remains of dead declensions (Reliquiæ, RELICS); or are disguised by phonetic changes (CRYPTOCLITES). The same noun may belong to several of these classes.

(a.) Indeclinable are many nouns in -u > o (§ 88, f): ædclu, f. nobility; hætu, f. heat; heāhdū, f. highth, etc.; and æ, f. law; beó, bi, f. bee, pl. declined.

(b.) Defective.—Without the plural are most proper, abstract, and material names: Ælfréd; strengtu, f. strength; gold, n. gold. Sometimes the plural has a change of meaning: æ, rites; gíftá(u), nuptials; leóde, men? -pare, men? Without the singular are fíderu, n. wings; fírás, n. men; frætpe, f. ornaments; gearpe, f. trappings; geatpe, f. equipment; gebróðor(u), m. brothers; gespeostor, f. sisters; gespeoru, n. hills; getimbru, n. building; lendena, n. loins; núddás, men; -paran, -parás, -pare, m. citizens; pelerás(-á), m. f. lips.

(c.) Heterogeneous.—Masculine and Neuter are deófol, devil; dógor, day; feorh, life; fríd, peace; geþanc, mind; God, m., plur. godás, m., godu, n. God, idols; gyrn, distress; heafod, n. head, plur. sometimes heafdás, m.; heáp, heap; hilt, hilt; holt, holt; ræced, house; tungol, star; pæl, weel; pésten, waste; pam, spot; polcen, cloud; brim, sea; cealf, calf.

Feminine and Neuter are æbylgd, offense; ædclu, sing. f., plur. n. nobility; æfest, envy; geþeapt, counsel; gíft, dower; grun, snare; liget, lightning; þeostor, n., þeostru, f. darkness; pæd, pæde, weeds; piht, whitt.

Masculine, Feminine, and Neuter are þreá, throe; pæstm, growth.

(d.) Metaplasts.—Forms from stems in -ia, -ian, mix with others: plencu, f. pomp, plur. gen. plenceá; cæg, f. key, plur. nom. cægiá; fisc, m. fish, plur. nom. fisceás; læce, m. leech, plur. nom. læceás; cirice, f. church, plur. nom. ciricean. From u-stems: duru, puðu, magu, like sunu (§ 92), also gen. dure ? pudes, plur. nom. puás, magás; hand, etc. (§ 93, i). To some stems -er is added: æg, egg; cealf, calf; eild, child (§ 82). Stems with and without quasi-gemination (§§ 81, 91): sceadu, f. shadow, dat. sceaduþe, sceade; frí, freó, m. freeman, plur. nom. frige, freó. Metathesis: fisc, m. fish, plur. nom. fízás. Many conforming regulars, and heteroclites, are metaplastic

(e.) Heteroclites.—Many heterogeneous strong nouns (1) with Masculine and Neuter endings: God, m. God, plur. m. Godás, n. Godu; heafod, n. head, plur. n. heafodu, plur. m. heafdás. (2) With Feminine and Neuter endings: âfest, envy, gen. n. âfestes, pl. nom. f. âfeste; gift, f. dower, plur. nom. f. gíftá, n. gíftu; grin, snare, inst. grine, grinê, plur. nom. grinâ, grinu. (3) With Masculine and Feminine: bend, bond, plur. nom. bendás, -á, -e; sæ, sea, gen. sæs, sæ; pelerás, -á, lips. Many themes have both weak and strong forms: heofou, heofon-e, heaven; sunnu, sunne, sun; -par-ás, -par-an, men; but such are given as different words. Some mix: cæg, f. key, gen. cægan, dat. cæge, plur. nom. cægiá, dat. cægum.

(f.) Relics of the r-stem are bródor, brother (§ 87); módor, mother, dóhtor, daughter; speostor, sister; gebródor, gebródrú (dual?), brothers; gespeostor, sisters; fæder, father, sing. indecl. has also gen. and pl. forms of Declension First; of the nd-stem are feónd, fiend (§ 87); freónd, friend; and (compound) participial nouns: ymb-sittend, neighbors, plur. nom.; fold-buend, farmers; plur. nom. sometimes in -ás, gen. -rá, like adjectives; of other consonant stems: neht, f. night, gen. nihte, nihtes, generally adverbial, plur. nom. niht; piht, f. whit, plur. nom. (pht, Grimm) pihtá, pihtu, piht; burg, f. borough, gen. byrg, byrig; man, man (§ 84).

(g.) Cryptoclitics.—The most common obscure forms spring from

1. Concealed umlaut. See, for paradigms, bóc, book; mús, mouse (§ 90); fót, foot; man, man (§ 84); bróder, brother: feónd, fiend (§ 87); like are bróc, breeches; gós, goose; tót, tooth; lús, louse; mús, mouse; cú, f. cow, gen. cús (Rask), dat. cý, acc. cú, plur. nom. cý, eye (cús, Rask), gen. cúná, dat. cúm; burg, burh, f. borough, gen. byrig, burge, dat. byrig, byrg, plur. nom. byrig, gen. burgá, dat. burgum; turf, f. turf, dat. tyrf; módor, dóhtor, speostor; freónd, friend.

2. Quasi-gemination of semi-vowels: paradigms of beadu, battle (§ 90, 3); here, host (§ 85, a). Like are frætupe (á), fræpe (á), f. plur. ornament; gearpe, f. plur. trappings; geatpe, f. plur. equipment; nearu, f. narrowness; ræsu, f. providence; seonu, f. sinew; melu, n. meal; calu, n. ale, etc.; and fri, freó, m. freeman, plur. n. frige, freó; pine, m. friend, plur. nom. pinás, pine, gen. piná, piníá, pinigá, pinigeá, dat. pinum, acc. pinás, pine.

3. Apothesis and Contraction—words in u > o indeclinable (§ 100, a).

bí, beó, f. bee, sing. indeclinable, plur. nom. beón, gen. beóná, dat. beóum, clá, f. claw, plur. nom. clápe, dat. clám. [beóm.]

þréá, f. m. n. throe, indeclinable, plur. dat. þréáum, þréám.

101. PROPER NAMES.

(1.) PERSONS.—Names of women in -u or a consonant are strong, those in -e or -a are weak. Declension II., â-stem: Begu, Freáparu; i-stem: Beadohild, Hygd, and most others. Declension IV.: Elene, Eve, Ada, Maria, etc., from foreign names; Dealhþeô(p), dat. Dealhþeôn (§ 99).

Names of men in -u, -e, or a consonant are strong, those in -a are weak. Declension III., u-stem: Leôfsumu? Declension I., a-stem: Ælfrêd, Beôpulf, Eádmund, Sigemund (gen. also Sigemunde < mund, f. Rask)? Dêland, and most other strong names; syncopated: Ecgþeô(p), gen. Ecgþeôpes, Ecgþeôes, etc.; Oungenþeô(p); Grendel, gen. Grendeles, Grendles, etc.; Hrêdel; ia-stem: Ine, Hedde, Gislhere, Dulfhere, Eádpine, Godpine, and others from -here and -pine; umlaut not found: Hereman, dat. Heremanne. Declension IV.: Ætla, Becca, and many others.

(a.) Foreign names sometimes retain foreign declension, or are undeclined, but are generally declined as above; those in -as, -es, -us do not often increase in the genitive. Those from Latin -us, Greek -os, of the second declension, sometimes drop their endings and take those of the Anglo-Saxon first: Crist (< Christus), Cristes, Criste, etc. In less familiar words -us oftenest stands in the nom. and gen., but sometimes the Latin and Anglo-Saxon forms mix throughout: Petrus, gen. Petrus, Petres, Petri, dat. Petro, Petre, acc. Petrus, Petrum; so -as and -es: Andreás, gen. Andreás, dat. Andreá, acc. Andreás, Andream; Hêrôdês, Hêrôdes, Hêrôde, Hêrôd-em, -ês, or -e.

(b.) In Gothic these Latin and Greek names of the second declension are regularly given in the u-declension: Paitrus, gen. Paitraus, dat. Paitrau, acc. Paitru (§ 93, a). The Anglo-Saxon genitive Petrus may be a relic of the u-declension.

(2.) PEOPLES.—Plurals in -âs and -e are strong, in -an weak. Declension I., a-stem: Brittâs, Scottâs, etc.; ia-stem and i-stem: Dene, gen. Den-â, -iâ, -igâ, -geâ (§ 85, a); Româncê, etc. Declension IV.: Gotan, Seaxan, etc.

The singular is oftenest an adjective in -isc regularly declined: Egyptisc man, Egyptian man; Egyptisc ides, Egyptian woman; þá Egyptiscan, the Egyptians, etc. Sometimes ân Brit, a Briton.

Often is found a collective with a genitive, or with an adjective, or compounded: Seaxnâ þeôd; Filistêa fole; Caldêa cyn; Ebrêa perás; Sodomisc cyn; Rôm-pare (§ 86); Nord-men (§ 84, 3), etc. Foreign names are treated as are names of persons.

(3.) COUNTRIES.—A few feminine names are found: Engel, England; Bryten, Britannia. Oftenest is found the people's name in the genitive with land, rice, êdel, etc., or in an oblique case with a preposition: Englâ land; Sodomâ rice; on Eâst-Englum; of Seaxum; on Egyptum. Foreign names are treated as are names of persons.

(4.) CITIES.—Names found alone are regularly declined according to gender and endings: Rôm, f. Rôme; Babylon, n. Babylones; Sodoma, m. Sodoman. Oftenest they are prefixed undeclined to burg, ceaster, pîc, dûn, hâm, etc.: Lunden-pîc, Rôma-burg, etc.; or the folk's name in the genitive followed by burg, ceaster, etc., is used: Caldêa burg. Foreign names treated as names of persons.

(3.) ORMULUM.—Singular, N., A., V., D., I. alike; Genitive -ess. Plural, all cases alike in -ess. Singular dative -e is found with prepositions in a few phrases, and Plural genitive -e (Northern dialect).

(4.) CHAUCER instead of -ess has -es or -s: king, kinges; lover, lovers. The last form brings us to Modern English. Irregular forms having umlaut (§ 100, g), or plural -en (§ 95, c), or indeclinable from r-stems or neuter plural (§ 100, f), are found in Chaucer, and a few still survive.

IV. ADJECTIVES.

INDEFINITE AND DEFINITE DECLENSIONS.

103. An adjective in Anglo-Saxon has one set of strong and one of weak endings for each gender. The latter are used when the adjective is preceded by the definite article or some word like it. Hence there are two declensions, the indefinite and the definite.

(a) In other Indo-European languages the adjective is declined like the substantive; Teutonic strong follows the pronominal declension. This has been explained by supposing a composition in the Teutonic between the adjective stem and a pronoun (in Sanskrit jas, jâ, jad, a relative) which it is suggested must have been in the Teutonic Parent Speech jis, ja, jata; jis, jizôs, jis; jamma, jizai, jamma; jana, ja, jata; jê, jizai, jê; plural, jai, jôs, ja; jizê, jizô, jizê; jaim; jans, jôs, ja, and have had a demonstrative sense. Whether there has been a composition with a particular pronoun, or a conformation to the pronominal declension, must, in the absence of decisive phonetic demonstration, be decided from the meaning; and the fact that this is the indefinite form, and is not used where the sense calls for a demonstrative, weighs heavily against composition with a demonstrative.

(b.) We give the demonstrative pronoun from which comes the definite article:

In Old High German the adjective has the same strong endings as the definite article (§ 104, b). The weak form has Masculine plinto, -in, -in, -un; plur. -un, -ôþô, -ôþm, -un: Feminine plinta, -ûn, -ûn, -ûn; plur. -ûn, -ôþô, -ôþm, -ûn: Neuter plinta, -in, -in, -a; pl. -ûn, -ôþô, -ôþm, -ûn. O. Fries. has strong endings like A.-Sax., but dat. -a(-e): weak forms like its noun. § 95.

(a.) The Indo-European languages generally have no separate forms for the definite adjective; but the Slavonic and Lithuanic have. In them it springs from composition between the adjective and demonstrative ja (§ 104, a):

Slavonic dobryj (good), dobraja, dobroje, from dobras + jas, dobrâ + jà, dobrat + jat;
 Ang.-Sax. gôda + se, gôde + seô, gôde + þæt.

Grimm suggests that the Teutonic adjective is compounded in a similar way with the demonstrative jân (that), English yon. Heys suggests a composition with ân, one. The Teutonic weak declensions form one whole with those of the an-stems in other Indo-European tongues: as to form, all are a growth from one stem. This stem is a secondary formation by means of the pronominal affix -an. The force of this affix may be illustrated by comparing it with the pronouns jân, ân; many nouns with it are rendered in English by an adjective + one: pædla, poor one; præcca, wretched one; pana, defective one, etc.; but to call the adjective a compound with either is likely to mislead. Compare the explanation of affixes in §§ 56, 63.

As to the logical and historical value of the weak declension, see § 95, c. It may give a profound insight into the Teutonic mind to notice here that its fundamental classification of objects is into those made definite to thought and those not so.

108. The weak form is used when the adjective is preceded by the definite article, or by a demonstrative or possessive pronoun, or personal pronoun in the genitive, always with comparatives, often with vocatives, instrumentals, and genitives, § 362.

(a.) For masculine present participles, see § 119.

109. Like blind decline adjectives ending in a long syllable, participles present, weak participles past, superlatives, and adjective pronouns: fiwst, fast; gód, good; hát, hot; heard, hard; hæbbende, having (§ 119); gehålgód, hallowed; hátóst, hottest; mín, mine. See § 110, a.

110. With the endings of glæd decline adjectives with a final short syllable and strong participles past: eadig, blessed; hæden, heathen; fwger, fair; brocen, broken.

(a.) The -u of the feminine singular oftenest, and of the neuter plural often, suffers precession to -o > -e > —, especially in derivatives. It drops pretty regularly after a long syllable (§ 109; 91, b). A few once u-stems hold it: heard, heardu > hearde (Gothic hardus), hard.

111. (Shifting, §§ 73, 41).—Like glæd decline short monosyllables with root u > w: bær, bare; blæc, black; hræd, ready; hpæt, whetted; læt, late; smæl, small; spær, spare; pær, wary.

(a.) The shifting is stopped by a following vowel, even by e which is from u, and ê < û. The nouns (dæges) have shifted further; the adjective has throughout held stronger than the noun by the old forms.

112. (Gemination, § 78).—Rule 10, § 20, for simplification of gemination applies: grim, grimmes, grimre, grimmum, grimne, etc., grim.

113. (Syncope, §§ 46, 79).—Polysyllables in -ig, -ol (ul, el), -en, -or (er), and others liable to syncope, may drop the last vowel of the theme when the ending begins with a vowel: fwger, fair, fwgru, but fwgerne; hålg, holy, hålges > hålges, hålgan > hålgan, etc.

114. (Stems in -ia, § 83).—Some adjectives once in -ia have e < ia in the cases usually without endings: blide, blithe; gen. blides, blidre, blides, etc.; rarely before the endings: éce, eternal, éceum, écum. So decline adjectives in -e and present participles (§ 119).

(a.) Some show i-umlaut when compared with other words: gréne (O. H. German gruoni), green; sêfte (såft), soft; streng (strang), strong. § 32, 2.

(b.) Some show compensative gemination: midde < mid (Gothic midis, midja), middle. § 37, 2.

115. (Themes in -î).—Such may have dissimilation into ig before the case-endings: fri, free, gen. friges, frigre, etc. The g is the parting of the organs after taking the i-position. § 85, a.

116. (Themes in -eô).—Such may drop the vowel of case-endings: freô, free, gen. freôs, freôre, freôs, etc. § 80.

117. (Themes in -p > -u > -o, § 81; 91, B).—Such may drop p final after a vowel: blæ, blue, gen. blæpes. After a consonant p final shifts to u > o; and before a vowel may suffer quasi-gemination to up: fealu, fallow, fealupe, etc. (§ 27, 5). This u may suffer precession to o > e: fealope, fealepe, etc. § 38.

118. Themes in -h, § 80).—Such may drop h final or before a close ending, and before a vowel change it to g, or drop it and contract: heâk, heâ (Gothic hâuhs, O. H. German hòh), high.

Loc. heâg(e)	heâ(ge)	heâ(gu)
Inst. heâ(g)um	heâ(g)um	heâ(g)um

The spelling of such words is irregular in the manuscripts. Sing. nom. héh, accusative heâhne, heânne, plur. dat. heâhum, are found.

119. PARTICIPLES.

The participles have both declensions. §§ 103, 109, 110.

(a.) Present participles in the strong forms without endings have -e like ia-stems (§ 114): gífende, giving.

(b.) Masculine present participles used substantively may take strong forms after the definite article: pâ lidende or lidend, those sailing; pârâ ymb-sittendrâ, of those dwelling around. (§ 100, f.)

(c.) The strong singular accusative of the participles is often (wrongly) spelt without -n: gecorene < gecoren-ne, chosen; scritend-(n)e, coming.

120. The declined infinitive (gerund) is often found in the dative: tô faranne, to fare.

121. NORTHUMBRIAN ADJECTIVE DECLENSION.

The strong declension is like Common Anglo-Saxon. The instrumental in -ê is very rare—the dative takes its place. The plural nominative is often in -o, perhaps an older form than -e: compare Old Saxon -a and precession, § 38: perhaps merely an irregular conformation with weak forms. The weak declension drops -n, and is otherwise like that of the weak substantive (p. 51).

122. COMPARISON.

Comparison is a variation to denote degrees of quantity or quality. It belongs to adjectives and adverbs.

(a.) In Anglo-Saxon it is a variation of stem, and is a matter rather of derivation than inflection; but the common mode of treatment is convenient.

(b.) The suffixes of comparison were once less definite in meaning than now, and were used to form many numerals, pronouns, adverbs > prepositions, and substantives, in which compared correlative terms are implied: cither, other, over, under, first, etc.

(c.) Anglo-Saxon adverbs are in brackets: (spīde).

123. ADJECTIVES are regularly compared by suffixing to the theme of the positive -ir > -er or -ór for the theme of the comparative, and -ist > -est or -óst for the theme of the superlative.

The Comparative has always weak endings and syncopated stem.

The Superlative has both weak and strong endings.

ADVERBS are compared like adjectives: the positive uses the ending -e, the comparative and superlative have none; -ir drops.

Strong, spīd, strenuous; spīdra; spīdōst.
Weak, se spīda; se spīdra; se spīdōsta.
Adverb, (spīde); (spīdōr); (spīdōst).

	Sanskrit.	Greek.	Latin.	Gothic.	O. Saxon.	O. Norse.
Theme	{ mah, great.	μεγ > μῆ, great.	mag > mā, great.	mak > mǎ, great.	mik > mē, great.	mik > meī, great.
Compar.	māh-i-jas	μῆ-ζον (-jon)	mā-jor, -jus	mǎ-iz-a	mē-r-o	mei-r-i
Superl.	māh-is'tha	μῆγ-ιστο-ν	(see § 126, b)	mǎ-ist-s	mē-st	mei-st-r

The O. H. German has mē-ro, mē-ist-er, Anglo-Saxon mǎ-r-a, mǎ-st.

(b.) In Anglo-Saxon ir < jans, the i < j, r < s are shifting (§ 41, 2, b); dropping of an, apocope from gravitation (§§ 44, 38). ó in -ór and -óst is compensative progression from an (§§ 37, 38); the same form is in Gothic, Old Saxon, Old H. German. Old Norse has a for ó. A further precession took place in -ir, -ór, -ist, -óst, of i > e > —, and of ó > á > a > u > e > — (§ 38). In Gothic, s has not shifted; so pyrsa, worse (§ 129).

(c.) The superlative -ta is suffixed to the theme of the positive in numerals: Sanskrit s'as'-thá, sixth; Greek πρω-το, first; Latin quar-to, fourth; Gothic ahnu-da-n, eighth; Anglo-Saxon þrid-da, third. § 139.

124. (Umlaut, § 32, 2).—The affixes -ir > -er and -ist > -est

may work i-umlaut, changing a, â, ea, eâ, eo > o, ô, u, û, to e, ê, y > e, ý, y, ê, y, ý:

lang, long; lengra (leng); lengest.

strang, streng (§ 114, a), strong; strengra; strengest.

eald, ald (§ 33), old; yldra, eldra; yldest, eldest.

neáh, néh, nigh (§§ 118, 25); nýra (nýr), néra (neár), neárra (niór); nýst (y > i > iē), néhst, neáhst, and as heáh.

feor, (feor), (fýr), far; fýrra; fýrrest.

geong, young; gyngra (y > i); gyngest (y > i).

(sófte) sēfte, soft (114, a); sēftra (sēft); sēftest. [125, 129.

eáde (ý, ē), easy; ýdra (eá), (ýd(eá, ē)); ýdest, eáðóst. See §§

125. (Shifting, § 110).—Root a > æ of short monosyllables shifts to æ unless the next syllable begins with a vowel; such words may also have forms with i-umlaut (§ 124):

glæd, glad; glædra, gledra; gladóst.

pær, wary; pærra; paróst.

126. RELICS are found of forms from Parent Speech Comparative -ra, -ta-ra, Superlative -ma, -ta-ma. Of the comparative, only pronouns, adverbs > prepositions, and the like: ó-der, other; hpæ-der, whether; ê-r, ere; æf-ter, after; hi-der, hither; of-er, over; un-der, under. Of the superlative: fór-ma, first; hín-dema, hindmost; inn-ema, inmost; læt-ema, latest; med-ema, midmost; níd-ema, nethermost; síd-ema, latest; út-ema, utmost; and others with double comparison. §§ 127, 129.

(a.) Parent Speech -tara. Forms on an, that, and ka, what, English other, whether:

Sanskrit.	Greek.	Latin.	Gothic.	O. Saxon.	Anglo-Saxon.	O. Norse.
an-tará	ἄ-τερο(ς)	al-teru(s)	an-þar(a-)	á-ðar	ó-ðer	ann-ar
ka-tará	κό-τερο(ς)	u-teru(s)	hva-þar(a-)	hue-ðer	hpæ-ðer	hvár-rr

The O. H. German has andera, other; hwedar, whether. This is a common form for the adjective in Sanskrit, the most common in Greek; in Latin and Teutonic only as in Anglo-Saxon. Latin, in-ter, between; dex-ter, right; sinis-ter, left. § 122, b.

(b.) Parent Speech -ma, -tu-ma. Forms on pra, fore; sep, seven; hin, hind:

Sanskrit.	Greek.	Latin.	Gothic.	O. Saxon.	Ang.-Sax.	O. Nor.
pra-tha-má	πρό-μο(ς)	pri-mu(s)	fru-ma	for-mo	{ fru-ma } { for-ma }	{ frum- ma }
sap-ta-má	ἑβ-δο-μο(ς)	sep-tu-mu(s)	hin-du-ma	—	—	—

The O. H. German has frumi, first. This is a common form in Sanskrit; in Latin, suffixed to Comparative jans > is (§ 123, a), it makes the regular -issimo < is-timo by assimilation (§ 35). After l and r it is suffixed to the theme and assimilated: facil-limo, easiest; pulcher-rumo, hand-somest. In the other languages it is found only as in Anglo-Saxon. For numerals, see § 140.

127. DOUBLE COMPARISON is found chiefly with relics in -der, -er, and -m (§ 126): ê-r, ere, ê-r-er, -ôr, ê-r-est; æf-ter, æfter-ra > æftera, æf-ter-mest (Rask), æf-tem-est; læs, less, læs-sa, læs-âst, -est; for-ma, fyr-m-est, and see § 129.

(a.) Accumulation of signs of comparison is a striking fact through all the languages. (1.) Repetition of the suffix for emphasis: -raroc < ra-ra, regular Greek superlative; Irish ma-ma; O. H. German bezeroro, more better (Shakespeare); êrerera, more sooner, etc.; Parent Speech ta-ma (§ 126, b). (2.) New suffix after Relics (§ 126): Gothic af-tu-m-is-ta; Anglo-Saxon æf-te-m-es-t; aftermost = af+ta+ra+ma+jans+ta, a heaping of radicles which illustrates their force as signs of comparison (§ 123, a). Emphatic double comparison abounds in early English: Shakespeare has more braver, more fairer, most best, most boldest, most unkindest, etc.

(b.) The English superlative ending -most in aftermost, and the like, is simulation of a connection with most. § 42, 2.

128. HETEROCLITIC forms abound from themes in -ir and -ôr, -ist, -ôst: sêl, good; -ra, -la, (sêl);—est, -ôst; rice, rich; ricest, ricôst; glæd, glad; glædra, glædra, etc. (§ 125). Some have themes with and without double comparison: læt, late; lætra; latâst, late-mest; sîd, late; sîdra (sîd, sîdôr); sîd-âst, -est, -mest.

129. DEFECTIVE are the following. Words in capitals are not found.

(1.) Mixed Roots:

Radicle stem in PARENT SPEECH, tu < tva; plural, tu + sma = thou and he; dual, tu + dva = thou + two = you two. ANGLO-SAXON, þú < tu (shifting, § 41); eóp < up < iu (quasi-gemination, § 117) = ju < tu, irregular softening of t. Compare assibilation, § 24. Other forms like those of ic.

(c.) Three stems show in the third person, i, hi, sia. The Anglo-Saxon alone has hi throughout. In English, she and they, their, them have come in from the demonstrative (§ 133) hit > it; us is a late formation. The third personal pronoun is a weak demonstrative. In the cases not given above, each language uses the endings of its demonstrative given on page 57.

131. REFLEXIVES are supplied by the personal pronouns with self (self), or without it. Self has strong adjective endings like blind (§ 103); in the nominative singular also weak selfa: ic self, ic selfa, myself; mín selfes, of myself; mê selfum, mê selfne, etc.; þá selfa, thyself, etc.; hê selfa, himself, etc.

(a.) Sín is the possessive of an old reflexive si, sê (§ 132, b). Self, Gothic silba, is used throughout the Teutonic tongues: < si + (lib?). life, soul; so Sanskrit âtman (soul) and Hebrew nephes' are used as reflexives.

(b.) Silf is found in Anglo-Saxon: > self (a) (a-umlaut, § 32, 1), seolf, sioolf (breaking, § 33), sylf (graphic variation). Demonstrative selfan is found: þý selfan dagê, the same day (§ 133).

132. POSSESSIVES are mín, þín, sín, úser, áre, eóper, uncer, incer. They have strong adjective endings (§ 103). Those in -er are usually syncopated (§ 79). Úser has assimilation of r > s (§ 35, B).

Northumbrian has úsenne < úserne, úsrá. Úre is a syncopated form of úser.

(a.) They have the same themes as the genitives of the personal pronouns. Analogous forms are found throughout the Indo-European family:

The n (mei(n)s) and r (unsa(r)) have been thought variations of Sanskrit dental d (ma(d)i'ja), but see § 130, c. Fries. min, thûn, sin, ùse, unser, etc.

(b.) Sîn is from obsolete sê (self) found in Gothic, Old Saxon, etc., defective like Latin sê, Greek ζ. It does not cover the full meaning of the possessive of the third person; hence in Low German dialects the formation of new possessives: English, his, her, their, its, etc.

(a.) ÞES is an emphatic demonstrative from þa + sja. In Gothic the same force is obtained by affixing -uh (Latin -ce, -que: hi-c, quis-que). In the other Germanic tongues analogous forms to þes are found: O. Saxon sing. nom. the-se, the-su (thus), thi-t; gen. the-sas, the-sara, the-sas; dat. the-sumu, the-saru, the-sumu; acc. the-san, the-sa, thi-t; inst. n. thius; pl. nom. acc. the-sa, thus; gen. the-sarô; dat. the-sun; O. H. G. di-sê-r, etc. The Anglo-Saxon has lost all the sja except -s in the nominative. In þisse, þissá there has been syncope and assimilation of r > s, as in ússe, ússá (§ 132); in þisses and þissum, gemination of s through gravitation. The genitive and dative masculine are written pretty regularly with gemination of s—not always.

(3.) Ylc, þyle, spyle: ylca, same, has only weak forms; þyle, spyle, such, have only strong. (y = i = e.) þys-lic > þylllic, strong.

(a.) Ylc < ý + lic; ý < i, demonstrative he; -lic, like; so þý-lic, analogous to Latin tá-lis, Greek τη-λικος, Sanskrit tá-dr'ks'a; spý-lic, Gothic svê-leiks, etc., English such.

(6.) Geon, yon, Gothic pron. jáins, that, strong (§ 255, a).

134. RELATIVES.—(1.) se, seó, þæt, who, which, that, is declined as when a demonstrative (§ 133). (2.) Ie used in all the cases, both alone and in combination with se, seó, þæt, or a personal pronoun, is indeclinable. (3.) spá, so, used like English as and Old German so in place of a relative, is indeclinable.

135. INTERROGATIVES are hpá, who; hpæder, which of two; hpyle, hállic, of what kind. They have strong adjective endings; hpæder is syncopated (§ 84.)

A weak sing. nom. âna, âne(a), âne, is also found, and undeclined forms.

The vocative and plural mean sole, some, etc. See the numeral ân, § 139, a.

(a.) So also decline nân, none.

(2.) Ênig, any (ân + ig), and nênig, none, are strong. (3.) sun, some, one (akin to same, § 133, 5), is strong. (4.) The notional substantives man (man) and piht (whit) have become pronouns in certain uses; for their declension, see §§ 83; 100, f. They simulate pronominal stems. Compare English one, whit (wh), thing (th), § 40, 2. Compounds of piht f. and n. are neuter: âpiht, âpyht, âpuht > âuht > âht, ôpiht, aught; nâpiht, naught. Eal (all), manig (many), strong, fed (few), sing. indec. pl. strong (§ 117), fela (much), lyt, hpon may be added.

(5.) Compounds of hpâ, hpæder, -lic, decline like the simples:

(a.) From hpâ: ge-hpâ, each, every; êg-hpâ (â+ge+hpâ), every; elles-hpâ (Lat. ali-quis), any; spâ-hpâ-spâ, spâ-hpæt-spâ, whoso, whatsoever; hpæt-hpugu, -hpigu, -hûgu (Lat. cum-que, § 133, 2, a), anything. Gehpâ has fem. gen. dat. gehþære, gehþære (gehþøre?), and masc. forms as feminines.

(b.) From hpæder (§ 135, b): â-hpæder (any one) > âpder > âtor, ôpder, âtor, other, either; uâ-hpæder (neither) > nâpder, nôpder, nôder; ge-hpæder, either; âg-hpæder (â+ge+hpæder) > âgder, either; spâ-hpæder-spâ, whichever.

(c.) From lic (§ 133, 3, a): ge-hpilc, -hpelc, -hpylc, any body; âg-hpilc (â+ge+hpj+lic, § 135, b), whoever; hpilc-hûgu, hpilce-hûgu, any one, anything; spâ-hpilc-spâ, whosoever; hys-lic, hus-lic, pyllic, py-lic, of this sort; âlc (â+ge+lic), each, all: wlc, elc, ylc.

(d.) Analogous compounds are found throughout the Teutonic tongues, and to many through most of the Indo-European family.

137. DECAY OF PRONOMINAL ENDINGS:—

(a.) Personal.—Layamon and Ormulum have Anglo-Saxon forms, also Lay. ic > ich > Orm. i, Chaucer sometimes ich, ik. Pû > thou, late Old English (§ 38, A, 1); gê > Lay. ȝê > ye; côp > Lay. ȝou > you. Hê, hêô, hit: sing. fem. nom., Ang.-Sax. chronicle (A.D. 1140+) scêw > Chaucer schê > shê, Northern O. Engl. schô (O. Sax. siâ, O. Norse siû). Lay. ȝeô, ȝê, Orm. ȝhó; hit > Orm. itt, it; dat. > acc. Lay. him, hire > Chaucer hire (monosyllable) > her; plur. nom. acc. Lay. þeô, þaie, Orm. nom. þeȝȝ > they; gen. Lay. heore, hire, Orm. þeȝȝre (heore), dat. > acc. Orm. þeȝȝm (hecmm) > them (§ 130, e); her, hir, here (their), hem (them), are still in Chaucer.

(b.) Possessives.—Lay. mîu > mî > my, þîu > þî > thy, sometimes before a consonant; other endings like adjectives, § 129+.

(c.) Demonstratives.—The definite article in Layamon retains its declension, except dat. m > n and precession of â > a > o > e; but indeclinable þe grows more frequent, and in Orm. is established as in Modern English. Fes changes like the adjective (§ 129+): plur. þás > þeôs > those (§ 38, A, 1). Ormulum sing. þiss (this), plur. þisse (these); and sing. þatt (that), plur. þi (those). Chaucer this, plur. these; that, plur. thó.

(d.) Relatives.—Layamon þe, þat throughout, also fem. and plur. þá > þeô; Ormulum þatt (= that) throughout, as in English now. For the change of who, which to relatives, see Syntax.

(e.) Interrogatives.—Layamon whâ (> wô), whes, whâm (> wân), whân (> wân), neuter whart; Ormulum whâ, whás, dat. > acc. whamm, whatt; O. Engl. â > ó. Hpilc, hpæder, like adjectives. § 129+.

(f.) Indefinite an in Layamon is declined throughout, sometimes also nom. ân > â, and oblique cases one. Ormulum has only masculine endings; â, a, frequent. Chaucer no inflection, ân > a, as now.

1000. sahástra	χίλιοι	millia	þúsundi	thúsundig	þúsund

(a.) The numerals are clusters of radicles, some of which lure beyond the Indo-European family.

I-10. —  $\hat{A}N$  (one) < pronominal stem  $i > ai-na >$  Sansk.  $\acute{e}na$ , that;  $\acute{e}ka$  ( $\acute{e}-(na)ka$ )? § 130, b, c. DVA (two), dental radicle for addition, § 56. TRI, tar, fem. tissar (titar), three < dental radicle  $t$  + emphatic  $r$ ; compare its force in comparison, § 123, c, and in  $\sqrt{tri}$ , to go further.  $\text{KATVAR}$ , fem. katasar (ka-tatar), four, =  $ka$  (<  $\acute{e}ka$ , one) +  $tpar$  (< tar, titar, three): the symbols for four are composed of those for one and three in Sanskrit and kindred alphabets, also in Egyptian.  $\text{KAN-KAN}$  (five) is a reduplication indicating the completion of one ( $ka$  <  $\acute{e}ka$ ) count—one hand. For reduplication as a sign of completion, see Greek Grammars: Crosby, § 179; see further below.  $\text{AKTAN}$  (eight) is  $ak$  (one) + superlative  $-ta$  (§ 123, c), the highest count of fingers.  $\text{NAVAN}$  (nine) is akin to Sansk. nava-s, Greek  $\nu\acute{\epsilon}\phi\omicron\text{-}\epsilon$ , Latin novu-s, Gothic nuu-ju-s, Ang.-Sax. nipe, new, now, <  $nu$ , pronominal stem of interrogation, negation, stimulation; nine begins a new quaternion.  $\text{DAKAN}$  (ten) < dva-kan =  $2 \times 5$ .

(c.) The shifting and gravitation in coming down from the Parent Speech is generally regular, §§ 41, 38, tables in §§ 18, 19;  $k > p > f$ , § 41, 3, A, B;  $i > ij$ , quasi-gemination, § 27, 5.

(d.) 11-19. —  $\text{ENDLEOFAN}$  <  $\acute{a}n + leofan$  < than (Lithuanic, lka), ten;  $\acute{a} > e$ , precession, § 38;  $nl > ndl$ , dissimilated gemination of  $n$ , the last part of which changes to  $d$  from the dropping of the nasal veil to send breath forward for  $l$  (§ 27, 5; 50);  $t$  (<  $d$ ) >  $l$ , unusual shifting:  $\rho\acute{\omicron}\nu\sigma\sigma\acute{\epsilon}\nu\acute{\omicron}\varsigma > Ulysses$ ; dīngua > lingua (§ 41, b);  $h$  (<  $k$ ) >  $f$ , shifting as in katvar > fidvor, four; kankan > finf, five, etc., § 41, 3, A, B;  $i > eo$ , breaking, § 33; 35, 2, a.  $\text{TDELFL}$  <  $tp\acute{a} + leofan = 2 + 10$ ; threô-týne, 3 + 10, etc., are plain.

(e.) 20-120. —  $\text{TDENTIG}$  < tpegen (twain) + tig < dakan (ten),  $2 \times 10$ : shifting, § 41, 3, A. Similar are the forms in  $-tig$  up to (hund)tpelflig =  $12 \times 10$ , the great hundred.

60-120. — With the forms in  $-tig$  from three-score to the great hundred is joined hund. Gothic têhund (Latin  $-ginti$ , Greek  $-kovri$ , Sanskrit  $-çati$ ) < dakanta < dakan (ten) +  $-ta$  superlative, as in saptan, aktan: shifting, § 41, 3, A;  $nt > ndl$ , instead of  $ndl$ , through influence of  $n$ ;  $a > \acute{e}$ , progression to  $\acute{a}$  and shifting, § 18;  $a > u$ , precession, § 38. The Gothic has sibun-têhund =  $7 \times 10$ , taihun-têhund =  $10 \times 10$ , etc. The Anglo-Saxon form was once hund-seofonta (decade seventh), like Old Saxon (h)ant-sibunta. The  $-ta$  changed to  $-tig$  through conformation with the smaller numbers, and hund-, whose meaning had faded, was retained as a sign of the second half of the great hundred; when counting by the common hundred, it is omitted: án hund manná and seofontig, 170 men.

(f) 100-1000.—HUND, hundred < Parent Speech dakan-dakanta, which would shift in Anglo-Saxon to tihun-tihund (§ 41). It has gravitated to hund > hundred < hundare (Latin centuria) + d, as in eored, legion; eóped, herd, etc. 1000 is expressed by so different words in the different tongues that no common origin can be found, and hence it is believed not to have been in the Parent Speech. The Lithuanic, Slavonic, and Teutonic, however, agree: Lith. tūkstanti; Slav. tusantja; Goth. þúsundi < tuk- < dakan (ten) + santi < kanti > hund (hundred) = 10 × 100.

140. ORDINALS are superlative forms, except óder, second.

(a) FRUMA, forma, first, see § 126 +; óder, second, § 126, a; -da, -ta, -da are all shiftings of superlative -ta, § 123, c; -teóda is a repetition of teóda < teónda (tenth); -tigóda, Friesic -tigósta, O Norse -tugasti, O. H. German -zugósto (no examples in Gothic or Old Saxon), has conformed to the smaller and more frequently recurring numbers in -teóda. The substantives hund and þúsund had not developed ordinals in Anglo-Saxon.

(b) The formation of ordinals is similar in principle throughout the Indo-European family.

DECLENSION.

141. CARDINALS.—1, án, is declined, § 136.

N., A., V.	2, tpegen tpâ tu < tpa	3, þrí (-ý, -ie)	þreô þreô (-iâ, -iô)
Gen.	.... tpegrâ, tpegâ		þreôrá
D., Inst.	tpâm > tpâm		þrím (-ým)

Like tpegen decline begen, bá, bu, both.

4-19.—Cardinals from feóper to tpelf, and from þreô-týne to nigon-týne, are used as indeclinable, but are also declined like i-stem nouns of the First Declension (byre, § 84), oftenest when used as substantives: nom. acc. voc. feópere, gen. feóperá, dat. inst. feóperum. Such forms of eahða are not found. Týne < teón, umlaut, § 32, 2.

(a) Those in -týne have also sometimes a neut. nom. and acc. in -u > -o, or -a: fiftýn-u, -o, -a (fifteen); þreóteno (=thirteen). (ý > i > e.)

(b) They are quasi-adjectives like Dene, § 86.

20-120.—Forms in -tig are declined as singular neuter nouns: þrítig (thirty), gen. þrítiges; or, as adjectives, have plural gen. -rá, dat. -um: þrítigrá, þrítigum.

100-1000.—Hund, n., is declined like porð, § 73; hundred and þúsund, like scip, § 70; pl. þúsund-u, -o, -e, -a (Psa. lxxvii, 17), § 393.

142. ORDINALS have always the regular weak forms of the adjective, except óder (second), always strong. Indefinites, § 136, 2.

143. MULTIPLICATIVES are found in -feald (fold): ánfeald, simple: tpifeald, two-fold; þúsend-mæltum, thousandfoldly.

144. DISTRIBUTIVES may be expressed by repeating cardinals, or by a dative: seofon and seofon, seven by seven: bí tpám, by twos.

145. In answer to how often, numeral adverbs are used, or an ordinal or cardinal with sút (time): áne, once; tpípa (tpíga), twice; þrípa (þríga), thrice; þriddan súde, the third time; feóper sútum, four times.

146. For adverbs of division the cardinals are used, or ordinals with dæl: on þreó, in three (parts); seofedan dæl, seventh part.

147. An ordinal before healf (half) numbers the whole of which the half is counted: hê þæs þá tpá geár and þridde healf, he was there two years and (the) third (year) half = 2½ years. The whole numbers are usually understood: hê riesóde mgonteóde healf geár, he reigned half the nineteenth year = 18½ years. A similar idiom is used in German and Scandinavian.

148. Sum, agreeing with a numeral, is indefinite, as in English: sume tén geár, some ten years, more or less; limited by the genitive of a cardinal it is a partitive of eminence: eóde eahta sum, he went one of eight = with seven attendants or companions.

VERB.

149. The notion signified by a verb root may be predicated of a subject or uttered as an interjection of command, or (2) it may be spoken of as a substantive fact or as descriptive of some person or thing. In the first case proper verb stems are formed, or auxiliaries used, to denote time, mode, and voice; and suffixes (personal endings) are used to indicate the person and number of the subject: thus is made up the verb proper or finite verb. In the second case a noun stem is formed, and declined in cases as a substantive or adjective.

150. TWO VOICES.—The active represents the subject as acting, the passive as affected by the action. The active has inflection endings for many forms, the passive only for a participle. Other passive forms help this participle with the auxiliary verbs eom (am), beón, pesan, peordan.

(n.) The middle voice represents the subject as affected by its own action. It is expressed in Anglo-Saxon by adding pronouns, and needs no paradigms.

151. SIX MODES.—The indicative states or asks about a fact, the subjunctive a possibility; the imperative commands or in-treats; the infinitives (and gerunds) are substantives, the participles adjectives. Certain forms of possibility are expressed by auxiliary modal verbs with the infinitive. They need separate discussion, and are conveniently called a potential mode.

152. FIVE TENSES.—Present, imperfect, future, perfect, pluperfect. The present and imperfect have tense stems; the future is expressed by the present, or by aid of secal (shall) or pille (will); the perfect by aid of the present of habban (have) or, with some intransitives, beón (be), pesan or peordan (be); the pluperfect by aid of the imperfect of habban, beón, pesan, or peordan.

153. TWO NUMBERS, singular and plural.

154. THREE PERSONS, first, second, and third.

155. STEMS AND THEMES.—A tense-stem is that part of a verb to which the signs of mode, person, and number were added in that tense. The verb-stem is that to which the tense signs were added. The theme of any part of a verb is so much of it as is unchanged in the inflection. For roots, § 57.

156. THE PRINCIPAL PARTS are the present infinitive, the imperfect indicative first persons, and the passive participle.

157. CONJUGATION.—Verbs are classified for conjugation by the stems of the imperfect tense.

Strong Verbs express tense by varying the root vowel; weak verbs, by composition. Strong verbs in the imperfect indicative singular first person have the root vowel unchanged, or changed by progression or by contraction. The vowels are

8,	affix -ô > -û; -ia > -ige, -ie	+ôde	+ôd

(a.) The variation of letters in the five first classes is called ABLAUT; it sprang from gravitation (§ 38) and compensation (§ 37). Its beginnings may be seen in the other Indo-European tongues, plainest in Sanskrit. Sanskrit grammars have ten conjugation classes; the present stems are, 1.  $\sqrt{+a}$ ; 2.  $\sqrt{}$ ; 3. Reduplicated  $\sqrt{}$ ; 4.  $\sqrt{+ja}$ ; 5.  $\sqrt{+nu}$ ; 6.  $\sqrt{+a'}$ ; 7.  $\sqrt{}$  with n inserted; 8.  $\sqrt{+u}$ ; 9.  $\sqrt{+ni}$ ; 10.  $\sqrt{+aja}$ . Anglo-Saxon strong verbs correspond to the first or sixth class, a few to the fourth; weak verbs to the (4th?) and tenth. Sanskrit reduplicated preterites (perfects) are formed all alike from the root by prefixing its first letters.

(b.) The Sanskrit passive past participle in -na is accented on the affix, and the root in Teutonic has precession like the imperfect plural. § 175.

(c.) Roots in a have conformed to the analogy of the Sanskrit Sixth Conjugation Class, those in i and u to that of the first. Since accent opens the organs, the open a must be most varied by its absence (i. e., by precession), the close i and u by its presence—progression.

(e.) In Sanskrit these vowel changes have no meaning, but are mostly mechanical results of the accent: yet, as the place of the accent depends on the weight of the prefixes and suffixes in which the meaning resides, the vowel changes come to be signs of this meaning, and, as the prefixes and suffixes decay, the sole signs of it. The vowels are the vehicles of emotion and harmony; to make them signs of relation fuses thought and feeling, and gives power for oratory and poetry. The Teutonic races, like the Semitic, found this fusion congenial, and in the earliest Gothic the ablaut is already a fundamental law of the language. Physiology teaches that progression may spring from accent, that precession may take place in unaccented syllables of course, and in accented syllables from compensation or shifting: comparison of Anglo-Saxon and English proves these possibilities to be important facts in the history of language; the Sanskrit verb shows that they are the facts from which sprang Ablaut. §§ 37, 38, 41. The changes of the i-roots and u-roots are established in Sanskrit; those of the a-roots are only occasional in the present even in the sixth class, and that class is small. It seems, then, that a-roots of the Sanskrit sixth class were drawn to ablaut by conformation with i-roots and u-roots, and that a-roots of the first class conformed after ablaut was fully established, except such as attained the Fourth Teutonic Conjugation, where the whole perfect conforms in progression to the singular  $\acute{o} < \acute{a}$ .

(f.) In Gothic, the present, the imperfect plural, and past participle have the same precession or progression as in Sanskrit (§§ 18, 38). The imperfect singular has a second progression in the second, third, and fourth conjugations, because it has gravitated to a monosyllable.

(g.) The  $\acute{e}$  of imperfect plural ténimá is from ani, a compensative dropping of n and lengthening of a, the result of which is modified by i—a process in which we may see how umlaut and contraction run into each other.

(h.) Imperfect plural and past participle  $u < a$  is in liquid and double consonant roots. The first consonant is almost always a liquid. The effort for the two consonants takes the place of accent in part. For the assimilating effect of m, n, l, r, see § 35, 2. In Sanskrit, also, a goes to u in connection with r, m, n.

(i.) In Anglo-Saxon and the other Teutonic tongues the changes from Gothic ablaut are explained by umlaut, breaking, and shifting. O. Fries., 38.

159. CONTRACTION.—Roots incapable of progression kept the reduplication till after the accent had shifted to it (§ 41, 4) and it had taken progression (Gothic  $i < \acute{a}i$ ); and in Anglo-Saxon they had contracted the reduplication and root to a uniform  $e\acute{o}$  or  $\acute{e}$ .

(a.) Such roots are those in  $a$ +two consonants, and in vowels having the second progression (§ 38). Add, also, a few in Gothic  $\acute{e}$ ,  $\acute{a}i$ , perf.  $\acute{a}i-\acute{o}$ : lét-an (let), lái-lót; lai-an (blame), lái-lò. Hence Grimm's Conjugation Classes from the vowels of the present and (im)perfect:

O. H. G.	_____		_____		uo, io.
Ang. Sax.	â + p, eô + p;		æ > ê, eô > ê;		ô, eô > ê.

(b.) Traces of the process of contraction are found in O. H. German and in the following Anglo-Saxon words :

Gothic haldan , hold,	perf. hâihald ;	O. H. G. halten , heialt > hialt > hialt .
Gothic stûtan , strike,	perf. stâistûnt ;	O. H. G. stôzan , stêrôz ( r &lt; st ) > steoz , stioz .
Gothic hâitan , call,	perf. hâihâit ;	A.-Sax. hâtan , hêht < hêhât .
Gothic rêdan , rede,	perf. râirôth ;	A.-Sax. râdan , reôrd < rêrôrd .
Gothic lêtan , let,	perf. lâilôt ;	A.-Sax. lêtan , leôrt ( r &lt; l , § 41, 3, A) < lê-
Gothic lûkan , leap,	perf. lâilûk ;	A.-Sax. lâcan , leôlc < lêlâc . [ lôt .
		A.-Sax. on-drêdan , on-drêord , dread.

The repeated consonants weaken, and finally fall out and let the vowels together. In the Anglo-Saxon relics the first root consonant is saved by metathesis with the root vowel. These contractions at first gave rise to several different vowels and diphthongs found in O. H. German. Conformation in analogy with ablaut has brought them to a uniform eô or ê in Ang.-Saxon. § 52. O. Fries. presents a, è, ê, â, ô, é; perf. î, ê.

160. COMPOSITION.—Derivatives form the imperfect by suffixing to the verb stem de < dide, imperfect of dôn, do : lufô-de = did love.

(a.) This formation is common to, and peculiar to, the Teutonic tongues. Two suffixes of derivation appear in Anglo-Saxon verb stems : -ia > ie > i > e > — (Latin -î, Conj. IV.), and -ô > (â, u) > e (Latin -â, Conj. I.), both from an original -aja, Sanskrit Class Tenth, Greek pure verbs.

Gothic and O. H. German have also a stem in -âi, -ê, corresponding to the Latin Second Conjugation.

(b.) Derivatives in Sanskrit have only a periphrastic perfect, one form of which has kar (do) as its auxiliary enclitic; the Greek passive first aorist is compounded with  $\theta\epsilon = de$  (§ 168); the Latin first, second, and fourth conjugations compound with fui (be) > -vi, -ui: amā-vi, doc(ē)ui, audi-vi.

161. TENSE STEMS.—The present stem suffixes a or ia to the root. The imperfect is from the old perfect, which repeated (reduplicated) the root. The Parent Speech had also an aorist stem prefixing to the root a demonstrative radicle called the augment, and an imperfect prefixing a similar augment to the present stem. Other tense stems were formed by composition, as a future with as (to be) or bhu (to be).

162. MODE SUFFIXES.—The indicative and imperative suffix the personal endings to the tense stem; the subjunctive prolonged the stem to express doubt or hesitation by suffixing to it a for present contingency, ia or i for past contingency or desire (the optative mode). The Teutonic subjunctives are from the optative.

163. PERSONAL ENDINGS are from the same radicles as the personal pronouns. § 130.

The Sanskrit, Greek, and Gothic have a dual. §§ 61, 2; 165, c.

The usual phonetic decay has been modified by two main causes: (1) different weight of the tense stems, (2) different mode suffixes. It will be discussed in connection with the paradigm of a strong verb.

3. na-nam-anti	ném-ús	νε-νεμ-ήκασι	ém-(ér)unt	ném-un	nám-un	nám-u

O. H. Ger. nam, nám-i, nam; nám-umes, -ut, -un. O. Fries. endings are like Ang.-Saxon, nam > nom.

A.-Sax. plur. may be -un, -um, § 212; before a subj., -e, and see § 170, c.

(a.) The reduplication sets at work compensation (§ 37, 4), and all the singular endings are lost except in the second person a vanishing -e < -i. O. Sax. and O. H. Ger. have -i < Sanskrit -i-tha, and a stem like the plural. Gothic and O. Norse have -t < -tha and the singular unchanged stem; -t is found in some Anglo-Saxon preteritive verbs: scealt, etc., § 167. Weak verbs in Gothic have -s < -th < -t, like the present, and it is found in Anglo-Saxon, oftenest in the new imperfect of preteritive verbs: cunnan, imp. cúdes; so læstes, observedst; brohtes, broughtest; sealdes, gavest, etc. (§ 168); and in Northumbrian; weak verbs generally strengthen the -s > -st like the present.

PLURAL.—m > n is shifting (41, b); the second person conforms with the first and third. Sanskrit -i, Gothic -u, connecting vowel, inserted for euphony; -u > -o-, precession, § 38.

167. FUTURE.—Sceal is a preterito-present, § 212; pille is irregular in the singular after the same analogy, § 40; niman is the infinitive. For the history and use of these periphrastic forms, see Syntax.

168. PERFECT AND PLUPERFECT.—Hæbbe, imperf. hæfde, is a weak verb, § 183; eom, imperf. pæs, is irregular, § 213; numen is the past participle. For history and use, see Syntax.

Sanskrit da-dhâ-mi <  $\sqrt{dhâ}$ , Greek  $\tau\acute{\iota}\text{-}\theta\eta\text{-}\mu\iota$ , does not occur as an independent verb in Gothic, and the form is supplied by comparison. The reduplication has given rise to a secondary stem, Sanskrit dadh, Gothic dad, O. H. Ger. tat, from which the plural and second singular are formed with the ablaut of the first conjugation. For second singular -s, see § 166. In haf-ia-de > hafde, ia drops and  $\sqrt{a}$  shifts (§ 41).

170. SUBJUNCTIVE PRESENT < Optative STEM nama-i (§ 162).

	Parent Sp.	Sanskrit.	Greek.	Latin.	Gothic.	O. Sax.	O. Norse.
SING.—1.	namai-m	námêj-am	νέμοι-μι	emê-m	nimâu	nimê	nemi
2.	namai-s	námê-s	νέμοι-ς	emê-s	nimâi-s	nimê-s	nemi-r

3.	namai-nt	námêj-us	νέμοι-ε-ν	emê-nt	nimâi-na	nimê-n	nemi

O. H. Ger. neme, nemê-s, neme; nemê-mês, -t, -n. O. Fries. nime throughout. The Latin serves as a future; emêm is archaic. O. Sax. has  $\hat{a}=\hat{e}$ : nimân.

The PLURAL in Anglo-Saxon ends often in  $-\hat{a}n$  >  $-\overline{an}$ ,  $-\overline{on}$  >  $-en$  >  $-e$ , §§ 18, 38. Before a subject pronoun -e is used.

(a.) The long stem ending has worked like the long vowels of feminine nouns (§ 64, 2); the singular is weathered of the personal endings. Plural  $m > n$  is shifting (§ 41, b), and the second person conforms with the first and third (§ 40, 1).

(b.) The accent in the Sanskrit is the same as in the present indicative; and hence the root vowel is the same; but the stem ending works a-umlaut whenever there is umlaut in the plural indicative; m stops it in Saxon niman.

(c.) The plural subjunctive endings (especially -an) are sometimes found in the indicative of auxiliaries, of präteritive presents, and of imperfects, most of which have a subjunctive force. §§ 151, 40.

171. THE SUBJUNCTIVE IMPERFECT (Optative Perfect) STEM

nanam + jâ > nêmjâ (§ 166).

	Sanskrit.	Greek.	Gothic.	O. Saxon.	O. Norse.	O. H. Ger.
SING.—1.	nêmjâ-m	νε-νεμ(ηκο)ίη-ν	nêmjâu	nâmi	nâmi	nâmi

3.	nêmjâs	νε-νεμ(ηκο)ίη-σαν	nêmei-ma	nâmi-n	nâmi	nâmi-n

The Sanskrit is an uncommon form from the Vedas. The accent on the ending leaves the root to the same changes as in the plural of the imperfect indicative. Anglo Saxon stem  $\hat{i} > e$  is precession; the personal endings as in the present subjunctive. Conformation with the present brings in the ending -an, -on; for -e, § 170. O. Fries. nôme, throughout.

(a.) The dative case ending is gone in Teutonic infinitives. § 38.

(b.) Gerund -enne > -ende (§ 445, 2, nn > nd, § 27, 5), so in O. N.; M. H. Ger.; Friesic, O. Sax., and O. H. Ger. have a genitive nim-annias, -an-nas (-es); nem-ennes; and M. H. German has gen. nem-endes.

(c.) To these stems of the participles are added suffixes contained in the case endings. §§ 104-106.

(d.) The Greek verbals in -τός are not counted participles (Hadley, 261, c). Only weak verbs have -da, -da, in Teutonic. Few verbs have the participle in -na in Sanskrit, only relics are found in Greek and Latin, but all the strong verbs use it in Teutonic.

(e.) Weak stems in -ia and -ô have i, e, ig or ige, before -an, -ann, -end. § 165, d.

187. The special periphrastic forms and the whole passive voice of weak verbs are conjugated with the same auxiliaries as those of strong verbs (§§ 176-182).

188. PRESENTS (Weak).

(a.) Like nerian inflect stems in -ia from short roots: derian, hurt; helian, cover; hegian, hedge; seerian, apportion; spyrian, speer; sylian, soil; Iunian, thunder, etc.

(b.) But many stems in -ia from short roots have compensative gemination of their last consonant where it preceded i—(throughout the present, except in the indicative singular second and third, and the imperative singular); ci > ce, dī > dd, fi > bb, gi > cg, li > ll, etc.; indicative lece (< legie), lay, legest, leged; lecgud (< legiad); subjunctive lece, lecgēn; imperative lege, lecgud; infinitive legan; part. pres. lecgende; part. past leged. So reccan, reach; hredðan, rescue; habban, have; sellan, give; tellan, tell; fremman, frame; clynnan, clang; dippan, dip; cnys-san, knock; settan, set, etc.

(c.) Like hÿran inflect stems in -ia > -e > — from long roots: dêlan, deal; dêman, deem; belêpan, leave; mênan, mean; sprengan, spring; styrman, storm; cennan, bring forth; cyssan, kiss, etc. Infinitives in -can occur: sêc-can, § 175, e.

(d.) Like lyftan inflect stems showing -ô in the imperfect: ârian, honor; beorhtian, shine; cleopian, call; hopian, hope. Past participles have ô, â, e; gegearp-ôd, -âd, -ed, prepared.

189. SYNCOPATED IMPERFECTS (Weak).

(a.) Stem -e < -ia is syncopated after long roots: cīg-an, call, cīg-de; dāel-on, deal, dāel-de; dēm-an, deem, dēm-de; drēf-an, trouble, drēf-de; fēd-an, feed; hēd-an, heed; hȳr-an, hear; lêd-an, lead; be-lêp-an, leave; mân-an, mean; nȳd-an, urge; rêd-an, read; spêd-an, speed; spreng-an, spring, spreng-de; bærn-an, burn, bærn-de; styrn-an, storm; so sep-de and sep-te, showed.

(b.) ASSIMILATION.—After a surd, -d becomes surd (-t). (Surd p, t, c (x), ss, h, not f or s alone, §§ 17, 30): rêp-an, bind, rêp-te; bêt-an, better, bêt-te; grêt-an, greet, grêt-te; mêt-an, meet, mêt-te; drenc-an, drench, drenc-te; lȳx-an, shine, lȳx-te; but lȳs-an, release, lȳs-de; fȳs-an, haste, fȳs-de; rês-an, rush, rês-de.

(c.) DISSIMILATION.—The mute c becomes continuous (h) before -t: têc-an, teach, têh-te; êc-an, eke, êh-te and êc-te, 36, 3.

(e.) ## VARIATIONS OF PRESENT INDICATIVE.

193. Stem  $-i > -e$  in the singular second and third person works on the root vowel differently from  $-a > -e$  of the other persons.

(1.) Root  $i$  is here unchanged, while other forms have a-umlaut ( $i > e$ ), § 32, or breaking ( $i > eo$ ), § 33: drepan; steorfan, starve, steorfe, stirf(e)st, stirf(e)d, steorfad; but  $y$ , not  $i$ , is usually found with  $eo$ , and often incorrectly with  $e$ .

(2.) Here is i-umlaut of  $a$ ,  $ea$ ,  $eo$ ,  $u$ ,  $\hat{a}$ ,  $\hat{o}$ ,  $e\hat{a}$ ,  $e\hat{o}$ ,  $\hat{u}$ , to  $e$ ,  $e(y)$ ,  $y$ ,  $y$ ,  $\hat{e}$ ,  $\hat{o}$ ,  $\hat{e}(\hat{y})$ ,  $\hat{y}$ ,  $\hat{y}$ :

bacan, feallan, sleahan  $>$  sleán, beorgan, cuman, lācan, grōpan, hleāpan, creópan, scāfan. § 32.

(3.) Here is shifting of  $a > \alpha$ : faran;  $a > e$  is rare. § 41.

194. Stem  $-i > -e$  of the singular second and third person is often syncopated in strong verbs and weak verbs of the first class. Then

Variation of root vowel remains,

Assimilation of consonants follows,

Gemination is simplified: etan, td  $>$   $t$  (§ 35, B);

tređan, dst  $>$   $st$  (§ 35, A), dt  $>$   $t$  (§ 36, 5); bindan, ndst  $>$  ntst  $>$  nst (§ 35, A), ndt  $>$   $nt$  (§ 36, 5); cpedan, dst  $>$   $st$  (§ 35, A), dt  $>$   $d$  (§ 20, 13); lesan, sst  $>$   $st$  (§ 20, 13), sd  $>$   $st$  (§ 35, B); berstan, stst  $>$   $st$ , std  $>$   $st$  (§ 35, B); lcōgan, gst  $>$  hst, gt  $>$  hd (§ 35, B); drīfan, drive, drīf(e)st, drīf(e)d or drift (§ 35, B).

(a.) The ending of the third person  $-d$  ( $-p$ ) was a surd ( $p$ ) when these changes were established (e. g. dt  $>$   $t$ ). Gothic grammars give  $-p$ , but  $-d$  is often in the manuscripts; Old Saxon grammars give  $-d$ , but  $-th$  is often found. English has uniformly  $-th = -p$ . In Gothic, any dental + a preceding dental =  $st$ ; + a preceding labial =  $ft$ ; + a preceding guttural =  $ht$ , a law which illustrates the frequent appearance of final  $t$  in Anglo-Saxon. In Anglo-Saxon folkspeech there was doubtless variation in the sound of this ending, as in Gothic and Old Saxon; in syncopated forms it was surd after surds: crīpđ ( $p$ ), creeps; drinđ ( $p$ ), drinks; sonant after sonants (rare): bringđ, brings ( $z$ ); but the predominant sound was always surd, as in Gothic and English. Compare liget for liged, lieth.

(b.) Of the three forms given of the singular second and third persons, the syncopated (drīpđ) is the common prose form, the unsyncopated, unvaried, or varied by i-umlaut (driped, byrged) is more frequent in poetry, the varied by a-umlaut (dreped) is a later conformation with the other persons.

195. Verbs from roots in  $-h$  contract (§ 52): sleán  $<$  sleahan; fleón  $>$  fleoan.

196. Stems in  $-ia$  with compensative gemination hold it except in the indicative singular second and third—sometimes throughout; but the imperative singular has -e (§§ 188, b; 199; 207, d): liegan < ligian, lie, imperative lige.

197. VARIATION IN STRONG IMPERFECTS.

So inflect lidan, lât, lidon, sail, etc. (§ 205); seôdan, seâċ, sudon, seethe, etc. (§ 206); teâh, tuge < teôhan, tug; freôsan, freeze (frore); forleôsan, lose (forlorn); hreošan, rush; pesan, be, p. p. pesen, etc. (§ 206).

198. SUMMARY OF VARIATIONS IN CONJUGATION.

(a.) The root vowel may take five forms:

(1.) Throughout the present except the indicative singular second and third persons.

(2.) In the indicative singular second and third persons.

(3.) In the imperfect singular first and third persons.

(4.) In the other forms of the imperfect.

(5.) In the passive participle.

(b.) Consonant assimilation works mainly on the indicative singular second and third persons, and on the weak imperfects and passive participles.

(c.) We give the present indicative singular first, second, and third persons, the imperfect indicative singular first person and plural first person, and the passive participle.

(d.) Only the varied syncopated forms of the present indicative second and third persons are often given; the other regular forms generally occur, but may be easily supplied (§ 193, b). Any variation of vowel, or assimilation of consonants, which has been given in the phonology, and is here recorded as found in any verb, may be looked for with any similar verb. The variations of the imperfect plural -on (§§ 166, 170) are not given. The final root consonants determine the arrangement,—labials, dentals, gutturals. Vowels in parenthesis after a word are variations of its root vowels.

FIRST CONJUGATION,  $\sqrt{a}$ .

199.—I. Roots ending in a single consonant not a liquid:

Ablaut ( $i; a, \hat{a}; i$ )  $>$  ( $e; x, \hat{x}; e$ );  $i > e$ , a-umlaut;  $a > x, \hat{a} > \hat{x} > \hat{e}$ , shifting (§§ 158, 32, 41); ( $y, ie$ )  $<$   $i$ , bad spelling, is frequent; variation of consonants, § 194. Layamon and Ormulum hold the Ang.-Sax. ablaut, though with varying spelling; in Old English it is broken up, especially in the imperfect, where both numbers at last are alike. English ablaut ( $\bar{e}e, \bar{e}a; a, a; \bar{e}e, \bar{e}a$ ) = ( $i; \bar{a}$  or  $\bar{e}; i$ ):  $\bar{e}at, ate$  ( $\bar{e}t$ ),  $\bar{e}aten$ ; for stems with  $g$ -breaking and in  $-ia$  ( $i; a, a; i$ ):  $bid, b\bar{a}de, bidden$ ;  $e > \hat{i}$ , progression (§ 38);  $x > e$ , shifting (§ 41). Most of these verbs vary in English from their type in conformation with the forms in § 200, and with weak verbs.

212. IRREGULAR VERBS.

I. PRÆTERITIVE PRESENTS.—The completion of certain acts is the beginning of states; perfects of verbs denoting such acts get to be used as presents denoting the states: Sansk. vé'da, Greek foîda, Ang.-Sax. pât, I have seen > I know. About a dozen such verbs are common to the Teutonic tongues. They retain antiquated personal endings and other forms, have peculiar syntactical relations, and the original notion of their verb has often given place to a varying modal force, in which case they become auxiliary verbs. The old presents are obsolete. New weak imperfects are formed.

O. H. German has weiz, weiz-t, weiz, plur. wiz-a-més, wiz-u-t, wiz-u-n. The other forms use the vowel of ablaut which appears in the plural of the new present. It may be varied by umlaut, or other assimilation. The personal endings have all the variation mentioned in §§ 165, 166, 170: mâg-um, -un, -on, -en, -e, -an; meah-tes. In caust, gemanst, âhst, -t is strengthened to -st (§§ 50; 40, 1). The grammars give unne, cunne, durre, þurfe, âge, duge as regular indic. pres. sing. 2d; but their examples are subjunctive.

213.—II. VERBS WITHOUT CONNECTING VOWEL (Relics of Sanskrit 2d Class, § 158):

(1.) The common forms of the substantive verb are from three roots:
 $\sqrt{as}$ ,  $\sqrt{bhu}$ ,  $\sqrt{vas}$ .

	(a.)—Sanskrit.	Greek.	Latin.	Gothic.	O. Saxon.	Anglo-Saxon.	O. Norse.
Stem,	as, s	εσ	es, s	is, s	is, s	is, ir, s ;	ar er
2.	ás-(s)i	εσ-σι, εi	es-	is-	—	—	ear-t < er-t
3.	ás-ti	εσ-τι	es-t	is-t	is-t	is-	er-
PLUR.—1.	* s-más	εσ-μév	* s-u-mus	—	* s-ind	* s-ind (on)	ear-on < er-u-m
2.	* s-thá	εσ-τῆ	es-tis	—	* s-ind	* s-ind (on)	ear-on < er-u-ð
3.	* s-ánti	ε-άντι, ε-σι	* s-unt	* s-ind	* s-ind (un)	* s-ind (on)	ear-on < er-u

As > s, compensation, gravitation (§§ 37, 38); as > is, precession (§ 38).
ys < is, bad spelling; s > r, shifting (§ 41, 3, b); irm > (corm) > com, arm > (earn) eam, breaking (§ 33); second person -s and -t (§ 165); nt > nd, shifting (§ 19), nt is often found. Seond-on, -un (ie, y), u-umlaut? (§ 32); -on in earon (O. Norse er-u-m) (§ 166, a); in sind-on, a double plura. through conformation (§ 40); aron, earon, are rare in West Saxon.

The subjunctive (Sansk. \**s-jâ-m*, Greek  $\epsilon^*-\iota\eta-\nu$ , Lat. \**s-iê-m* > sîm, Goth. \**s-ija-u*, O. H. Ger., O. Sax., Ang.-Sax. \**s-i*, O. Norse \**s-ê*) is inflected like the imperfect given in § 171. Anglo-Saxon has also sî > sig (dissimilated gemination, § 27) > sie, seô (a peculiar progression, § 25) > sý (bad spelling); so plur. sîn, sîen, seôn, sýn. The subjunctive often has the force of an imperative, and is given as the imperative in Ælfric's grammar.

(b.)  $\sqrt{bhu}$ , be. Sansk. bhav-âmi, Greek  $\phi\acute{o}-\omega$ , Lat. fu-i, correspond in form to Goth. báu-an, Ang.-Sax. bú-an, dwell. From the same root are found forms without a connecting vowel in Ang.-Sax., O. Sax., O. H. Ger. In O. Sax. are only biu-m, bi-st; in O. H. Ger. pi-m, pi-s, —, plur. pi-rumcs, pi-rut, pi-run ( $r < s < \sqrt{as}$ ). Ang.-Sax. has beô-(n) (iô), bi-st (y), bi-t (y), plur. beôð (iô), and a present subjunctive, imperative, and infinitive, with the common endings;  $e\acute{o} > \acute{y} > y > i$ , umlaut, precession, and shifting (§§ 32, 38, 41). Sing. 3d be\acute{o}d occurs (conformation).

(c.)  $\sqrt{vas} > vis$  (ablaut) is inflected in the First Conjugation, §§ 199, 197, but the present indicative forms are so rare that they are not given in the grammars.

p\acute{e}, g\acute{e}, h\acute{i}	p\acute{a}ron;	p\acute{a}ren;
---	-----------------------	-----------------------

The negative ne often unites with forms beginning with a vowel or p: neom = ne + eom; nis; n\acute{a}rs = ne + p\acute{a}rs, p. p. n\acute{a}rende < ne p\acute{a}rende, etc.

(2.)  $\sqrt{dha}$ , place: Sansk. da-dh\acute{a}-mi, Greek  $\tau\acute{\iota}-\theta\eta-\mu\iota$ , Goth. —, O. Sax. a\acute{o}-n, O. H. Ger. tuo-n, do. Anglo-Saxon imperfect from reduplicated theme dad;  $a > \acute{a}$  (ablaut, § 199)  $> y > i$ , irregular weakening. § 168.

	Indicative Sing.	Plur.	Subj.	Imperat.	Infinitive.	Participle.
Pres. ..	d\acute{o}, d\acute{e}-st, d\acute{e}-t;	d\acute{o}-t;	d\acute{o}, -n;	d\acute{o}, -d;	d\acute{o}-n;	do-nde.
Imperf.	did-e (y), -est, -e; -ou (x);		-e (x), n;			d\acute{o}-n, d\acute{e}-n.

(3.)  $\sqrt{ga}$ , go: Sansk. g\acute{i}-g\acute{a}-mi, Greek  $\beta\acute{\iota}-\beta\eta-\mu\iota$ , Goth. gaggan, O. Sax. g\acute{a}-n, O. H. Ger. g\acute{e}-n. Imperfect from  $\sqrt{i}$  (Sansk.  $\acute{e}'-mi$ , Greek  $\acute{\epsilon}\iota-\mu\iota$ , Lat.  $\acute{i}-re$ , go, § 158, a)  $>$  Goth. i-ddja, weak form strengthened.

Pres. ..	g\acute{a}, g\acute{a}-st, g\acute{a}-d;	g\acute{a}t;	g\acute{a}, -n;	g\acute{a}, -d;	g\acute{a}-n;
Imperf.	e\acute{o}-de, -dest, -de; -don (§ 37);				ge-g\acute{a}-n.

From the same root are the nasalized forms gangan, imperf. ge\acute{o}ng, g\acute{e}ng, gi\acute{e}ng (§ 208, b); geongan (§ 201); and gengan, imperf. gengde.

214. REDUPLICATE PRESENTS (Relics of Sanskrit 3d Class, § 158): gangan <  $\sqrt{ga} >$  ga-g\acute{a}-mi, go (§ 213); so hangan, standan, § 216).

215. STEMS IN -ia of strong verbs (Relics of Sanskrit 4th Class, § 158): fricge, inquire, etc. (§ 199); sperie, swear, etc. (§ 207, d).

216. STEMS WITH n INSERTED (Relics of Sanskrit 7th Class, § 158):

fö < fähe > (fä(n)gan), fëng, etc., catch (§ 208, b).

ga(n)gan < ga-ga, go (§ 214).

hó < háhe > (há(n)gan), hëng, etc., hang (§ 208, b).

sta(n)dan, stöd, etc. (§ 207, c).

brē(n)gan, brohte, bring; pe(n)can, pohte, think; py(n)can, puhte, seem (§§ 209, c; 211).

217. STEM IN  $\sqrt{\text{ }} + na$  (Relic of Sanskrit 9th Class): frignan, ask (§ 202), shows itself of this formation in Gothic, but is consolidated in Anglo-Saxon.

218. RELICS OF REDUPLICATION (§ 159, b): hátan, call, hêht; lácán, leap, leólc (§ 208, 2); lätan, let, leórt; ondrêdan, dread, ondreórd; rêdan, rede, reórd (§ 208, 4); and see § 214.

219. RELIC OF PASSIVE: hátan, call, is called (§ 208, 2); passive indic. pres. sing. 1, hât-te (x̄), I am called; 3, hât-te, he is called. Imperf. sing. 1, 3, hât-te; plur. hât-ton. Hätte = Gothic haitada: -te, Goth. -da (bairada), Greek -ται (φείρε-ται), Sansk. -tê (bhâra-tê) < ta-ti > Parent Speech -tai (bhâra-tai). Compare § 163: ai > a > e, precession, § 38; t > d, shifting, § 19; td > tt, assimilation, § 35, B.

220. VERBS WITH MIXED ABLAUT: drepan, strike, p. p. drepen and dropen (§ 199); bregdan, braid (§ 202); spelgan, swallow (§ 203); sîhan, seón, strain; tîhan, teón, accuse; þîhan, þeón, grow; prîhan, preón, cover (§§ 205, 206); but these eight last should be treated as separate verbs.

221. VERBS WITH MIXED STRONG AND WEAK FORMS: finde, find, imperf. fand and funde (§ 201); búan, inhabit; imperf. bú-de; p. p. gebú-n; búian, búgian, búþian are other variations; cidan, chide, cád, cidde.

222. VERBS WITH MIXED WEAK FORMS in -ia and ô (§§ 160; 165, d; 183). The same theme often has forms from both stems; but they are best given under different verbs:

Theme lif has imperfects lif-de (< stem lifia) and lifô-de (y, eo) (< stem lifô). Hence two verbs, libban < lifian by compensative gemination (§ 188, b), and lifian like lufian (§ 183).

With libban are put indic. pres. (libbe, plur. libbat, not in Grein) imperf. lifde, lifdon.

With lifian, pres. lif(i)ge, leofäst, lifüd (eo, y), plur. lif-iaat (-igad, -gad, -igeat); imperative leofä; p. p. lifiende; imperf. lifôde (y, eo). The i of ia has its usual variations in the infinitive and participle (ig, ige, ge, g), § 175; i > eo, a-umlaut, § 32.

Habban (x̄), have, < hafian, has, besides full forms from -ia, indic. sing. 1 haf-a, -o, -u; 2, haf-äst; 3, haf-äd; imperative haf-ä. For other forms, see pages 84, 85, 86.

Seegan, say (§ 209), has sagǣst, sagǣd, sagǣ to put with a sagian; so tellan and talian, tell (§ 209); hyegan and hogian, mind (§ 211), etc.

223. WEAK VERBS WITH RÜCKUMLAUT: byege, buy, bohte, etc. (§ 211).

224. FORMS DISGUISED by ecthliipsis and the like.

(a.) ECTHLIOPSIS of g, h, or p:

bregdan > brede, braid; stregdan > strede, strow; frignan > frine, ask, etc., vowel e, i kept short by ablaut (§ 202); leegan, lay, imperf. legde > lēde; sægde > sæde, said, etc. (§ 209); spigian, be silent, spigad > spiad, etc.; bogan > bôd, boasts.

fô < fâhe, catch; hô < hâhe, hang, etc. (§ 208, b); scô < sîhe, etc. (§ 205); and many others, strong and weak.

gerpan (ie, y, i, ea, æ), equip; imperf. gyrede, p. p. gegyrped, gyred. serpan (y), contrive; indic. pres. plur. syrpad, syrepad; imperf. syrp(e)de, syr(e)de (e); p. p. gesyrped.

(b.) DISSIMILATED GEMINATION: p > up > ep (§ 117); (i > ig > ige, regular, § 183); syrepad < syrpan, contrive; gefræteþod < gefræwþian, adorn. Compare poruhte < porhte < pyrean, work (§ 211).

(c.) ASSIMILATION: po > u; pi > u; þperan, weld, p. p. geþporen > geþuren (§ 200); spigian (y), be silent, imperf. sûgôde, spigôde (§ 224, a).

(d.) SHIFTING of f, p to u: begrauen < begrafen < grafen, grave (§ 207); bi-pâunc < pâpen < pâpan, blow (§ 208, 2).

(e.) INTERCHANGE of g, i, and p: (h and g regular (§§ 197, 118)); bûgian, bûpian, inhabit (§ 221); herian, herig(e)an, herpan (y), blaspheme; and many more. For scôn, see, seah, sægon, (ge)sepen. § 197.

(f.) METATHESIS: frignan > fringan, ask (§§ 201, 202); geþrûen < geþperen, weld (§ 200), etc.

225. NORTHUMBRIAN.—INFLECTION.—Indic. pres. sing.: 1, -o; 2, -est; 3, -eð > -es; plur. -ad > -as. Subjunctive: sing. -e; plur. -en > -e. Infinitive: -an (rare) > -a > -æ > -e. Imperfect plur. -un, -on drops n before a subject woe (pê), we, or gie (gê), ye, and -u, -o may go to e or i.

VARIATION.—The vowels of ablaut and other variation may change as in § 26. The first form of ablaut (§§ 199, 200) has present ea, eo; imperf. sing. æ, oe, e; plur. oe, ê. The contracted imperfects (§ 208) have ê, ei, ea. Weak verbs with stem -ia (§ 160) in the present drop i with compensative gemination (§ 188, b). Stem e remains often in the imperfect, and oftenest in the p. p., except in verbs having rückumlaut (§ 189, d). Stem ô goes to â. Participle pres. often in -and.

IRREGULAR VERBS.—(For first person -m, see § 165, a):

Wosa = Ang.-Sax. pesan: Pres. indic. 1, am, com; 2, arð; 3, is; plur. aron, sund, sindon. Subjunctive, sie. Pres. indic. 1, bium (om); 2, bist; 3, bið; plur. bidon. Imperf. wæs; plur. woerun.

Gâa = Ang.-Sax. gân, go: Pres. indic. 1, gâ (geongo); 2, gâs; 3, gâd; plur. gâad (gâd). Imperf. eâde.

DōA=Ang.-Sax. dōn, do: Pres. indic. 1, dōm (dō); 2, dōes; 3, dōed; plur. dōat (dōed). Subj. dō. Imperf. dyde.

Walla=Ang.-Sax. pillan, will: Pres. indic. 1, willo; 2, wilt; 3, wil; plur. wallad. Imperf. walde. Other forms generally agree with the West Saxon.

226. WEATHERING OF INFLECTION ENDINGS.—(For variation of root vowel, see §§ 199–211):

Subjunctive sing. e, plur. en, e, stands to Chaucer, is gone in Shakespeare.

Imperative sing. e, ǣ, plur. ed, ad, weathers like the indicative.

Infinitive an, Layamon en, Ormulum enn, Chaucer en, e, —, Shakesp. —.

Participle present ende > Layamon ende, inde, inge, Chaucer end, and, yng, Shakespeare ing, conforming with verbal nouns in ing < Ang.-Sax. ung, ing.

Participle past en > n; ôd > ǣd > ed. The prefix ge- > Layamon i- is rare in Ormulum; Chaucer often uses i- or y-, but with this participle only; Shakespeare ridicules it.

VII. DERIVATION.

227. Word stems are made from roots and radicles (§§ 56, 57). The Parent Speech made stems by suffixing a radicle to a root or stem, (2) by change of a root vowel (progression), (3) by reduplication, (4) by combining stems.

(a.) The last class are called compound, the others simple.

(b.) Words having stems formed from verb stems are called verbals; from noun stems, denominatives.

(c.) The radicle makes more definite the indefinite notion of a root by indicating a particular relation in which it is to be conceived. It often brings it under some one of the parts of speech.

The vowel change has a similar force symbolically.

Composition or coalescence combines two notions.

228. SUFFIXES FROM RADICLES (§ 56).

230. NEW STEMS FROM VARIATION OF ROOT VOWEL.

ABLAUT.—The vowel of the present denotes the act or an object suited to act; those of the past denote result, the plural being more abstract. But in many derivatives this force is lost.

First Conjugation, (e (eo); æ (ea); â (â); e; § 199): beran (beoran), bear, > beord, birth; bere, barley; bcarn, child; bær, bier. (i; a, u; u; § 201): singan, sing, > sang, song, song; grindan, grind, > grund, ground.

Second Conjugation, (i; â, i; i; § 205): drifan, drive, > drâf, drove; bîtan, bite, > bit, bit; biter, bitter; bât, bait.

Third Conjugation, (eô (û); eâ, u; o; § 206): beôgan, bend, > beâh, ring; boga, bow; teôhan, tug, > teâm, team; toga, duke; tyht, course.

Fourth Conjugation, (a (ea); ô, ô; a (ea); § 207): grafan, grave, > grâf, grave; grôf, ditch; sceapan, shape, > scôp, shaper, poet.

UMLAUT.—The same stem may occur with and without umlaut or breaking, but this variation does not make a new word, though it may be the beginning of bifurcation (§ 40, 3). Since the ablaut became irregular (§ 199) new words have been formed in large numbers by irregular bifurcation.

SUFFIXES ARRANGED ACCORDING TO THEIR USE.

Formation of Substantives.

231. INDEFINITE NOUN-SIGNS: u < â, —<sup>i</sup> < i, —<sup>i</sup> < jâ, u, —a < a, e < ja, a < an, e < an.

236. DIMINUTIVES:  $c$  (uca, oc<sup>a</sup>),  $l$  ( $l^a < (i)la$ ),  $le < il + an$ ,  $ling$ ,  $incle^{t^a}$ ,  $en^a < jâ + na$ .

$k$  (questioning, § 56) and  $l$  (trilling) are suited to express diminution.

The Sanskrit diminutive is k; Greek, ω, οκ; Latin, l, c-l; Goth., O. H. G., l most; Low German, k most. Anglo-Saxon words in uca, el, le are relics; ling is growing into use. The English uses ock, ling.

bull-uca<sup>n</sup> , bull-ock.	geong-ling<sup>a</sup> , m. young-ling.
cyrn-el<sup>a</sup> , n. ( corn, corn ), kernel.	râp-indle , n. ( râp, rope ), string.
meôp-le , f. (Goth. mavi , virgin; ma-vilô , little girl), girl.	cyc-en<sup>a</sup> , n. ( coc, cock ), chicken.
	mâgd-en<sup>a</sup> , n. ( mâgd, maid ), maiden.

237. PATRONYMICS: ing<sup>a</sup>.

238. GENTILES: e < ia, an, isc, ing<sup>a</sup> (§ 101, 2).

Engl-e (§ 83), English.	Englisc , adj., English.
Got-an , Goths.	Pyr-ing-âs , Thyringians, descendants of Thyr.
Rôm-pare , Romans.

239. PLACE: en<sup>a</sup>, ene<sup>an</sup>.

TIME:

Quasi-suffix, ern (ærn), etc. (§ 101). . . dæg, mǣl.

midl-en<sup>a</sup> , n. midst.	dôm-ern<sup>a</sup> , n. ( dôm, doom ), judgment-
cyc-ene , f. ( coc, cook ), kitchen.	hors-ern , n. horse-stable.	[hall.
geâr-dæg , m. (yore-day), antiquity.	undern-mǣl , n. noon-time.

ADJECTIVES.

240. INDEFINITE SUFFIXES combining with case-endings: —<sup>a</sup>, u < *â, —<sup>i</sup>, a < an, e < *an.

Any adjective theme may have stems in all these endings (§§ 103–114).

241. CHARACTERISTIC, connoting quality of the object denoted by the stem: isc.

Quasi-suffixes, cund, lîc (with nouns).

cild-isc ( cild, child ), child-ish.	pîf-lîc ( pîf, woman ), having the qualities of a woman, womanly.
déofol-cund , (devil-kind) devil-ish.

(a.) Patrial isc also connotes origin from a place or stock: Rômân-isc, Roman; Lunden-isc, Londonish; Engl-isc, English.

242. FITNESS or disposition for the act or state denoted by the theme: ol, or.

Quasi-suffixes, fûs, lîc (with verbs), sum, tÿme, pîs.

sprec-ol ( sprec-an, speak ), talk-ative.	bealo-fûs , disposed to bale , wicked:
bit-or, -er ( bît-an, bite ), bitter.	O. Nor. fûs , O. H. G. funs , ready.

förgifend-lic , to be forgiven.	luf-sum , disposed to love.
un-gescpen-lic , (unseen-) invisible.	lôf-sum , worthy to be praised.
un-gelæred-lic , (unlearned-) unlearn-	luf-tÿme , fitted for love.
ed.	riht-pis , knowing right, righteous.

243. FULLNESS, connoting possession of an object denoted by the stem :
e < ja, ig, iht, ed.

Quasi-suffixes, bære, fæst, ful, heard, leás.

pyrd-e ( peord , worth), worth-y.	pæstm-bære ( pæstm , fruit), fruit-ful.
stán-ig ( stán , stone), stony, abound-	hlÿs-bære ( hlÿsa , fame), famous.
ing in stones ( ix ).	âr-fæst ( âr , honor), honorable.
pel-ig ( pela , wealth), rich.	cear-ful ( cearu , care), care-ful.
stán-iht , stony ( ix ).	mægen-heard , might-y.
ge-hyrn-ed ( horn , horn), horned.	cear-leás ( cearu , care), careless.

244. MATERIAL, (e)n<sup>a</sup>: stân-en (stán, stone), made of stone.
gyld-en (gold, gold), golden.

245. PLACE, erne: súd-erne, southern; nord-erne, northern.
peard: súd-peard, southward; nord-peard, northward.

For Pronouns, see §§ 130–137; comparatives and superl., §§ 122–129.
For Numeral -feald, -óde, -tig, etc., see §§ 139–148.

VERBS.

246. STRONG VERB SUFFIXES: a, ia < ja (§§ 158, a; 215).

These are suffixed to a root.

nim-a-n, take; sper-ia-n, swear; sittan < sit-ia-n, sit.

247. WEAK VERB SUFFIXES: ia < aja, ô < aja (§ 160).

(a.) aja is a secondary suffix = a + ja, a belonging to a simpler word.
In aja > ia, a drops; aja > ajâ > aâ > ô, progression and contraction (§§ 38, 52).

(b.) Variations: ia, iga, igea, ga, ea, a, ie, ige, ge, e, —;
ô, â, a, u, e, precession and dissimilated gemination (§§ 38; 27, 5).

ner-ia-n, ner-e-de, save; infinitive ner-ia-n, ner-iga-n, ner-igea-n, ner-ga-n; fêg-a-n, fêg-ea-n, join, fêg-(e)-de; indicative present ner-ie, ner-ige, ner-ge, ner-e.
sealf-ia-n, salve, sealf-ô-de, sealf-u-de, sealf-ã-de, sealf-e-de.

247*. Infinitive ân is contracted from aa. ãgan, ahan; ôn from âhan, ôhan: gân (gaan), go, smeagan > smeân, consider; sleahan > sleân, slay; fôn < fâhan, catch; gefeôn < gefeohan, rejoice; teôn < teôhan, tug.

NOTEWORTHY WEAK VERBS.

248.—I. CAUSATIVES AND TRANSITIVES, relics of the Sanskrit causative. They have the highest progression of the root (like the strong imperfect singular), and i-umlaut.

CONJ. 1.— $\sqrt{a}$ :  $\sqrt{sad}$ , sit; Sansk. sîd-â'mi, sit, causative sâd-âjâ-mi, set; Goth. sit-an, sat-ja-n; O. Sax. sittian, settian; O. Nor. sit-ia, set-ia. Highest progression, a; i-umlaut, e (§§ 199-204, 32).

sittan < sit-ia-n , sit;	imp. sæt ( a );	settan < sat-ia-n , set.
licgan < lig-ia-n , lie;	imp. læg ( a );	lecgan < lag-ia-n , lay.
beorn-an , burn;	imp. barn ;	bern-a-n , cause to burn.
drinc-an , drink;	imp. dranc ;	drenc-a-n , cause to drink.

CONJ. 2.— $\sqrt{i}$ :  $\sqrt{diç}$ , show; Sansk. causative dêç-âjâ-mi; Goth. teih-an, tâik-us, token. Highest progression, â; i-umlaut, ê (§§ 205, 32).

tîh-an , point at;	imp. tâh ;	têc-a-n , teach.
drîf-an , drive;	imp. drâf ;	drêf-a-n , disperse.
lîd-an , go (by sea);	imp. lâd ;	lêd-a-n , lead.
rîs-an , arise;	imp. râs ;	rêr-a-n , raise, rear.

CONJ. 3.— $\sqrt{u}$ :  $\sqrt{bhug'}$ , bend; Sansk. causative bhôg'-âjâ-mi (§ 158). Highest progression, eâ; i-umlaut, ÿ (§§ 206, 32); ê often occurs.

bîg-an , bow, bend;	imp. beâh ;	bÿg-a-n , cause to bend.
fleôg-an , flee;	imp. fleâh ;	flÿg-a-n , put to flight.

CONJ. 4.— $\sqrt{â}$ , a:  $\sqrt{pâr}$ , Sansk. causative pâr-âjâ-mi, accomplish. Highest progression, ô; i-umlaut, ê (§§ 207, 32); or, progression, a; umlaut-e: Goth. far-an, far-ja-n, but gal-an, sing, gôl-ja-n (compare § 158, e).

far-an , go;	imp. fôr ;	fêr-a-n , go; far-ia-n , carry.
pac-an , wake;	imp. pôc ;	peccan < pac-ia-n , awaken.

pac-ia-n, watch, is also found—a later denominative.

Here belong many verbs apparently formed from nouns or participles by i-umlaut of the root vowel: hyld-an, to make bent (heald); hÿn-an, to make lowly (heân); hrÿm-an, to cry (hrcâm); pyrc-an, to work (peorc); pyrm-an, to warm (pearw); yld-an, to delay (eald, old); ÿrm-an, to make wretched (earm); ÿpp-an, to lay open (up); ÿt-an, to drive out (ût); words in -fyld-an: prî-fyld-an, to triple (feald, fold), etc.

249.—II. DENOMINATIVES WITHOUT UMLAUT, from adjectives.

Such are oftenest neuter, but with ge- oftenest transitive.

micl-ia-n , to grow great ( micel );	ge-michtan , to make great.
lîtl-ia-n , to grow little;	ge-litlan , to make little.
hât-ia-n , to grow hot ( hât ); compare hætt-an , to make hot.
pearw-ia-n , to grow warm; compare pyrm-an , to make warm.

250. — III. DENOMINATIVE SUFFIXES GROWN VERBALS: -c-, -g-, -n-, -s-, ettan < atian (§ 188, b), lêcan:

hýr-c-n-ian, hark, hearken (hýr-an, hear); syn-g-ian, to sin; mâx-s-ian, to make more; pît-n-ian, to punish; hâl-ettan, -etan, -etian, hail; sumor-lêcan, summer is near.

ADVERBS.

251. Adverbial suffixes are mostly from case-endings.

NOTIONAL STEMS (Nouns).

I. LIVING CASE-ENDINGS, with and without prepositions: gen. es, â; dat. a, e, um; acc. —, ne; instrum. ê, e; weak an.

es, dæg-es, by day; idæg-es, (now)-a-days; eall-es, wholly; micl-es, much; tô-midd-es, amidst; neaht-es, by night; nêd-es, needs; sôn-es, (eft-)soons; þanc-es, willingly; after-peard-es, afterwards; hâm-peard-es, homewards. â: geâr-â, of yore (geâr, year).

Adverbial -es is found with nouns having their genitive in -e: neaht-e, nêd-e, etc.; sin-neahtes, eternally.

a, dative feminine (§ 93, i): dearn-ung-a, -inga, -enga, O. Sax. darnung-ô (§ 88, a), O. H. G. tarnunk-ûn (û = Goth. ô, § 95, c), secretly; deorcung-a, in the gloaming; Scotch darklings, darkling; eallung-a, wholly; bacling-a, O. Eng. backlings, on the back; so O. Eng. nose-ling, side-ling > sidelong (§ 40, 3), headlong, on the nose, side, head. This is often thought genitive plural; but feminine abstracts in -ung seldom use the plural, and they retain the old dative in -a (§ 77, i); while the O. H. G. can not be a genitive plural.

um, dative plural: hpîl-um, -on, whilom; on-sundr-on, asunder; pundrum, wondrously; stycce-mêl-um, piece-meal; seld-um, -on, -an, seldom; litt-um, little; micl-um, much.

e, ê, dative and instrumental: æfr-e, ever; heôdæg(ê), to-day; tô-dæg-e, to-day; tô-nihte, to-night; tô-ealdre, always; miclê mâ, much more; tô-gædere, together. an: tô-eâc-an, moreover.

—, accusative: hâm, home; câst, east; pest, west; ealne peg, always; on peg, away; on bæc, back; on-geân, against; eal, all; neâh, nigh; hâmpeard, homeward; on îdel, in vain; and comparatives and superlatives (§ 123). ne: eal-ne peg, always; sum-ne dæl, O. Eng. some deal, somewhat.

II. OBSCURE ENDINGS, a, e.

(a.) a: Goth. -a, O. Sax. -a, O. H. G. -a, perhaps from instrumental -â (§ 63, g).

(b.) The common adverbial ending from adjectives is -e: O. Sax. -o,

O. Nor. -a, O. H. G. -o, Goth. -ô, some say -ba. Gothic -ba, -ô are probably akin to instrumental -blî and -â (§ 63, g). Bopp thinks -ô an ablative ending like Greek -ωσ < -ωτ, Latin -ô and -ê < -ed, but in Teutonic the instrumentals have a history analogous to that of the<sup>s</sup>ablative in Greek and Latin; the Anglo-Saxon instrumental has been kept alive by the influence of this adverb. Grimm thinks -e a weak singular accusative neuter.

252. RELATIONAL STEMS (Pronouns and Prepositions).

I. CORRELATIVES OF PLACE:

whère, whither, whence; thère, thither, thence; hère, hither, hence.

A.-Sax..	hpær , hpider , hpanan ;	þær , þider , þanan ;	hér , hider , heonan .
O. Sax..	hvar , hvar(od) , hwanan ;	thar , thar(od) , thanan ;	hër , hër(od) , hînan .
O. H. G.	hwâr , hwar-a , -ôt , hwanana ;	dâr , dar-a , -ôt , danana ;	hiar , her-a , -ôt , hîwana .
O. Nor..	hvar , hvert , hveitan ;	þar , þultra , þulan ;	hér , hedra , hedan .
Goth.....	hvar , hwa-þ , -drê , hwaþrô ;	þar , þudei , þaþrô ;	hér , hîdrê , ( hêþrô ).
Greek ...	ποῦ, ποῖ, πόθεν;	ἐνθα, ἐνθάδε, ἐνθεν;	Lat. hîc , huc , citro , hînc .
Sansk ...	kû-tra , kû-tra , kû-tas ;	tâ-tra , tâ-tra , tâ-tas ;	â-tra , â-tra , â-tas .

(a.) For the stem radicles (interrogative hp, demonstrative þ, h), §§ 135, 133, 104, 130: hpær, þær (æ, æ, ã), Ormulum æ.

-der, -der, Goth. -drê, Sansk. -tra < -trâ, is the instrumental of a comparative in -ta-ra (§§ 126, 62): some think this -tra weathers to -r in hpær, etc.; -d, probably comparative, § 255 (Sansk. samanti).

-nan, -nanne, an oblique case of the repeated adjective suffix -na, belonging to (§ 228, 2): Lat. super-no, belonging (super) above; whence ablative adverb super-ne, from above; belonging to and coming from are near akin, but the lost case-ending gives the turn to from. Goth. in-nana, within; ûtana, without; hindana, behind, etc., do not have the plain sense from. Pott suggests composition with a preposition (Let-tisch no, from). Here belong eâst-an, from the east; pest-an, from the west, etc.; also æft-an, aft; feorr-an, from far; for-an, before; hind-an, from behind; inn-an, within; neân, from nigh; neod-an, from beneath; uf-an, from above; ût-an, from out, and their compounds.

II. CORRELATIVES OF TIME :

when; then; now; once.

A.-S. hpanne; panne (x, o, e), pá; nu; iu, geô.Goth. hran; han, (O. H. G. dô; nu; ju, giu.Lat... quum; tum; nunc; jam < Sansk. ja.Gr.... πότε; τότε; νύ, νύν (Sansk. nu); δη < djá.

MANNER :

how; thus; so.

hú < hpí; pus, pæs; spá.huico), hváira; srah, své.quo-modo; tam, ita; sic, ut.πῶς; τός; ὥς.

hpanne, accusative masculine; pá, feminine; hú, hpí, instrumental; pus, genitive, < hpis, or instrumental pá + s, O. Sax. thiu-s (§ 133, 2); pæs, genitive; spá, Goth. své, instrumental; the endings in the other languages are not all analogous.

III. PREPOSITIONS = adverbs: after, bí, for, in, mid, on, of, tó, purh, under, up, ofer, pid, with many derivatives and compounds. See §§ 253–259.

IV. Derivatives in e, denoting rest in, probably a dative: Goth. -a, O. Sax. -a, O. Nor. -i, O. H. G. -a.

inn-e, within; út-e, without; ufan-e, over, etc.

V. COMPARATIVES AND SUPERLATIVES. §§ 123–129, 2.

PREPOSITIONS AND PREFIXES.

253.—I. Those denoting simple relations generally take their significance from a single consonant (§ 56). Contrasted space relations are primarily denoted. This contrast is often further brought out by endings of comparison (§§ 122–129). The relation is sometimes made more definite by case-endings and other suffixes. Most inseparable prefixes have a similar etymology.

II. Many prepositions and prefixes of later growth are from nouns or verbs, and have an etymology like adverbs.

254. Prepositions and prefixes with a SINGLE CONSONANT. A few others are added to better illustrate their etymology.

(a.) For shifting of letters, see §§ 18, 19, 41; for precession and weathering of endings, § 38. á < ar, ód < and, § 37; ymbe < abhi, and < ádhi, § 27, 5; h in þurh, c in éac, § 133, 2, a.

(b.) Most of the Sanskrit forms look like vowel pronominal bases with suffixes and case-endings: a-bhi, a-pa > a-pa-ra > gen. purás, locative pári, acc. páram, instrum. párá. § 62.

255. COMPARATIVE FORMS: er, r, ter, der, ðer, ð, d. §§ 122-129.

of-er, over; af-ter, after; un-der, under; pi-der, wither-(nam); tô-pi-tere, against; ni-der, neath; pi-d, with; mi-d, with; fo-r, for; fo-re, before. f-rê, very; geon-d, yond; hin-d-an, behind; samo-d, together.

(b.) The above are formed on of; af; an > Sansk. an(a)-tara; pī; nī, akin to m, Sansk. anī > nī, down, Gr. ἐν-ποι, O. H. G. nī-dar; nī < ma; f < pa; geon, Goth. jáuns < ja-na; hun = heon(an) (§ 252); sam.

256. SUPERLATIVE m (§ 126): fra-m, from; páram, πίραρ, peren- seem to be accusatives, and in so far not analogous to fram.

257. ADVERBIAL -an (§ 252), mostly compounds: be-, b-, pid-aft-an; for-an; at-, bi-, on-, tô-, pid-for-an; geond-an; be-, pid-geond-an; be-heon-an; be-hind-an; im-an; b-, on-, pid-im-an; neod-an; be-, underneod-an; uf-an; b-, â-b-, on-uf-an; upp-an; on-upp-an; ût-an; b-, on-b-, pid-, ymb-ût-an; English before; beyond; behind; within; be-, underneath; above; a-b-, with-out.

258. FROM SUBSTANTIVES, mostly compounds with prepositions: tô-râcan, besides; â-, on-gegn, tô-gegnes, against; ge-mong, on-gemong, among; on-efn (German n-eben), even with, beside, an-ent; in-middum, tô-middes, amidst; be-tpeôn-um, -an, between: be-tpeo-h-s, be-tpeox, betwixt; so English be-side < be sidan; down < â-dûne, from a hill; a-loft (Shakespeare) < on lyfte, in the air; and the like. hand-, § 267, II.

259. FROM ADJECTIVES = adverbs (see §§ 254, 229): âr, ere; feor, far from; ge-hende, handy to; lws, less; neâh, neâr, nêhst, neâh-hand, nigh to; til (Northumbrian), to; peard, tô-peard, toward; pana, less; ge-long, and-long, along; n-efne, n-emne (compare on-efn, § 258), except; sîd (late), since. Prefixes: eal- (æl-, el-), all; efen-, co-; ful-, full; mis-, mis-; sâm-, semi-; sin-, ever; pan-, less; pel-, well.

PARTICLES OF INTERROGATION, AFFIRMATION, NEGATION.

260. INTERROGATION.—(a.) Adverbial forms of the pronominal hp, whose derivation has been explained: hpæder, hpæx, hpider, hpanan, hpý, hú, and compounds, for-hpam, etc.

(b.) Intensives: ne, § 254; ac (ach, ah), § 262; hú, § 252; lâ, § 263.

(c.) Conjunctions in indirect questions: gif, if, § 262.

261. AFFIRMATION AND NEGATION.—(a.) From relational stems: gea, iã, yea < ja (§ 107, a); Goth. ja, jai; O. Sax., O. Nor., O. H. G. iã. ge-se, yes; gea + -se < sí, let it be. ne (§ 254), n-â, n-ô, nay, no; Goth. né áiv, O. H. G. ni-êo, not ever. ne-se, like gese: n-ân, Ger. n-ein, Lat. n-on, not one; nealles, nalæs, næs (ne ealles), not at all; n-â-piht, nôht, not a whit.

(b.) Regular adverbial forms: sôdtlice, pitodlice, verily.

262. CONJUNCTIONS.

In their formation they are similar to prepositions.

I. From relational stems.—(a.) Not before explained :

	Sanskrit.	Greek.	Latin.	Gothic.	O. Sax.	O. Nor.	O. H. G.
and , ond , and;	( áti ;	ἔτι ;	et )?	—;	andi ;	—;	anti ( u ).
ano , ono , an=if; (< ana );	āy ;	an ;	an ;	O. H. G. eno , inu < an + nu .
gif , if;	ja-d ( ja-pi );	ei ;	s-i ;	ja-bai ;	( ef );	ef ;	ibu ).
ac ( ch , h ), but; (akin to eác , § 254?)	—;	—;	—;	ak ;	ac ;	—;	oh .
ge , and;	(< ja , § 252; δη < δjà ;	ja-m );	ju-h ;	ja , ja-c ;	ok ?		ioh .
gyt , geta , yet; (< geo , § 252;	—;	—;	ju-pan ;	—;		M. H. G. ü-zuo .
þen-den , whilst; compare Latin tan-dem ;			þan-dé ;	—;	—;		dan-ta .
þeáh ( þéh ), though; see for -uh § 133, 2, a;			þa-uh ;	thöh ;			þó ;
odðe ( edda , þe ), or; átha , but; —;			at ;	ip , aip-þau ;	ettha ;		eda ;
							eddo ( o ).

eác, also; sam, samo-d, as well as; ne—ne, neither—nor; nu—nu, now—then, have been given with adverbs or prefixes.

and may be akin with and <anti (§ 254). ano is all doubtful; ja > ja-bai and i > Goth. i-ba = O. H. G. i-bu, are kindred stems; gif, O. Friesic gef, Lithuanic ger-b, go with ja-bai (§§ 107, a; 63, g); ge might be ge- (§ 254); -den in þen-den, -pan in ju-pan, are the demonstrative ta (§ 104, b); Goth. ip > ed, ap > ot is akin to ed- (§§ 254, 3; 38).

(b.) Many other pronominal adverbs, whose etymology has been explained, and whose meaning and use belong in syntax: hú, how; spá, so; spylce, such; þider, þanan, þá, þý, þé, þæs, þonne, þær; hpi-der, whither; hpæ-der, whether; elles, else; O. H. G. allus, alies, gen., Lat. alias, al-, § 216.

II. From notional stems, a few oblique cases of nouns.

hpíle, hpil-am—hpílum, sometimes—sometimes.

263. INTERJECTIONS.

(1.) Imitation of cries, or sound-gestures: eá, eá, eáp, oh; pá, peá, wo; lá, lo; ha, ha; há, ho; compounds—eá-lá, mixed with French hé-las (Lat. lassus, weary), alas, corrupt alack; pá-lá, pá-lá-pá, welaway, corrupt weladay, etc.; hig, hig, Lat. o, o, Ælfrc. Coll.

Somewhat similar quasi-words are wide-spread, but they can be identified only when steadied by true words formed from them: Greek óá, ovái, Lat. væ, Goth. vái, O. Sax. wé, Swed. ve, O. H. G. wé, wo; O. H. G. we-la, etc. Such words were doubtless as numerous in the ancient languages as in English, but are not preserved in books.

(2.) True words used as cries or gestures have nothing peculiar in their etymology: hpæt, what; hú, how; pel, well; peg lá = pel lá, well done, etc.; efne, Lat. ecce, lo.

264. COMPOSITION OF WORDS.

COMPOSITION proper combines word-stems so as to express a new notion.

COALESCENCE is the running together of whole words with such change of accent as to make a new word.

(a.) Parasyntheta are derivatives from compounds.

NOUNS.

265.—I. FORM.—Nouns final in compounds retain their stems and endings; elsewhere only their theme, except substantives in e < ia, e < i, and u (o): gum-a, man; gum-cyn, mankind; cald-fæder, grandfather; gryre, horror; gryre-hpîl, time of horror; lagu, lake; lagu-flôd, river. Coalescence takes place of prefixes and some genitives with a following noun: Sæternes-dæg, Saturday; Mônan-dæg, Monday; Oxenâ-ford, Oxford; dæg-es-êge, daisy; and-sparu, answer; un-treôpd, untruth; un-pîs, unwise, etc. Words with quasi-suffixes are compounds in form. § 229.

266.—II. RELATION OF STEMS TO EACH OTHER.—(1.) ATTRIBUTIVE (substantive + substantive)—appositive: âc-treô, oak-tree; pîf-man, woman; compare þeôp-boren, born a slave; descriptive: gâr-leâc, spear-leek, garlic; heafod-man, head-man; genitive: gôd-spel, God's message; (adjective + substantive): mid-dæg, mid-day; neâh-bûr, neighbour. Adjective parasyntheta from the last are called POSSESSIVES: clân-heort, possessing a clean heart; ân-hende, one-handed; ân-eâge and ân-êged, one-eyed; bær-fôt, bare-foot, bare-footed.

(2.) OBJECTIVE.—(Substantive + noun, between which an accusative ending or preposition would express the relation)—accusative: man-cpeller, man-killer; ât-sparing, oath-swearing; blôd-geôte, shedding of blood; genitive: cear-ful, full of care; dative: god-lic, like to God.

(3.) ADVERBIAL (noun or particle + adjective): æl-meahlig, all-mighty; manig-feald, manifold; blôd-reâd, blood-red; snâp-hpît, snow-white; un-clêne, unclean; (noun or particle + substantive)—space relations: land-man, man living on the land, farmer; time: niht-hræfn, raven flying by night; cause: hand-geþeorc, hand-iwork; purpose: ort-gæard, orchard, yard for vegetables; ealo-fæst, vat for ale; eâg-scalf, eye-salve; with an infinitive, hpet-stân, stone to whet; prît-bôc, writing-book; material: stân-peal, wall of stone; îs-giccl, icicle; gold-smid, worker in gold.

(a.) Attributive compound nouns not possessives and adverbially compound adjectives are called DETERMINATIVES.

(b.) COLLECTIVES have copulate parts: per-polf, man and wolf, werewolf; þreô-týne, three and ten.

267. VERBS.

I. For the terminations springing from composition, see § 160.

II. Verbs with proper compound stems are parasyntheta from compound nouns. But note hand-sellan, put in hand; ful-fyllan, etc., below.

III. Compound verbs are directly formed by coalescence with prepositions and prefixes: ofer-fleópan, over-flow; á-pacan, a-wake; mis-dón, mis-do; ful-fyllan, fulfill; pel-dón, do well; efen-þeorcan, co-operate.

(a.) For prepositions and prefixes, see §§ 15, 254.

(b.) Composition has the same laws throughout the Indo-European languages. In some of them so many of the stem-endings conform with the most common one that it comes to be regarded as a sign of composition (Gr. -o-, Lat. -i-, Goth. -a-); traces of this are in Anglo-Saxon: niht-e-galec, night-in-gale.

FORMATION OF WORDS TO EXPRESS GENDER.

268.—I. ANIMALS.—A. Words with pairs of endings (MOBILE):

Masculine, — < a; a < an; ere.

Feminine, — < i; e < an; e, ige < ie < ian; en < cuni; estre.

1. (— < a and — < i), umlaut, § 32: gât, -es, gæt, -e, he-goat, she-goat; mæg, -es, -e, kins-man, -woman; pułf, pyłf, he-, she-wolf.—2. (a and e): ass-a, -e, he-, she-ass; mág-a, -e, kins-man, -woman; nef-a, -e, nephew, niece; ræg-a, -e, hart, roe; þeóp-a, -e, man-, maid-servant; pebb-a, -e, weaver; picc-a, -e, witch; puđup-a? -e, widow-er.—3. (— < a and e, ige): meařh, mcrige, mere, myre, horse, mare; hláford, hláf(or)d-ige, lord, lady.—4. (a and — < i): han-a, hen, cock, hen.—5. (— < a and en): ælf, -en, elf; fox, fixen, fox, vixen; god, gyd-en, god-dess; munc, -en, monk, nun; þeóp, -en, þegen, þign-en, pealh, pyl-en, servant; add manna, mennen, servant; cásere, cásere-n, emperor, empress.—6. (ere and estre): bæc-ere, bæc-estre, baker, bakster; hearp-ere, -estre, harper; hopp-ere, -estre, dancer; réd-ere, -estre, reader; sang-ere, -estre, singer; seám-ere, -estre, seam-ster; pebb-ere, -estre, weaver, webster; fidel-ere, -estre, fiddler.—7. (Relics): gós < gans, gandra (§§ 37; 41, b; 50), goose, gander; cyning, cpên ( $\sqrt{cpan} > cun > cyn$ , §§ 35, 32, 38, 24), king, queen; abbud, -isse (Lat. abbatissa, Gr. -ισσα), abbot, abbess; speger (Goth. svaihr-a, -ó, Lat. socer, socrus, Gr. ἐκπυρός, -ά, Sansk. çvaçura, çvaçrú), father-, mother-in-law.

B. COMPOUNDS whose first part marks sex, last part gender:

Masculine, pæpned, pæp, pæpen-, weaponed; carl, hyse, man, guma.

Feminine, piř, wife; mægden, maid; cpên, woman.

- pæpned-man*, m., -bearn, n., cild, n., -piřfestre, f., man, boy, hermaphrodite; hyse-cild, n., boy; man-cild, n., man-child; man-esne, m., man-servant; gum-man, man; gum-þegn, man; carl-cat, m., -fugol, m., tom-cat, -bird; piř-man > pimman, m., woman; piř-þegn, m., servant; piř-fréouđ, m., friend; mæden-cild, n., -fæmne, f., -man, m., female child, maid; cpên- fugol, m., bird; add sperc-hcalf, f., spindl-hcalf, f., spear-half = male side, spindle-half = female side.

C. Male and female have names from different roots. Such names abound for man and the domestic animals. They are old and widespread.

Man: guma, per, húsbouda, lcôd, secg, hælc(d), rinc, beorn, carl; plur. fírás; feminine, fémne, ides, brýd, fóstre, mcóple, mæged, mæg, cpên; neuter, bearn, cild, child; píf, wife. Pairs of kindred: fæder, môdor; sunu, dôhtar; brôdor, speostor; câm, môdrige, uncle, aunt; god-fæder, god-môdor.

Horse: hengest, steda, fola; feminine, merihe. Ox: oxa, steorc, feorh, bulluca; fem. cû, heafre. Sheep: ram, peder; fem. cóp(u). Swine: bâr, eofor, beorh; fem. sugu. Goat: bucca, hæfer; fem. râh, râ. Deer: heort, m., hund, f. Dog: hund, m., bicce, f. Hen: coc, m., hen, f. Bee: drân, m., bcô, f. Neuter: hors, picg, horse; swîn, swine; mûl, mule; deôr, wild beast, deer; cealf, calf; lamb; secáp sheep.

Names of other animals are epicene (§ 67). Neuter names of young animals often add -ir-, -er- in the plural: cild, cild-er-u, child, children (§ 82). Nothing else peculiar in the formation.

269.—II. THINGS WITHOUT SEX, and abstracts. For general rules, § 67 (gender of the endings, §§ 231–239). It is often not easy to tell how far personification, and how far phonetic laws, determine the gender (§ 64, 2). The same object often has names of different genders: sâ, f., lago, m., brim, n., egor, n., sea. The Teutonic tongues generally agree. But note NEUTERS (German masculine) môd, mood, muth; tpîg, twig, zweig; pîn, wine, weîn; (German feminine) elif, cliff, klippe; ear, ear, âhre; fårsten, fastness, feste; lic, corps, leiche; sâd, seed, saat; secorp, scarf, schârpe; pâpen, weapon, waffe; pêsten, n., m., waste, wüste; MASCULINES (German feminine), cræft, craft, kraft; lust, lust; teâr, tear, zâhre; (German neuter) ende, end; feld, field; here, army, heer; sâl, cord, seil: FEMININES (German masculine), turf, turf, torf; piht, wight, wicht; (German neuter) blæd, blade, blatt; bôc, book, buch; hælu, health, heil; heorte, heart, herz; gesiht, sight, gesicht.

270.—III. Derivatives from foreign names retain their gender, except FEMININES > masculines: ancor, anchor; box, box-wood; persuc, peach; pistol, epistle; regol, rule; > neuters: nôn, noon; NEUTERS > masculines: balsam; creda, creed; > feminines: ceaster, city; lilie, lily; palant, palace; timpanc, drum?

PART III.

SYNTAX.

---

271. Syntax is the doctrine of grammatical combinations of words. It treats of the use of the etymological forms in discourse—their agreement, government, and arrangement.

SIMPLE COMBINATIONS.

272. There are four simple combinations: the predic'ative, attributive, objective, and adverbial.

273.—I. Predicative

- = nominative substantive + agreeing verb ;
- = nominative substantive + agreeing predicate noun,
- = nominative substantive + predicate adverb.

gold glisnâd, gold glistens; gold is beorht, gold is bright;
Ælfrêd pæs cyning, Alfred was king; ic eom hêr, I am here.

(a.) This is a combination between a subject, of which something is said (= gold, Ælfrêd, ic), and a predicate, which is said of the subject (= glisnâd, beorht, cyning, hêr).

(b.) Copula.—The sign of predication is the stem-ending of a notional verb (= â in glisnâd), or is a relational verb (is, pæs, eom). The substantive verb, when so used, is called the copula—a good name for any sign of predication. Copulative verbs take a predicate noun.

(c.) Quasi-predicative is the relation between the implied subject and predicate in a quasi-clause. § 278, d.

274.—II. Attributive = agreeing noun + substantive ; = genitive substantive + substantive.

gôd cyning, good king; Ælfrêd ædeling, Alfred the prince;
Englâ land, land of the Angles.

(a.) This combination expresses the relation of subject + attribute as taken for granted. The leading substantive is called the subject, that to which the attribute belongs (cyning, Ælfrêd, land); an attributive is the agreeing adjective (gôd), or genit. substantive (Englâ); an appositive is the agreeing substantive (ædeling).

(b.) The sign of this relation is the agreeing case-endings, or the attributive genitive ending, or a preposition (§ 277, 2).

275.—III. Objective = verb + governed noun.
= adjective + governed noun.

ic huntige heortás, I hunt harts; hê sylt him hors, he sells him a horse; gilpes þú gyrnest, thou wishest fame; þære fæhde hê gefeah, he rejoiced at the vengeance; hî macad hinc (tô) cynunge, they make him king; hpî segst þú mē gôdne, why callest thou me good? beôð gemindige Lodes wifes, remember Lot's wife.

(a.) This combination expresses the relation of an act or quality to its completing notional object.

Objective verbs or adjectives are those which need such object (huntige, etc.).

Subjective need no such object (ic slæpe, I sleep).

Transitive verbs have a suffering object (huntige, sylt, macad, etc.).

Intransitive have no suffering object (gyrnest, gcfcah).

The completing object may be suffering (= direct), an accusative merely affected (heortás, hors, hine, mē);

dative (= indirect = personal), a receiver to or for whom is the act (him);

genitive, suggesting or exciting the act (gilpes, fæhde, wifes);

factitive, a product or result in fact or thought (cynunge, gôdne).

(b.) The sign of relation is the case-ending or a preposition.

(c.) Many Anglo-Saxon verbs require an object, when the English by which we translate them do not. Many objects conceived as exciting in Anglo-Saxon are conceived as suffering in English; many as merely adverbial.

(d.) The factitive object often has a quasi-predicative relation to the suffering object, agreeing with it like a predicate noun (mē + gôdne). Such clauses are nearly equivalent to two (why sayest thou that I am good?).

276.—IV. Adverbial = verb + adverb or adverbial phrase.
= adjective + adverb or adverbial phrase.
= adverb + adverb or adverbial phrase.

ic gâ út, I go out; ic singe ælcê dæg, I sing each day; pê sprecað gepemodlice, we speak corruptly; hê com mid þá fæmnan, he came with the woman; mid sorgum libban, to live having cares; hpî fandige gr̄ nūn, why tempt ye me? nielcê mâ man is sccâpe betera, man is much (more) better than a sheep.

(a.) This combination is between an act or quality and its unessential relations. The most common relations are place (út), time (ælcê dæg), manner (gepemodlice), co-existence (mid fæmnan, mid sorgum), cause (hpî), intensity (nielcê, mâ, sccâpe).

(b.) The sign is an adverbial ending, case-ending, or preposition.

(c.) The adverbial combination is given by Becker as a subdivision of the objective, but the linguistic sense of the Indo-European races uniformly recognizes the adverb as a separate part of speech.

277. Equivalents of the Noun and Adverb in the combinations :

(1.) For a SUBSTANTIVE may be used a substantive noun or pronoun, an adjective or any of its equivalents, an infinitive, a clause, any word or phrase viewed merely as a thing.

(2.) For an ADJECTIVE may be used an adjective noun or pronoun, an article (attributively), a participle, a genitive substantive, an adverb, a preposition with its case, a relative clause.

(3.) For an ADVERB may be used an oblique case of a noun with or without a preposition, a phrase, a clause.

SENTENCES.

278. A Sentence is a thought in words. It may be declarative, an assertion, indicative, subjunctive, or potential; interrogative, a question, indicative, subjunctive, or potential; imperative, a command, exhortation, entreaty; a species of exclamatory, an expanded interjection. §§ 149–151.

(a.) A clause is one finite verb with its subject, objects, and all their attributives and adjuncts. Its essential part is its predicative combination. The (grammatical) subject of the predicative combination, its attributives and adjuncts, make up the logical subject of the clause; the grammatical predicate and its objects with their attributives and adjuncts make up the logical predicate.

(b.) A subordinate clause enters into grammatical combination with some word in another (principal) clause; co-ordinate clauses are coupled as wholes.

(c.) The sign of relation between clauses is a relative or conjunction.

(d.) Quasi-clauses. — (1) Infinitives, participles, and factitive objects mark quasi-predicative combinations, and each has its quasi-clause. (2) Interjections and vocatives are exclamatory quasi-clauses.

279. A Sentence is simple, complex, or compound.

280. A simple sentence is one independent clause.

I. A predicative combination.

Verb for predicate: fiscerâs fisciad, fishers fish.

Adjective: God is gôd, God is good.

Genitive: tâl Cæsares is, tribute is Cæsar's.

Substantive: Cædmon pæs leôdpyrhta, Cædmon was a poet.

Adverb: pé sind hêr, we are here.

Adverbial: God is in heofenum, God is in heaven.

Subject indefinite: (hit) snûpt, it snows; mê þyrst, me it thirsteth.

II. Clause with attributive combination.

Adjective attribute: gód gold glisnúd, good gold glistens.

III. Clause with objective combination.

Direct object: Cædmon porhte leódsangás, Cædmon made poems.

Dative: læn mé þrî hláfás, give me three loaves.

Factitive: Simônem hé nemde Petrum, Simon he named Peter.

IV. Clause with adverbial combination.

Place: ic gá út, I go out.

Time: ic gá út on dægrêd, I go out at dawn.

Manner: se cýning scríft mé pel, the king clothes me well.

Co-existence: mid sorgum ic libbe, I live with cares.

Cause: hé hás is for cýlde, he is hoarse from cold; se cnapa þýpáð oxan mid gadísené, the boy drives oxen with an iron goad.

281.—V. Abridged complex sentence. Clause containing a quasi-clause. § 278, d.

Infinitive: tæc ús sprecan, teach us to speak.

Factitive: hpi segst þú mé góðne, why callest thou me (to be) good?

Participle (adjectival): ic habbe sumne cnapan, þýpcndne oxan, I have a boy, (driving) who drives oxen; (adverbial, gerund), Boetius gebæd singende, Boethius prayed singing; (absolute), þínre durá belocenre, bide þínne fæder, thy door having been locked, pray thy father.

282.—VI. Abridged compound sentence (§ 284). Verbs > verb.

Compound subject: hé and seó singað, he and she sing.

Compound predicate: hé is góð and pís, he is good and wise; seó lu-fát hine and mé, she loves him and me.

283. A complex sentence is one principal clause with its subordinate clause or clauses. § 278, b. The subordinate may be a

Substantive: (subject), is sægd þæt hé com, that he came is said: (object), ic pát þæt hé com, I wot that he came; (appositive), ic com to þam. þæt hé þære gefulpód, I came for this, that he might be baptized.

Adjective: staf-cræft is seó cæg, he þærá bôcá andgit unlycd, grammar is the key, that unlocks the sense of the books.

Adverb: (place), hpider þú gást, ic gá, I go whither thou goest; (time), ic gá hþænne þú gást, I go when thou goest; (manner), þú spræce spá spá án stunt píf, thou spakest as a stupid woman speaks; (intensity), beót gleápe spá nædran, be wise as serpents; leófre is hleghan þonne grætan, it is better to laugh than cry; (cause = efficient, motive, means, argument, condition [protasis to an apodosis], concession, purpose): hit þunrát forþam God þill, it thunders because God wills; þaciad, forþam þe gē nyton þone dæg, watch, because ye know not the day; Onsend Higeláce, gif mec hild nime, (protasis) if me battle take, (apodosis) send to Higelac, etc. Co-existence is usually in an abridged participial clause (§ 281).

284. A compound sentence is a number of co-ordinate clauses. § 278, b.

Copulative: ic gá út and ic geocie oxan, I go out and I yoke oxen.

Adversative: fýr is gôd þegn, ac is frécne freá, fire is a good servant, but is a bad master; ne nom hē má, þeáh hē monige geseah, he took no more, though he saw many.

Disjunctive: ic singe odde ic ræde, I sing or I read.

Causal: forþý gē ne gehýrad, forþam þe gē ne synd of Gode, therefore ye do not hear, (for this that) because ye are not of God.

FIGURES OF SYNTAX.

285. A complete sentence has every part of all its combinations expressed.

A normal sentence is complete, and has its parts expressed and arranged according to the general laws of the language.

Figures of Syntax are deviations from the normal sentence.

I. Ellipsis, omission. This may be of a conjunction (asyn'deton), of a word to have been repeated (brachyl'ogy), of a verb somewhat like one in a corresponding clause (zeugma), of the latter part of a clause not to be supplied from the corresponding part of other clauses (aposiop'e'sis). See also anacoluthon (below, III.).

II. Pleonasm, too many words. There may be too many conjunctions (polysyn'deton), two nouns and a conjunction for a noun and attributive (hendi'adis).

III. Enallage, substitution. Of one part of speech for another (anti-meri'a), of one case for another (hypal'lage), of a different scheme of construction for the one in which a sentence begins (anacolu'thon). Syn'-esis is a construction according to sense and not grammatical form.

IV. Hyper'baton, transposition. Of words (anas'trophe), of clauses (hys'teron-prot'eron).

SUBSTANTIVES.

Agreement of Endings.

286.—I. Predicative Combination.—A predicate noun denoting the same person or thing as its subject, agrees with it in case.

(a.) Also in gender, if it varies for gender, and oftenest in number; but copulate singulars and a plural agree: ic eom weg, I am the way (John, xiv, 6); hê is min sunu, he is my son (Luke, ix, 38); hê and seô sind freôndas, he-and she are friends. Nouns of multitude take Synesis.

(b.) The rule applies to quasi-predicatives (§ 278, d): God hêt þâ fæst-nisse heofenan, God called the firmament heaven (Gen., i, 8). But predicate-accusative substantives are rare in Anglo-Saxon. The Latin and Greek accusative + infinitive is generally represented by a clause with þæt (that), and the factitive depends on tô (to) or for, as does often the common predicate: þû pyrest þê tô Gode, thou makest thyself (to) God (John, x, 33); mê wæron mine tearas for hláfás, to me my tears were (for) bread (Psa., xlii, 3).

(c.) The rule is called for oftenest in clauses having the verb be (eom, pesan, beôn), become (peordan), stand, lie, etc. (standan, licgan, etc.), go, remain (gân, punian), seem, prove (þyncan, prôfian); and passives of naming, calling (hátan, nemnan), seeing, thinking, telling (seôn, tellan), making, appointing, choosing (macian, gesceapan, gesettan, geberan, geceôsan, etc.). The predicate noun is oftenest an adjective: þâ beâmás á grêne stonad, the trees stand ever green (C. Ex., 200, 4); min cnapa lîd lama, my boy lies lame (Matt., viii, 6); þeôs woruld punad gehâl, this world remaineth whole (St. B., 14); mê þæt riht ne þynced, to me that seems not right (C., 289); leôht wæs dæg genemned, light was called day (C., 129); lytel hê wæs geseþen, he was seen (as) little (Hom., i, 138); hê wæs blind acenned, he was born blind (John, ix, 20); Saxulf wæs gecoren tô hiscop, Saxulf was chosen (to) bishop (Chr., 656). See b.

287.—II. Attributive Combination.—An appositive agrees in case with its subject.

Often also in gender and number. It is an undeveloped adjective clause, generally marked as such by tone and punctuation; but in titles it sometimes makes with its subject a kind of compound noun in English (see below, e): þê, cildra, we, (who are) children (Ælf.); seô árpyrde fêmnne Ecgburh abbodisse, Aldwulfes dôhtor wæs cyninges, sende þam árpyrdan pere Gúlláce leádene pruþ, the venerable maid Ecgburh abbess, Aldwulf's daughter the king's, sent to the venerable man Guthlác a leaden coffin (St. G., 18); Dryhten sylf, heofenâ heáhcyning, the Lord himself, heaven's high king (And., 6); pæs sum his scipes-man, þæs foresprecean Adl-baldes, there was one, his boatman, the aforesaid Athelbald's (St. G., 22): freôndscipe sî betpux unc, mê and þé, friendship be betwixt us, me and thee (G., 31, 44); pid Blæddan and Attilan, Hunâ cyningum, against Bledla and Attila, kings of the Huns (Béd., 1, 13); spâ hêr men dôd, geonge and ealde, so here men do, young and old (C., 1206); hî þegnîad, æt ôðrum, they serve, each the others (Met., 25, 12). The appositive is sometimes descriptive, giving kind, condition, etc., of its subject (cildra, abbodisse, dôhtor, cyninges, heâhcynîng, scipes-man, etc., in examples above);

definitive, a specific name after a general description, very common in Anglo-Saxon (Ecgburh, Gúðlâc, Adalbaldes), emphatic (sylf). (Repeated Subject.—A pronoun + a name, and a name + a pronoun, where the seeming attributive is really a repetition of the subject for clearer syntax, are very common: se Hælend, hê fæste, the Saviour, he fasted, St. G., 9);

partitive, giving parts of its subject, or its whole (mê and þé, cyningum, geonge and ealde). Examples are introduced by spâ spâ (Latin ut, German als): sume beôð langspeorde, spâ spâ spanâs, some (birds) are long-necked, as swans (St. B., 14);

distributive (ælc).

(a.) Adjectives are often appositives (geonge and ealde), so pronouns.

(b.) Sentences are often appositives, oftenest definitives beginning with þæt, after hit, þæt, þîng, or the like indefinite subject: þæt gelamp, þæt þêr com sum man, it happened, that there came a man (St. G., 9); hit (20); þîng (19).

(c.) Appositive for partitive genitive is found after sum: þâ cpædon sume þâ bôcerâs, then quoth some (of) (the) scribes (Matt., ix, 3); sume, hî comon, some (of them) they came (Mc., viii, 3). Rask gives tpegen marc gold, two marks (of) gold. I have not found such forms in Anglo-Saxon; but they are common in Old English, after the inflections had decayed (Lang., 1. 174; Ch., 7328). So German masse geld, pfund fleisch, etc. The reverse, gold, two marks, is in Sanskrit, and down to English.

(d.) Genitive for appositive of material or place: ceastra Natzaresdes for ceastre Nazareth, i. e. City of Nazareth = City Nazareth. § 313.

(e.) Genitives in apposition all have their endings, where in Old English all but one drop it: cyninges Aldpulfes dôhtor, king(s) Aldwulf's daughter. See above.

(f.) An appositive often fails to agree with its subject from anacoluthon: *mînum hlâforde * * * Alfpolð cyning* (nominative), to my lord—King Alfwold (St. G., Prol.); *se rîca and se heâna * * * ealle hî gelîce se stranga deað forgriped*, the rich and the poor (nominative)—all these alike strong death gripeth (St. G., 19).

(g.) NUMBER. Note cyningum, ælc, above. After a dual the name of the second person is used alone partitively: pit Scilling song âhôfan, we, (I and) Scilling, raised a song (C. Ex., 324, 31); unc Adame, to us, (me and) Adam (C., 387); gri Iohannis, ye, (thou and) John (C. Ex., 467, 7). This idiom is found in O.-H. German, is common in O. Norse.

(h.) GENDER. Synthesis. Substantives agree in natural rather than in grammatical gender: Ælfled, þæt mæden, Alfred, the maiden (Hom., ii, 150).

NOMINATIVE.

288. The subject of a finite verb is put in the nominative.

Ælfréd cƿæd, Alfred said; God is gôd, God is good.

(a.) Nominative independent. The subject of quasi-clauses of enunciation is put in the nominative. Such are names and titles containing no predicative combination: þæt godspel æfter Iôhannes gerecednysse, the Gospel according to John. Anacoluthon, § 287, f. Absolute, § 295.

(b.) Repeated subject. See § 287, definitive.

(c.) Predicate nominative. See § 286.

(d.) Attributive nominative. See § 287.

(e.) Factitive object. A nominative of enunciation is often used instead of a factitive object after verbs of naming, calling, and the like: clypôde God his gefylsta, he called God his "helper" (Hom., 2, 82); hâtað hine æfenstiorra, they call it "evening star" (Met., 29, 30); gê clypiat mê Lâreôp and Dryhten, ye call me "Master" and "Lord" (John, xiii, 13). This use of the oratio directa is the common form in Sanskrit, and has doubtless been common in all folkspeech. It is in the Greek of the New Testament; the Latin Vulgate in such cases uses the vocative, as does the Greek sometimes. It is in the Gothic (O. H. German?) and M. H. German. Compare §§ 289, d; 294.

VOCATIVE.

289. A compellative is put in the vocative.

Lâreôp, sege þonne, Lord, speak then (Luke, vii, 40); eâ lâ geonga, O young man (Luke, vii, 14); lâ þû licetere, thou hypocrite (Matt., vii, 5); hlâford cynung, lord king (Ap., 7); Fæder ûre, þû þe eart on heofenum, our Father, thou that art in the heavens (Matt., vi, 9); mîn, se spêtesta sunnan scîma, Iuliâna, my (the) sweetest sunshine, Juliana (Ju., 166); Herra, se gôda, Lord, the good (C. (G.), 678).

(a.) A compellative is the subject of a quasi-clause of address. The address may be formal, a simple call, or an emphatic judgment (þû licetere). The vocative may have an interjection with it, or not; it may enter into attributive combination with adjectives, appositives, clauses, etc. Note the use of an appositive with the definite article: Herra, se gôda; mîn, se spêtesta; and compare French Monseigneur l'archevesque, etc.

(b.) The weak form of the adjective is often used in the vocative without a definitive: leôfa Beôpulf, dear Beowulf (B., 1854).

(c.) Latin vocatives are sometimes used: Thaliarche, Apollōni (Ap., 5, 7, 9).

(d.) Quasi-clause. The vocative (with or without attributives) may enter into combinations as a clause. It may be a direct object: manige epedad, Dryhten, Dryhten, many shall say, Lord, Lord (Matt., vii, 22); factitive object: hpi clypige gē mē Dryhten, Dryhten, why call ye me Lord, Lord? (Luke, vi, 46). Compare § 288, e.

(e.) The native grammarians in Sanskrit do not separate the vocative from the nominative, but think it a slightly modified form for address. Its syntax is nearly the same in all our languages.

ACCUSATIVE.

290. Objective Combinations.—1. The direct object of a verb is put in the accusative. It may be

I. A material object moved, hit, or changed, or produced as an effect, by a transitive verb: þone maddum byred, he bears the treasure (B., 2055); stormás stánclifu beótan, storms beat cliffs (Seaf., 23); ic áhyrde heortan, I will harden his heart (Exod., iv, 21); scip pyrcan, to build a ship (C., 1302). (Mádm > maddum, Orm. maddmess.)

(a.) Persons and abstractions may also be conceived as material objects of act or thought: se þæt picg byrd, he whom that horse bears (El., 1196); ic bere dryhtnes dómás, I bear the lord's commands (D., 744).

(b.) Transitive verbs express an exercise of the appetites (eat, drink, etc.), the senses (see, hear, etc.), the sensibilities (love, hate, etc.), the intellect (know, think, etc.); movements—moving an object, or keeping it from moving (set, lay, raise, carry, heave, hold, marry, catch, take, give, lead, throw, drive, call forth, send forth, speak, etc.), hitting or moving towards it (strike, follow, etc.), changing its form or condition (break, tear, harden, cover, sprinkle, etc.), making an object (do, make, work, build, etc.), causative acts. Verbs expressing these notions as affecting the whole of a material object govern the accusative throughout the Indo-European tongues.

(c.) Persons may be conceived as suffering objects of their appetites.

Impersonals of appetite or passion govern an accusative of the person suffering.

Mē þyrste, it thirsted me = I suffered thirst (Matt., xxv, 35); mē hingrede, I suffered hunger (Matt., xxv, 35); hine lyste, it listed him = he suffered list (B., 1793); mec longāde, I longed (Kl., 14); mē áþrýt, it irks me, áþreótan þegn (Sch., 21); ús plátād, we loathe (Num., 21, 5). So hreoþan, rue (C., 1276); gemātan, dream (D., 122); egþian, ail (?) (Bosworth, Ett. their example a mistake); tinclan, tickle (?), it tikeleth me (Chaucer, C. T., 6053). Koch says passives of these impersonals take an accusative; so Grein, his mandryhten (acc.) gemāted þeard

(D., 157); but dryhten is nom., "his lord (was) had dreamed;" so pæs monig geclysted (Met., 1, 9); ic pæs ofþyrsted (Seel., 40); ic eom of-longād (Kl., 29); no accusatives found.

(d.) Reflexives.—Many verbs may take an accusative of the reflexive pronoun: hine sylfne āhēng, he hung himself (Matt., xxvii, 5); āpende hine sylfne tō Gode, he turned himself to God (Chr., 1067). Sylf, self, is not frequent in early Anglo-Saxon. Some verbs get to have a reflexive sense without the pronoun: hē gebealh hine, he swelled himself=he was wrathful (Luc., xv, 28); gē belgad, ye are wrathful (John, vii, 23); hē beþohte hine, he bethought him (Luc., xv, 17); gāst hine fýsed, the spirit hastens (itself) (Ex., 178, 7); ic mē reste, I rest me (Ex., 494, 8); reste þæt folc hit, the people rested (itself) (Exod., xvi, 30); gegadorōde micel folc hit, much people gathered itself (Chr., 921); parniad eōp, beware (yourself) (Matt., vii, 15); pene þec, wont thee (Fath., 62); se Hwēlend bepende (hine), the Saviour went (him) (Matt., ix, 22; Mc., v, 30). In Sanskrit the reflexive is incorporated with the verb, and makes a middle voice (§ 150, a). So in Greek, but not in Latin. Traces of the middle are found in Gothic, but in the main it and the other Teutonic tongues work like the Anglo-Saxon. Intransitives take a dative reflexive, as do some of the above sometimes. See § 298, c.

291.—II. A definitive object repeating more specifically the notion of the verb: (cognate accusative), dēmad rihtne dōm, judge righteous judgment (John, vii., 24); (more specific), sang hildeleōd, it sang a war-song (Jud., 211).

(a.) The verb may be transitive or intransitive.

(b.) The simple cognate alone is tautological. An adjective + definitiv' =adverb. The transition from the effect to the cognate is easy, and is already made in Sanskrit. The definitive has a widely extended use in Greek, and in German and English is co-ordinate in importance with the material object.

292. Double Object.—Some verbs of asking and teaching may have two accusatives, one of a person and the other of a thing.

(a.) So in Sanskrit, Greek, Latin, Gothic, O. H. German, etc.

(b.) Asking. Verbs of asking may have the second object cognate (ask him questions), exciting (ask him a favor) or (ask him about Vishnu). The third form is the common one in Sanskrit; the first and second in Greek, Latin, O. H. German: hig hine ne dorston ānig þing ācsian, they durst not ask him any question (Luke, xx, 40); hig hine þæt bigspel ācsōdon, they asked him about the parable (Mc., iv, 10); hī hine bisсен gefrugnum (same, vii, 17, Northumbrian); spā hpæt spā heō hine bāde, whatever favor she might ask him (Matt., xiv, 7). This construction is rare in Anglo-

Saxon; generally we have accusative of person + genitive of thing (+ dative of person for whom); or (2d) acc. of pers. + infinitive (or clause); or (3d) acc. of pers. + ymbe, be, after (concerning), and an acc. of thing; or (4th) the person follows to or æt, the thing is an acc. or gen.

(c.) Teach is a causative of learn in Sanskrit çikṣ'aja. Causatives govern an accusative + the case of the included verb: ne meahton pē gelæran leofne þeoden ræd ænigne, we might not teach the dear lord any counsel (B., 3079). Tæcan, teach, takes the accusative of thing + dative of person.

(d.) The passives seem not to take an accusative in Anglo-Saxon, as they do in Greek, Latin, English, etc.

293. Quasi-predicative Combinations.—I. The subject of an infinitive is put in the accusative.

Secgæt hine libban, they say that he lives (Luke, xxiv, 23);
geseah streâm út breccan, he saw a stream break out (B., 2546).

(a.) This accusative is grammatically the object of the preceding verb; but after verbs of perceiving and declaring, wishing and expressing a wish, and some others, the logical object is the infinitive clause, and grammarians use this rule. Cases to which it applies are not found in Sanskrit, have a wide range in Greek and Latin, are rare in Anglo-Saxon. See § 286, b.

294.—II. A predicate noun denoting the same person or thing as its subject agrees with it in case (§ 286): pē pitun hē bilepitne pesan, we know thee to be gentle (Ælf.). Under this rule come some

Factitives.—(a.) Some verbs of making, naming, regarding may have two accusatives of the same person or thing.

Hē his englās dæt ædele gāstās, he makes noble souls his angels (Psa., ciii, 5); seō eā, hā perās Eufrátēn nemnad, the river, which men name Euphrates (C., 234); lōcneōpon Crist sōdne man, they recognized Christ as a true man (Hom., i, 106); hī hine purtōdon sōdne God, they worshipped him as true God (Hom., i, 108).

(b.) Verbs of making, naming, regarding, perceiving, finding, having, leaving, and the like, may take an accusative adjective as a factitive object. For Anglo-Saxon verbs, see passives in § 286, c.

(c.) Verbs of making (choosing, etc.) in Sanskrit may have two accusatives, but usually the factitive is a locative. So in Anglo-Saxon it is usually construed with to or for. See § 286, b.

(d.) Verbs of naming. See § 288, e.

(e.) Verbs of regarding have two accusatives in Sanskrit and after.

(f.) When the factitive is in the accusative, it is drawn into agreement with its quasi-subject, the direct object of the verb.

295. Adverbial Combinations.—The extent of time and space is put in the accusative after verbs.

(a.) So in Sanskrit, Greek, Latin, Gothic, etc.

Haſdon sumne dæl peges gefaren, they had gone some part of the way (Gen., xliv, 4); calle niht spincende, all night toiling (Luc., v, 5).

(b.) Excess of measure (dative): ânne stæpe furdôr, one step further (Jos., x, 12);—instrument: græs ungrêne, not green with grass (C., 117, 812);—absolute: dæg scridende, day dawning (Grû., 1011; C., 183, nom. abs. ?), § 304, d. Milton's me overthrown (Sam. Ag., 463) is classic affectation.

(c.) The accusative is used with prepositions to denote an object towards which, or to, on, or over which an action extends. For examples, see Prepositions.

DATIVE.

296. The dative in Anglo-Saxon denotes relations of four old cases:

1. Dative, the person to whom something is given, or for whom something is or is done.
2. Instrumental, that with which an act is done or associated.
3. Ablative, that from which something is separated or distinguished.
4. Locative, the time or place in which.

Objective Combinations.

297. An object of influence or interest is put in the dative.

I. Object of Influence, the person to whom something is given. The giving may be figurative; material objects or abstractions may be conceived as persons. The object given may be expressed as an accusative, or implied in the governing word.

(a.) This dative is oftenest found after verbs of giving (paying, offering, loaning, etc.): ealle hâs ic sylle þê, all these I give thee (Matt., iv, 9); so gifan, forġifan, lênan, leânian, âgyldan, geunnan, tûdian, onlîhan, pyrnan, forpyrnan, etc.;

address = giving words (say, bid, forbid, answer, thank, chide, judge, promise, advise, etc.): ic sæge þê, I say to thee (Matt., xvi, 18); so cýdan, bebeôdan, command, forbeôdan, ansparian, þancian, cidan, dêman, rêdan;

gesture: beácman, beckon, bûgan, bow, hnûgan, lûtan, stupian, ôdýpan, etc.;

obeying = giving thought (listen to, obey, follow, etc.): hig hlyston him, let them listen to them (Luc., xvi, 29); that which is obeyed is often conceived as personal: mînum lârum hýre, hear to my precepts (C., 105, 8); so gehýrsumian, fylgian, heorenian. So exciting thought (seeming, etc.): manegum men þyncd, it seems to many a man (Boet., 29, 1); mē þyncd, methinks (Boet., 33, 1), etc.

giving feeling (pity, mourn, honor, trust, etc.): gemiltsǎ mīnum suná, (give) pity (to) my son (Matt., xvii, 14); árǎ þínum fæder, (give) honor (to) thy father (Ælf. L., 1, 4); so besárgian, treóþian, treóþsian, gelýfan. Here also giving = exciting (please, soothe, still, etc.): þam folce gecpēman, to please the people (Mc., xv, 15); so stillan, óleccan, and impersonals: him ne sceamóde, it did not shame him (Gen., ii., 25); ofþuhte (Sat., 247); langǎt (B., 1879), etc.

giving aid (help, serve, defend, injure, etc.): þú moncgm helpst, thou helpest many (Hy., vii, 44); heó him þénóde, she ministered to them (Mc., i, 31); so fremian, þcópian, derian, fylstan, stýran, chastise, etc.: hí mé pá dydan, they did me woe (Psa., cxviii, 138); dó pcl þám, do well to those (Psa., cxxiv, 4).

(b.) Adjectives of the above senses, especially of thought and feeling: ánun gehýrsum, obedient to one (Matt., vi, 24); getrýpe hláforde mīnum, true to my lord (Ælfric): þam bisceope cūd, known to the bishop (John, xviii, 15); leóf Gode, dear to God (C., xvi, 17); fremde, strange (B., 1691).

(c.) Some of these words may take a genitive of the non-personal object: hlyst his pordá, listen to his words (Nic., 3); or even of a personal object; so helpan, gelýfan, þidsacan, þancian, treóþian, miltsian, gefeón, sceamian, etc. See under Genitive. The notion of the verb may be conceived as given to the object, or as had as belonging to, or excited by him, e. g. gelýfan = give confidence to him (dative) or have confidence in him (genitive); helpan = give help to him or be his help. In Sanskrit the genitive may be used for most datives of this kind. The early Greek has much of the same freedom. The Latin is more fixed than the Gothic, O. H. German, or Anglo-Saxon.

(d.) Double Object.—Verbs of granting, refusing, and thanking may take a dative and genitive.

Ic feores þe unnan pille, I will grant (to) thee (of) life (Ex., 254, 4); so onlíhan, pyrnan, túðian; mē þæs forþyrnde paldend, the lord refused me that (C., 2219); þancian his dryhtne þæs leánes, to thank his lord for the gift (C., 257). So of-teón, deprive (B., 5). See under Genitive.

298.—II. Object of Interest, the person for whom something is or is done.

(a.) Dative of advantage or disadvantage (verbs): bæd him hláfás pyrcan, bade make loaves for him (Sat., 673); polde hire búr átímbrau, wished to build a bower for herself (R., 30, 5); him heáhcýning píf áþcahte, for him (Adam) the high king a wife raised up (C., 172); (adjectives): þé is betere þwt án þínwá limá forþeorde, it is better for thee that one of thy limbs perish (Matt., v, 29); nyttre him pære, it would be better for him (Luc., xvii, 2).

(b.) Dative of Possessor: him þæs gepeald, to him was (=he had) power (Cri., 228); þām ne byð nānes gōdes pana, to them is lack of no good (Psa., xxxiii, 9); Gode sī puldor, to God be glory (Luc., ii, 14); pā byð þam, woe is to him (Ex., 444, 25); so after interjections: pā þam men, woe to the man (Matt., xviii, 7); pel þære heorde, well for the herd (Leg. Cnut., ii, 84, 2). A favorite in Greek and Latin; not so in Teutonic. The Sanskrit thus uses a genitive. A second dative takes a preposition.

(c.) Reflexive, after verbs meaning take: nim þē þis ofæt on hand, take for thee this fruit in hand (C., 518); be, remain, etc.: þæron him on Cent, they were for themselves in Kent (Chr., 1009); beōð eōp stille, be still for yourselves (Exod., xiv, 14); so stōd, stood (Gen., xviii, 8); sæt, sat (Gen., xxi, 16), etc.; move, go, etc.: gepāt him, he departed for himself = he was off with himself (C., 2884); so cyrde (Chr., 1016); fērde (1009); træd (B., 1881); gā (An., 1350); hpearf (C., 447); sometimes pende (Chr., 1016; § 290, d); fear, etc.: ondrēd hē him, he feared for himself (John, xix, 8); so with pile, wish (Ex., 450, 18); piste, knew (C., 445); hleōdrede (Ex., 185, 3); hæfde, had; gelýfde, believeth; peaxan, grow, etc. (Grein, s. v.). These are substitutes for the middle voice. See § 290, d. Many of them resemble the ethical dative. Most would be expletive in English.

299. Association.—Words of nearness and likeness govern the dative.

Hē þam hūse geneahlēhte, he came near to the house (Luc., xv, 25); gelic þām leōhtum steorrum, like the bright stars (C., 17, 7).

(a.) Here belong some words of meeting, association, contention, and the like; of bringing near, receiving, touch; of imitation, agreement, etc.:

gefeñlācan, pidstandan, forstandan, pidpinnan, tīdan, hrīnan, onfōn; impersonals: hit lícōde Hērōde, it was suited to Herod (Matt., xiv, 6); so becyme, becometh (Mc. (D.), xiv, 31); gedafenat (Luc., iv, 43); gerised (Ex., 1, 5); gebyrād (John, x, 13).

(b.) This relation takes the instrumental (or genitive, nearness sometimes the locative) in Sanskrit; the dative in Greek, Latin, Gothic, etc. Some of the words may govern in other relations an accusative, genitive, or instrumental: hrīnan, onfōn.

300. Mastery (use).—The instrumental or dative may denote an object of mastery:

þām pæpnum pealdan, to have power over the weapons (B., 2038); þý pongē pealdan, to have the mastery of the field (Guth., 674); peōld Hūnum, ruled the Huns (Wid., 18); þý ricē rēdan, to rule the realm (Dan., 8, 688). Ruling may be conceived as transitive, or as giving law or direction to a dative, or as being master of a genitive, or as being strong by means of an instrumental: pealdan > English wield governs the dative in Gothic and O. Norse, the genitive in O. H. German, in Anglo-Saxon, like Latin potior, the acc., gen. (dat.), instr.; rædan governs the gen. in O. Saxon and M. H. German, in Anglo-Saxon often the instrumental or dative, the dative elsewhere; brúcan (Lat. fruor), use (Béd., 4, 19); neotan, use (An., 811), take the acc., gen., instr., dat.

301. Separation.—Some verbs of separation may take an object from which in the dative or instrumental.

(a.) Transitive verbs of this kind take an accusative + a dative: mec bescyrede callum, he deprived me of all (Rid., 41, 101); passive: scyldum bescyredne, deprived of shields (Mód., 8); + instrumental: hê rihê benêman, to rob them of their right (C., 129, 32); hine heafdê becearf, he cut him off from his head (B., 1590); bedêlan, deprive (B., 721).

(b.) Intransitives: hî feôndum ôdfaren hæfdon, they had escaped the fiends (Exod., 64). So adjectives: drihne fremde, far from God (C., 105).

(c.) The old case here is the ablative, which is retained in Latin. The Greek uses the genitive. The Anglo-Saxon has oftenest the genitive, then the instrumental, sometimes a dative.

Adverbial Combinations.

302.—I. Instrumentals.—(a.) The instrumental or dative may denote instrument, means, manner, or cause:

spebban speordê, to kill with sword (B., 679); eâgun geseah, saw with eyes (C., 51, 2); wordum herian, to praise with words (C., 1, 4); cognate of manner: gefullôde þam fulluhte, baptized in the baptism (that I am) (Mc., x, 39); lustfullian þæs biscepes wordum, to rejoice because of the bishop's words (Béd., 2, 9); adjectives: fedrum snell, swift with wings (Ex., 206, 7); ancrum fæste, fast by means of anchors (El., 252); fedrum strong, strong in respect of wings (Ex., 203, 18); mundum freôrig, freezing in my hands (An., 491). Greek dative, Latin ablative represent these old instrumentals.

(b.) Dative of the Agent. Passive verbs take the agent with a preposition (fram, þurh, etc.): gesealde fram mînum fæder, given by my father (Matt., xi, 27); gecpeðen þurh þone pîtegan (acc.), spoken by the prophet (Matt., iii., 3). The dative after some verbals might be put here: Gode sind mihtelice þâ þing, to God the things are possible (Luc., xviii. 27). Sanskrit here uses the instrumental regularly; Greek often, Latin sometimes, a dative without a preposition.

(c.) The instrumental or dative may denote price:

ânum penninge geboht, bought with one penny (Matt. (D.), x, 29); usually after pid or tô, or a genitive.

(d.) The instrumental or dative may denote measure of difference :

spounnê lengra jâre pryh, longer than the coffin by a span (Béd., 4, 11) ;
miclê mâ sceape betera, better than  $\sigma$  sheep by much more (Matt., xii, 12) ; so micelum (Greg.) ; micelre (Béd., iv, 13).

(e.) The instrumental or dative may denote an object sworn by :

mec jînê lifê heâlsoðe, he swore me by thy life (B., 2131) ; oftenest after purh or for.

303.—II. Ablatives.—The comparative degree may govern a dative.

Mâra Iohanne fulluhtere, greater than John the Baptist (Matt., xi, 11) ;
betera manegum spearpum, better than many sparrows (Luc., xii, 7).

The nominative, with þonne, than, is more common. The instrumental is found. The Sanskrit uses the ablative, sometimes the instrumental ; the Greek the genitive ; the Latin the ablative ; other Teutonic tongues are like Anglo-Saxon.

304.—III. Locatives.—(a.) The dative may denote time when or place where.

Ôðrum dæge hine hyngroðe, the second day he hungered (Mc., xi, 12) ;
þam þriðdan dæge hê ârist, the third day he arises (Matt., xx, 19) — so instrumental : þý syxtan mōndê, on the sixth month (Béd., i, 3).

(b.) It may denote a repetition of times : on dæg seofen sûtum syngǣð sinneth seven times a day (Luc., xvii, 4).

(c.) The dative of place takes a preposition.

Quasi-predicative Combination.

(d.) Dative absolute.—A substantive and participle in the dative may make an adverbial clause of time, cause, or coexistence (§ 278, d, § 295, b, time with be, bi, § 334).

Him sprecendum, hig cōmon, they came, while he was speaking (Mc., v, 35) ; þînre durâ belocenre, bide, thy door having been locked, pray (Matt., vi, 6), so still a dative in Wycliffe. Sanskrit uses thus different cases to denote different relations ; the locative is the most common. The Greek has the genitive oftenest ; the Latin the ablative. The Teutonic languages use this construction seldom. Time when, not absolute, is put in the dative in Greek.

305. With Prepositions.—The dative with a preposition may denote an object of influence or interest, assoclation, mastery, or separation; or an instrumental, ablative, or locative adverbial relation. For examples, see Prepositions.

INSTRUMENTAL.

306.—I. The Proper Instrumental. See §§ 299, 300, 302.

The plural instrumental endings are lost wholly, the singular nearly. The dative generally takes their place. The surviving endings are found sometimes in ablative and locative uses. They are lost also in Greek and Latin (§§ 302, 70, a). O. H. German and O. Saxon have a few singular examples, Gothic only pronouns.

307.—II. Ablative uses. See §§ 301, 303.

308.—III. Locative uses. See § 304.

GENITIVE.

309. The Anglo-Saxon genitive denotes relations of four old cases :

1. The genitive, the possessor and personal adjunct.
2. The ablative, that from which any thing is separated.
3. The instrumental, by which any thing is or is done.
4. The locative, the time or place in which. The genitive is already in the Sanskrit loosely used for all the other oblique cases.

Attributive Combinations.

310.—I. Possessive.—An attributive genitive may denote the possessor or author of its subject.

The subject may be material wealth : his speorde, his sword (Mc., xiv, 47) ;

quality : engles hip, angel's beauty (Jul., 244) ;

persons had or related : Godes peôpás, God's servants (LL. In., 1) ; Of-fan dôhtor, Offa's daughter (Chr., 787) ; Ines brôdor, Ine's brother (Chr., 718) ; officers : Cantparâ cyning, Kentish men's king (Chr., 827).

Any thing conceived as belonging to another : Apollônies hand, Apollonius' hand (Ap., 21) ; þârâ apostolâ lâre, the apostles' lore (Béd., 4, 25) ; Ælf-rêdes dômâs, Alfred's laws ; hûses duru, house's door (St. G., 1).

311.—II. An attributive genitive may denote the subject or object of a verbal.

Subjective genitive : Godes gife, God's gift (LL. In., Pream.) ; tpégrá mannâ gepitnes, two men's testimony (John, viii, 17) ; cyninges hæs, king's command (C., 8, 14).

Objective genitive: Godes egsa, fear of God (Ex., 244, 30); synnâ forðifœnnes, forgiveness of sins (Matt., xxvi, 28); huntunge heortâ, hunting of harts (Béd., 1, 1).

312.—III. Partitive.—An attributive genitive may denote the whole of which its subject is part.

Se norðdæl middangeardes, the north part of the earth (Béd., 1, 1);
reste dages æfene, the evening of the Sabbath (Matt., xxviii, 1).

(a.) The subject a pronoun: hwæt gôdes dô ic, what of good do I? (Matt., xix, 16); hwæt peorces, what sort of work (Ælf.); so hwader, hwyle, eal, sum, wlc, gehpâ, gehwyle, æmg, puht, nâht, etc.;—þær, adv. (C., 284, 24).

(b.) The subject a numeral: ân his emhtâ, one of his disciples (Luc., xi, 1); ærest ealrâ, first of all (C., 4, 32). Compare d, below.

(c.) The subject a superlative: sâdâ læst, least of seeds (Matt., xiii, 32); hûsâ sælest, best of houses (B., 146). Very common is ealra + a superlative; ealrâ ricôst, richest of all, etc., whence old English alderfirst, alderliest, etc. (Ch. Sh.).

(d.) The subject an aggregation or measure of objects or material: mycele manegeo fixâ, a great crowd of fishes (Luc., v, 6); heord spýnâ, herd of swine (viii, 32); hund mittenâ hwætes, a hundred of measures of wheat (xvi, 7); þûsend pundâ goldes, a thousand of pounds of gold (LL. Æthd., II, 7, 2). This should be distinguished from the characteristic genitive of material (§ 313, b). This is very common, that rare; this is Sanskrit gen.

(e.) A cognate genitive may denote the eminence of its subject: cýningâ cýmng, king of kings (Ex., 9, 17); dreámâ dreám, joy of joys (36, 22); heofonâ heofonâs, heaven of heavens (Psa., cxlviii, 4); and so abundantly in Anglo-Saxon, O. Norse.

313.—IV. Characteristic.—An attributive genitive may denote a characteristic of its subject.

In Sanskrit a characteristic takes the instrumental, in Greek (rare) the genitive, in Latin (frequent) the ablative or genitive.

(a.) Quality: fægeres hipes men, men of fair aspect (Hom., ii, 120).

(b.) Material: scennum scéran goldes, patens of pure gold (B., 1694); rare: material as characteristic is almost always expressed by an adjective (gylden, golden), or a compound (gold-fæt, gold vessel), or a preposition (reáf of hêrum, garment of hair (Matt., iii, 4)). Compare § 312, d.

(c.) Age: lamb ânes geâres, lamb of one year (Hom., ii, 262).

(d.) Size: fen unmwætre mycelnesse, fen of immense size (St. G., 3); so weight, value, and the like: penegâ peorde, pennies-worth (John, vi, 7).

(e.) Name: hit ofetes noman ágan sceolde, it the name (of) apple must have (C., 719); hê forleort eastrâ Nazaredes, he left the city (of) Nazareth (Northumbrian Matt., iv, 13). The West Saxon uses the appositive Nazared. Britene ígland, island (of) Britain (Chr., 1; Béd., 1), is doubtful. The Greek and Latin used this genitive sometimes, the French often, and it became common in Semi-Saxon.

Predicative Combinations.

314. A predicate substantive may be put in the genitive to denote a possessor or characteristic of the subject, or a whole of which it is part.

Possessor: Dryhtnes sind há rícu, the kingdoms are the Lord's (Psa., xxi, 26); gé Cristes sind, ye are Christ's (Mc., ix, 41). Characteristic: há pæron ongrislíces andplitan, they were of grisly countenance (Béd., 5, 13); hê pæs sceapre gleáþnesse, he was of sharp wit (5, 19); seó pæs micelre brædo, it was of great breadth (5, 12); hê lífes pære, (if) he were (of life) alive (LL. Æthd., II, 9, 3); hê X pintrá sêe, he may be of ten years (LL. H. & Ed., 6). Partitive: s-abbot pæs góðerá manuá, the abbot was of good men (Chr., 1066).

(a.) The predicate genitive may be used perhaps in all the relations of the attributive genitive. Compare the Latin and Greek Grammars (Hadley, 572).

(b.) Quasi-predicative. The genitive may be used for a predicate-accusative adjective (§ 294): Ilig gesápon þone sittan gescriþúde and háles módes, they saw him sit clothed and of sound mind (Mc., v, 15).

Objective Combinations.

These are mostly secondary, either abridged or acquired. In most of them one of the common relations of the attributive genitive may be conceived between the genitive and the notion of the verb or adjective with which it combines: he fears it = he has fear of it; he remembers it = he has remembrance of it.

315. Exciting Object.—The genitive may denote an exciting object.

That which suggests or excites a mental state or an act is its exciting object. The most common states or acts taking this object are

I. Feelings—joy, sorrow, pride, shame, longing, love, hope, fear, care, wonder, etc. Verbs: þeóðncs gefégon, they joyed in the lord (B., 1627); mordres gylped, he exults at murder (B., 2055); þære feohgifte scamigan, to be ashamed of the gift (B., 1026); gilpes þú gurnest, thou yearnest for fame (Boeth., 32); ondréd he þæs, he feared that (John, xix, 8); pæpná ne réced, he recks not of weapons (B., 434); pundrige fulles mónan, wonder at the full moon (Met., 28, 40); so begým (Luc., x, 35); pinian (An., 1130); pýscad (Guth., 194), and see § 297, c. Adjectives: fáren sátes, glad of the journey (An., 1043); sátes pærig, weary of the journey (B., 579); gódes gráðig, greedy of good (Sol., 344).

- II. Intellectual states—remember, forget, think of, listen, etc. Verbs: gemun þines pordes, remember thy word (Psa., cxviii, 49); Godes hi forgeáton, they forgot God (Psa., cv, 18); þince þe nánes yfeles, we think no evil (Gen., xlii, 31); hlyst his pordá, listen to his words (Nic., 3). Adjectives: gemyrdige Lodes þifes, mindful of Lot's wife (Luc., xvii, 31); unþis þæs naman, ignorant of the name (Béd., 4, 13).
- III. Acts related with such states of mind—laugh, pray, help, try, watch, remind, etc.: þæt þif áhlôh drihtnes, the woman laughed at the lord (C., 2380); flæsces hi bædon, they prayed for flesh (Psa., civ, 35); bídan þines eftcymes, watch for thy return (Ex., 466, 33); help mîn, help me (Psa., lx, 1); Hþi fandige gē mîn, why tempt ye me? (Matt., xxii, 19); mîn costôde, tried after me (B., 2084). Adjectives: gearo (Jul., 49).

(a.) Verbs of asking, accusing, reminding may take an accusative and genitive (§§ 292, 297, a):

þe biddan ánre bēne, to ask thee of one thing (B., 427); ácsian (Béd., 4, 3); týhd me untreôþdá, accuseth me of untruths (C., 36, 33); usíc þará leáná gemouan, to remind us of the loans (Ex., 333, 19).

(b.) Verbs of granting, refusing, and thanking may take a dative and genitive. See § 297, d.

(c.) Impersonals may take a genitive and an accusative or dative of the person excited: hine átes lysted, he longs for food, § 290, c (Wal., 52); him þæs ne sceanóde, it did not shame him of that, § 297, a (Gen., ii, 25).

(d.) Reflexives may take the reflexive pronoun and a genitive: on-dréd hē him þæs, he dreaded (him) of that (John, xix, 8).

(e.) In Sanskrit the exciting object is regularly an ablative, but many of the verb notions here specified already take a genitive; in Greek the genitive is established, in Latin frequent; in Teutonic, genitives, datives (instrumentals), and accusatives combine often with the same verb.

316. Partitive.—The genitive may denote an object affected in part.

After verbs of shaving and touch: genam þæs ofætes, he took of the fruit (C., 493); æt þisses ofætes, he ate of this fruit (C., 500, 564); þæs þæstmes onbát, bit of the fruit (C., 470); ic hæbbe his hēr, I have (some) of it (the fruit) here (C., 678); his hrinan, to take hold of it (C., 616); þæpná onfôn, to take hold of weapons (C., 2040). So in other languages. In the Romanic tongues, and sometimes in Anglo-Saxon, a preposition is used. See of.

317. Separation (ablative).—The genitive may denote an object of separation. (Compare § 301.)

(a.) Many transitive verbs of separation take an accusative of the person and a genitive: benāman Crist rīces, to deprive Christ of the kingdom (C., 286, 3); fatā hine bereāfian, rob him of his goods (Matt., xii, 29); hine ganges getpāman, to hinder him from flight (B., 967); getpāfet (B., 1763); geclānsā (Ps. C., 112); berādde (An., 1328).

(b.) Intransitives—cease, need, miss, etc.: God gespāc his peorces, God ceased from his work (Gen., ii, 3); ealdres linnan, to be deprived of life (B., 2443); pingā beþurfon, have need of things (Matt., vi, 32); behōfāt (Béd., 4, 25); miste mercelses, missed the mark (B., 2439); þæs sōdes unsaced, deviate from the truth (Sol., 182). Adjectives: būendrá leās, empty of inhabitants (C., 6, 16); fācnes clāne, clean of crime (Ex., 276, 13); ānes pana fiftig, fifty less one (An., 1042); bedāled, p. p. (C., 276, 9).

318. Supremacy.—The genitive may denote an object of supremacy or use.

God pealded mannā cynnes, God rules the race of men (Psa., lviii, 13).
See § 300.

319. Material.—The genitive or instrumental may denote the material of which any thing is made or full. Compare § 302, a.

Þæt fæt leādes gefylde, filled the vessel with lead (Ex., 277, 10); ofwetes gehlādene, laden with fruit (C., 461); þeōs eorde is berende fugelā, the land is full (bearing) of birds (Béd., 1, 1); adjectives: fæt ful ecedes, vessel full of vinegar (John, xix, 29); gāstē (Luc., iv, 1).

(a.) The material after a verb of making takes a preposition. § 294, c.
(b.) The material is put in the genitive in some other relations. § 324.

320. Measure.—The genitive in combination with adjectives may denote measure. Compare §§ 295, 302.

(a.) Space, dimension: fiftiges fōt-gemearces lang, fifty paces long (B., 3043); fiftēnā monnes elnā deōp, fifteen man's ells deep (C., 1397).

(b.) Time: hē þæs hundniġontiges pintrā eald, he was (of) ninety (of) winters old (Béd., 3, 27); oftenest English (twelve) years old is in Anglo-Saxon a compound adjective (tpelf) pintrē (Luc., ii, 42; viii, 42; Gen., v, 6).

(c.) Price, value: six peningā pyrde, sixpence worth (Rask); is pyrde his metes, is worthy of his meat (Matt., x, 10). Compare §§ 302, 313, d.

(d.) Crime: mordres scyldig, guilty of murder (B., 1683); deādes scyldig, deserving of death (Matt., xxvi, 66). Also dative and instrumental.

321. Adjunct.—The genitive in combination with adjectives may denote the part or relation in which the quality is conceived.

Mōdes blīde, blithe of mind (B., 436); māgenes streng, strong of might (B., 1844). For instrumentals, see § 302.

Adverbial Combinations.

Most examples are relics of the time when the genitive was more freely used in the adverbial relations than we find it in the literary remains. See further § 251.

322. Space.—The genitive may denote by what way :

pendon him þá óðres peges hámpéard, they return homeward by another way (Chr., 1006), Gr. τῆς ὁδοῦ, Ger. deines weges.

How far from (?): IV milá from þam mīdan, four miles from the mouth (Chr., 893; so Matzner), but four of miles is better (§ 295).

323. Time.—The genitive may denote the time when :

pintres and sumeres pudu bud gelíce gehongen, winter and summer the wood is alike hung (with fruits) (Ph., 37); þæs pintres, that winter (Chr., 878); ánes dages, one day (Job, 165); dages and nihtes, by day and night (B., 2269); þis þæs feôrdes geáres, this was on the fourth year (Chr., 47). Note also þæs, thereafter.

324. Means.—The genitive may denote means or cause :

pateres peorpan, to sprinkle with water (Dóm., 78); glæd þines, jolly with wine (B., 2791).

325. Manner.—The genitive may denote manner :

búgan splices geongordómes, bow in such vassalage (C., 283); gepealdes monnan ofsleá, intentionally slay a man (LL. Alf., Intr., 13); sódes ic þé scege, of a truth I say to you (Matt., v, 26); peaxad selfpilles, grow of their own accord (Lev., xxv, 5).

326. With Prepositions.—The genitive with a preposition is sometimes used to denote instrumental, ablative, or locative adverbial relations. See Prepositions.

 USES OF PREPOSITIONS.

327. A preposition governs a substantive, and shows its relation to some other word in the clause.

(a.) This relation is oftenest adverbial, but may be attributive, predicative, or objective : sáton he þam strande, sat by the strand (Matt., xiii, 48); —attributive: reáf of hárum, garment of hair (Matt., iii, 4); —predicative: hé þæs fram Bédssáida, he was from Bethsaida (John, i, 44); —objective: on his ágenum fæder áre geseceápan, render honor to his father (C., 1580).

(b.) A preposition may merely define a verb. It is then said to be in complete composition, if phonetically united with it, otherwise in incomplete.

328. Prepositions expressing extent take the accusative, others the dative and instrumental.

Acc. sometimes: and, æfter, æt, for, fore, foran, in, innan, mid, on, tó, ofer, uppan, under, pid.

(a.) Prepositions expressing position, or a place of rest before or after motion, take a dative. The same preposition may express extension with one verb and rest after another. (Study the examples.) The dative also has taken up the instrumental and ablative relations, and all others except plain accusatives. Occasional instrumentals and genitives occur, and are given under their prepositions.

(b.) Prepositions compounded with adverbs generally retain their case. Acc. ymb-útan, and sometimes on-bútan, on-foran, on-uppan, ongegn, ongemong, pid-geondan, pid-æftan, pid-innan ? Grein.

✓ 329. The genitive is sometimes used with þurh, pid, of, tó, innan, útan, pana,—mostly in old phrases. (Compare § 322.)

(a.) Prepositions compounded with nouns may take a genitive originally an attributive with the noun: and-lang, tó-muddes, be-tpeónum.

(a) This rule applies to the articles, adjective pronouns, and participles.

(b.) An infinitive or clause may take an adjective in the neuter singular: leófre is ús geføn fisc, to catch fish is pleasanter to us (Ælf.); gód is þæt ic on God hyht sette, it is good that I hope in God (Psa., lxxii, 23).

(c.) Indefinite. An adjective is often used indefinitely in the masculine for a person, or neuter for a thing: se blinda, gif hê blindne læt, the blind, if he lead the blind (Matt., xv, 14); mê pyrse gelamp, a worse thing happened to me (Sat., 175).

(d.) Noun understood: Englisc ne eúde, did not know English (speech) (Béd., 3, 3); þín spýdre, thy right (hand) (Matt., vi, 3).

(e.) Collectives singular may take a plural by synesis: seó heord purdon ádruncene, the herd were drowned (Mc., 5, 13).

(f.) Copulative singulars may take a plural, or have a repeated singular understood: pæron gehálgóde Eadhæd, and Bosa and Eáta, Edhed, and Bosa, and Eata were consecrated (Béd., 4, 12); eádig is se innod, and pá breóst, blessed is the womb, and the breast (Lc., 11, 27).

(g.) Partitives. Neuter partitives may be used for agreeing adjectives (§ 312, a): nán þing grênes, nothing green (Exod., 10, 15).

STRONG OR WEAK, §§ 103+.

362. The weak forms are used after the definite article, demonstratives, and possessives; and often in attributive vocatives, instrumentals, and genitives. The comparative forms are all weak:

1. Article: se ofermóda cyning, the proud king (C., 338). Exceptions are rare: sió hálig ród, the holy rood (El., 720); se óder, the other (B., 2061). For present participles, see § 119, b.

The article is sometimes omitted before the weak form of a current epithet, especially in epic forms: hrefn blaca, black raven (B., 1801); míhtigan dryhtne, mighty lord (B., 1398).

Demonstrative: of þissum lænan life, in this long life (C., 1211). Exceptions occur: on þissum lænum life (Kr., 109).

2. Possessive: míne stronglican stól, my strong throne (C., 366). The article is often inserted: mín se heofeulica fæder, my heavenly father (Matt., xviii, 35). Strong forms are frequent: míne spétue hláf, my sweet bread (Psa., ci, 4). His, and other possessives of the third person, are regularly followed by a strong form or inserted article: mid his ágenum reáfe, with his own robe (Matt. xxvii., 31); his se deóra sunu, his dear son (Sat., 243); síne driúrigne (B., 2789).

3. Vocative: blindan latteópás, blind guides (Matt., xxiii, 16); gê blindan, ye blind; gê dysigan, ye foolish (Matt., xxiii, 17). For other examples, and inserted article, see § 289.

4. Instrumental: leóhtan speordé, with a bright sword (B., 2492).

5. Genitive: lænan lifes, (end) of a long life (B., 2845); so C., 1, 13; 231, 13; Ex., 4, 25; 11, 4.

6. Comparatives: láðran landscipe, (I never saw a) loathlier landscape (C., 376); pæs betera þonne ic, he was better than I (B., 469).

363. In other cases strong forms are used.

1. No definite: þú eart heard man, thou art a hard man (Matt. xxv, 24);—vocative: þú riht cyning, thou true king (Ex., 2, 13);—instrumental: reáððe lēgē, with red flame (C., 44);—genitive: míhtiges Godes mód, mighty God's wrath (C., 403);—predicate: Eáðige synd pá, blessed are they (Matt., v, 3);—superlative: se pæs leóföst, he was dearest (B., 1296). For exceptions, see over, § 362.

2. With the indefinite article: ofslógan áinne Bryttisene cyning, slew a British king (Chr., 508); áinne leófstne sunu, (he had) a dearest son (Mrc., 12, 6).

364. These uses are established in Gothic, except that with the possessives, and perhaps the demonstratives, of some of which examples do not occur. The weak form has spread in High German. See § 107.

PRONOUNS.

365. A Substantive Pronoun agrees with its antecedent in gender, number, and person.

366.—1. PERSONAL PRONOUNS, §§ 130+.

1. Omitted subject:—imperative (regular): áris, arise (thou) (Matt., ii, 20);—repeated in a concessive clause: punige þær hē punige, dwell (he) where he may dwell (Ædr., 5, 6);—reflexives: pende hine, (he) turned him (C., 34, 33);—other cases (rare): nát þú fare, (I) know not whether thou come (C., 34, 2); bist ful hálgan hyhtes, (thou) art full of holy joy (Ex., 4, 24).
2. Repeated subject: § 287, definitive.
3. First person plural for singular by authors and preachers: nú pille pé reccan, now will we (I) recount (Oros., 1, 1, 11);—so (Hom., 2, 446). Kings say ic, or pé for themselves and council: ic Ædelstán cyning (LL., 1); pé (LL. Ina. 1, 1), but Beowulf used the plural majestatis (B., 958, 1652); in Norman French nous (LL. William, 1, 41). Ye and you as pronomen reverentiæ appear first in Old English.
4. Dual:—interchange with plural: gelyfe gyt, —parnad þæt gē ne secgon, believe ye * * take heed that ye tell not (Matt., ix, 28–30);—strengthened by bu, bu tu, bá, bá tpá (§ 141): pit bu druncon, we two both drank (Béd., 5, 3);—with single appositive: unc, Adame, to us, (me and) Adam (C., 387, see § 287, g).
5. Hit may represent a definite object of any gender or person: etad þisne hláf, hit is mín lichama, eat this bread, it is my body (Hom., 2, 266); hit (seó sunne) pære birnende stán, it (the sun) is burning stone (A. R. Ett., 39); ic hit eom, I am it = he (Matt., xiv, 27); ic sylf hit eom (Luc., xxiv, 39); þú hit eart (Matt., xiv, 28);—or a clause: hit is ápriten, ne costnā þú, it is written, Do not thou tempt (Matt. iv, 7);—an indefinite subject—an operation of nature or chance: hit snípd, it snows (Ælf. Gr., 24); hit gelimpeð, it happens (B., 1753);—a date: hit pæs pinter, it was winter (John x, 22); hit áfenlæcþ, it is evening (Luc., xxiv, 29);—appetites, notions, and the like: (rare) hit licóde Hēróde, it pleased Herod (Matt., xiv, 6).
6. Indefinite persons are denoted by hi: þonne hig pyriad eóp, when men shall revile you (Matt., v, 11).

7. Cases mix, dative mê with accusative mec, þê with þec, ús with úsic. eôp with eôpic. The dative finally displaced the accusative; so also have him and them in English. Nominatives also give place to the oblique cases: hê is strongra þon mec, he is stronger than me = I (Matt., iii, 11, Northum.); *himsel*f, etc., see § 366, 10.
8. Personal pronouns are often reflexives: ic mē reste, I rest myself (Ex., 494, 8); restad eôp, rest yourselves (Ælfld., 3); gēgadorôde micel folc hit, a great crowd gathered itself (Chr., 921). See 10.
9. Personals reciprocals: hig betpeox him epædon, they said among themselves (Mrc., 1, 27).
10. Strengthened by âgen, ân, self (for declensions, see §§ 131+): þin âgen bearn, thy own child (C., 144, 27); hire âgen bearn, her own child (158, 6); þinum âgnum fôtum (173, 2); ic âna ætbærst, I alone escaped (Job, 165); ic selfa, I myself (C., 35, 11); þū selfa, thyself (36, 12); þū sylfa, feminine (Ex. 262, 32); gē sylfe (John, iii, 28); hê sylf (C., 35, 18). Accusative for nominative: þê sylf cyme, thyself come (Ex., 8, 8); Pilâtus hym sylf âprât, Pilate himself wrote all this (Nic., 34);—reflexive: lufâ þinne nêhstan spâ þê sylfne, love thy neighbor as thyself (Matt., xix, 19);—possessive: þin sylfes bearn, thy own child (C. 176, 34); hire selfre sunâ, her own sons (B., 1115);—pronoun omitted: seolfes blâdum, its own shoots (C., 248, 17).
11. Personals with þe as relatives, see relatives.

POSSESSIVES, § 132.

- 367.—1. The possessives couple with a demonstrative without weak flexion: þes min sunu þes deað, this my son was dead (Luc. xv, 24); min se gecorena sunu, my chosen son (Matt., iii, 17).
2. Sin and his: his hearran drihten sîne, his lord (C., 19, 20). Sîn = Lat. suus; his (= Lat. ejus) displaces sîn in late prose, § 132, b.
3. For genitive ending: Enac his cynrÿn, Anak's children (Num., xiii, 29); Gode his naman eigdan, call on God his name (Psa. xeviii, 6), doubtful; common in Layamon and Old English, where also her: Pallas her glass = Pallas's glass (Bacon).
4. Omitted: mid handum, (I can work) with my hands (C., 18, 27).
5. Without its substantive: calle mine synd þîne, all mine are thine (John, xvii, 10); heorâ is heofenan rice, theirs is heaven's kingdom (Matt., v, 10). In Layamon, heoren > Old Engl. herun > Engl. hers; ourun > ours, etc.

DEMONSTRATIVES, § 133.

1. Se, seô, þæt, as an article.

368. The definite article marks its object,

(a.) As before mentioned or well known: porhte fen, and smyrede mid þam fenne, he made clay, and anointed with the clay (John, ix, 6); sc

Hælend, the Savior (Luc., x, 38); hære eorðan, the earth (John, viii, 6);—proper names: Ilödþiges sunu. Se Ilödþig þæs Carles bróðor (Chr., 885); hære Hfróðem, the (famous) Herod (Matt., ii, 22).

(b.) As further described, by a clause: þam bære þar heô inne læg, the bower wherein she lay (Ap., 1); se Beowulf, se þe wud Breccan punne, the Beowulf, who fought with Breca (B., 506);—by an appositive: þæs munes Syon, the mount Sion (Psa., xlvii, 2);—by an adjective: þæt betste hors, the best horse (Béd., 3, 14); se hálga Gúðlác, the holy Guthlac (St. G., 4); seô Magdalenisce Maria, the Mary called Magdalene (Matt., xxvii, 56);—by a possessive: þam hláforde þæs húses, the lord of the house (Béd., 3, 10);—by relation to other objects mentioned (often possessive): gefyldon þá ôt þone brerd, they filled it to the (=its) brim (John, ii, 7); þam geate, (into the sheepfold) at the (=its) gate (John, x, 1).

(c.) As a definite whole: þá Iudcás, the Jews (John, vii, 1); þá clænheortan, blessed are the pure in heart (Matt., v, 8);—a personified abstract: se wisdom, Wisdom (Boet., 3, 3).

369. The article is often omitted where it might be used. It is used less in Anglo-Saxon than in Gothic or Old High German, and very rarely in the oldest poetry, e. g., twice in the Traveler's Song, 19 times in the first 557 lines of Beowulf, 12 times in 268 lines of Cædmon (Grimm D. G., 4, 429). The steadiest uses are those in 368, b. Proper names of places and times, which are compounded with or described by appellatives, often take the article without further reason. Folk names under c vary.

(a.) Marked cases of the omission of articles are (1) after a genitive, (2) with an object compared, (3) with a negative, (4) superlatives, (5) copulative or disjunctive singulars meaning many, (6) a repeated word in correlation, (7) predicate nominative, (8) factitive object, (9), after prepositions with names of places, parts of a house, parts of the body, (10), before an attributive adjective, genitive, or appositive.

(1) Mid Godes gife, by God's gift (In. LL. 1); þæs folces priterás, the scribes of the people (Matt., ii, 4, so oftenest); þære Godes lufan, the love of God (St. G., 2); § 367, 1; (2) strengre þonne róse, more fragrant than (the) rose (Rid., 41, 24); (3) þeôf ne cymd, thief comes not (John x, 10); (4) idesá scénôst, fairest of women (C., 626); (5) berad bord and ord, (chosen men) bear shield and spear (El., 1187); (6) þæs áðáled pater of pætrum, then was parted (the) water from (the) waters (C., 152); (7) hé þæs man-slaga, he was (a) murderer (John, viii, 44); (8) hine heôld for fulne cýning, took him for full king (Chr., 1013); tô hláforde (921); (9) on sê, on (the) sea (Ap., 19); on sande (C., 242); æt húse, at home (Psa., exi, 3); út of healle, out of (the) hall (B., 663); beforan durá, before (the) door (Me., 11, 4); on bed gán, go to bed (C., 2234); cpæðan on heortan, said in heart (Psa., lxxiii, 8); æt fótum (B., 500); on cneôpum (C., 227, 2), etc., abundantly; (10) hæfdon langne speoran, they had (a) long neck (St. G., 5); clýpiendes stefn, the voice of one crying (Matt., iii, 3); Ælfréd cýning, Alfred king (Chr., 894).

370. The article with an adjective is frequent, to point out persons: se dumba spræc, the dumb spake (Matt., ix, 33);—or things (rare): þá tópearðan, the future things (St. G., 13);—in apposition with a proper name: Sidroc se geonga, Sidroc the younger (Chr., 871);—so also: helle þære hâtan, hell the hot (C., 362). Just so participles: þâ timbriendan, those building (Matt., xxi, 42); for þâm gecorenum, for the chosen (xxiv, 22); þâ geladôdan, those invited (xxii, 3).

371. With a numeral: þâ tpefse, the twelve (Mc., 4, 10); þæt ân (Matt., v, 47); se eahroda dag, the eighth day (St. G., 3).

372. With pronouns: þâ ôdre, the others (Matt., xxvii, 49); se þe, the which (Béd., 2, 5); eal þæt land, all the land (Matt., ix, 26); butu þâ scyppu, both the ships (Luc., v, 7); so: healfne þone speoran, half the neck (Jud., 105);—possessives, see § 367.

373. The article is repeated with copulative words oftener than in English: þæt gold and þæt seolfor, the gold and the silver (Apol., 14);—sometimes a plural is used with two singulars: hyre þâ leôfstan hlâford and sunu, her (the) dearest lord and son (Chr., 1093).

Se, seô, þæt; þes, þeôs, þis, § 133.

374. Se is less emphatic than þes. Both denote the near object, or an antecedent to a relative.

1. Se is often nearly the third pronoun: spunгон hīg þone, and forléton hine, they beat that one (him), and sent him away (Mc., xii, 3). Note seô > Eng. she, þâ > Eng. they; Lat. hic.

2. þæt and þis are often used without agreement in gender or number: þæt wæs gôd cyning, that was a good king (B., 11); þæt wæron þâ ærestan scyppu, that (those) were the first ships (Chr., 787); þis is seô corde, this is the earth (C., 1787); þis sint þâ bebodu, this (these) are the statutes (Lev., xxvi, 46). Compare hit, § 366, 5. German es sind.

3. Antecedent: se þe brýde hæfd, se is brýdguma, he is bridegroom, (the which), who has the bride (John, iii, 29); þæt þe ácenned is of flæwce, þæt is flæsc, that is flesh, the which is born of the flesh (iii, 6); rare with þes (John, i, 15, North.).

4. ôð þis, till now (Bas. Hex., 6); but generally these two years=nú twá geâr (Gen., xlv, 6).

5. This and that=the former, the latter, are not expressed by þis, þæt; but se ærra, se wftera (Béd., 4, 23). A discriminated remoter object is rare.

6. þý mâ, Lat. eô magis, more by that (so much the more) (C., 54, 33); þý heardra, the harder=harder by that (80, 8); § 302, d.

375. ylc, þylc, spylc (§ 133, 3). Ylc couples with the article or demonstrative; þylc and spylc may be used as adjectives or substantives; þæt ylce leoht, the same light (C., 301, 34); such (Luc., ix, 9); þylllic, such (Boet., 39, 3; Matt., xviii, 5); spylc, such (Mc., iv, 33; Boet., 38, 2).

376. Self (§ 131), with personal pronouns (§ 366, 10), with substantives: þære sylfan stôpe, the same place (John, xi, 6); se cyning sylfa, the king himself (Ex., 2, 1); se þeôden self, the Lord himself (C., 9, 10); on þæt dxgrêd sylf, at the dawn exactly (Jud., 201).

INTERROGATIVES.

377. Hpâ, hpæt (§ 135).

Hpâ asks mostly for persons: hpâ prât bôcstafâs ârest, who wrote letters first? (A. R., 40).

Hpæt asks (1) for neuters, (2) for an answer without regard to gender or number, (3) for a special character or part of an object:

(1) Hpæt næddercynnâ sî on cordan, what of snake kind are on the earth? (A. R., 41); (2) hpæt syndon gê, what (who) are you? (B., 237): hpæt is se cyning, who is the king (of glory)? (Psa., xxiii, 10): compare þæt, þis (§ 374, 2); (3) hpæt gôdes dô ic, what (of) good thing must I do? (Matt., xix, 16); hpæt nipes, what of new? (Ex., 441, 22): hpæt peorces, what kind of work? (Ælf.) > Old English adjective use: whatt wcorc (Orm., 1833).

(a.) Hpæt is se þe mē wthran, what is he who touched me (=emphatic who). Lat. quis est qui (Luc., viii, 45).

(b.) Interjection, opening poems, etc., Hpæt! pē Gâr-Denâ (B.).

(c.) Hpæne secgad men þæt sý mannes sunu, whom say men that the Son of Man may be? Hpæne (Thorpe), North. huclene is used for hpæt of other A. Sax. versions in imitation of the Latin Quem dicunt homines esse Filium hominis (Matt., xvi, 13), making anacoluthon, § 293.

378. Hpæðer (which of two), and hpile (what kind of, which among like), may agree as adjectives, or govern a genitive: hpæðer uncer tpegâ, which of us two (B., 2530; Matt., xxi, 31; A. R., 39); hpyle man (A. R., 40); hpile mannâ (Ælf.).

For interrogatives as indefinites and relatives, see §§ 382, 390.

RELATIVES, § 134.

379. Relative clauses in the Teutonic tongues are oftenest constructed like leading clauses with a demonstrative, personal, or interrogative pronoun. They are made relative, i. e., subordinate adjective, by tone alone, or by a relative particle þe added. The Sanskrit and Greek have peculiar forms for the relative; the Latin qui is from the interrogative > quis.

380.—A. Demonstrative Forms.

1. Se, seô. þæt alone: þâ fcing Nero tô rice, se forlôtt Britene, then came Nero to the kingdom, who (that one) lost Britain (Chr., 47); se þurhpunad, se byd hâl, who endureth, he shall be saved (Matt., x, 22);—antecedent omitted: þæt gê gehyrad, bodrad, that ye hear, preach (it) (Matt., x, 27).

2. þæt þæt, whatever: þæt þæt latôr but, þæt hæfid angin, whatever later is, that has beginning (Hom., i, 284).

3. Se, seô. þæt with indeclinable sign þe: Augustinum, þone þe hi gecoren hæfdon, Augustine, whom (the one that) they had chosen (Béd., i, 23); þâ ungeleáfsman, þarâ þe hi þâ gereorde ne cûdan, the unbelievers, of whom they the speech did not know (Béd., 1, 23); þæt þe > þætte may refer to a sentence (Béd., 2, 7).

4. þe alone: se stán, þe, the stone, that (the builders rejected) (Mc., xii, 10); þá mátmás, þe, the treasures, that (thou gavest me) (B., 1482);—an antecedent omitted: nú synd forðfarene þe sóhton, now are gone (those) who sought (Matt., ii, 20).

From þe a preposition is usually separated: þæt bed, þe se lama on læg, the bed that the lame one on lay (Mc., ii, 4).

5. Spylc—spylc: hê sêce spylcne hláford, spylcne hê pille, he may seek such a lord, as he may choose (Æðs., v, 1, 1); spylce burh, spylce seô pæs, such a city, as it was (Oros., ii, 4, 5).

6. Spá: spylcrá yrmdá, spá þá unc ár scrife, of such miseries, as thou to us before assigned (Ex., 373, 2). Compare German so, Engl. as, and § 382, 2.

381.—B. Personal Pronouns.

1. Alone: pæs þegenes his gebyrd . . . sind cûde, the thane whose birth (and goodness) are known (Hom., 1, 2). So O. H. G.: Fater unsêr dû pist in himilum, our Father, who (thou) art in heaven (Schade, 8; Grimm, iii, 17).

2. Personals with indeclinable þe or *se: hpæt ic hâtte, þe ic lond recâfige, what am I called, who (i. e. I) the land ravage? (Rid., 13, 14); se mec, whom (i. e. me) (Ex., 144, 9); þe wê, (we) who (Cri., 25); Fæder úre, þú þe eart on heofenum, our Father, who (thou) art in heaven (Matt., vi, 9); þe þú (Hy., 8, 13); þe hê (Psa., lxvii, 4); þe his, whose (Psa., xxxix, 4); þe him, to whom (Psa., cxlv, 4)=se him (C., 201, 31);—þe separated: hpæt se god wære, þe þis his beáccen pæs, of what sort the god was, that this was his sign=whose sign this was (El., 162). The German retains this idiom, du, der du bist, etc. The Gothic uses ikei (ik+ei), þuei, izei.

3. Personals with *se þe: se bid lcofãst, se þe him God syled, he is dearest, (he) to whom God giveth (Vid., 132). Compare § 384, a.

382.—C. Interrogatives.

1. Hþæt;—indirect interrogative > relative: ne rædde gé þæt hpæt Dauid dyde, have ye not read (that) what David did (Luc., vi, 3); narfdon hpæt hig æton, they had not what they might eat (Mc., viii, 1).

Hþá (who) appears as a proper relative first in its dative wam, wan in Layamon (2, 632; 3, 50), in its genitive whas and dative wham in Ormulum (3125, 10370). The nominative who is found sometimes with a pronominal antecedent in Wycliffe, A.D. 1382–3 (Isa., 1, 10), and becomes common as a full relative in Berners' Froissart, A.D. 1523.

2. Spá hpá spá, spá hpæt spá, spá hpylc (spá), whosoever, whatsoever, whichsoever: læte ic hine, spá hpá spá cymed, I will let him, whosoever cometh (sit by me) (C., 28, 20); spá hpæt spá (Matt., xvi, 19); spá hpylc spá (Matt., x, 42; Béd., 2, 2); spa hpylc (Psa., cxxxvii, 4).

Hpylc (which) appears by itself as a relative in Layamon.

383. Attraction. (a.) The relative is sometimes attracted to the case of its antecedent: hâligu treóp, seó þú healdest, holy troth, which thou hold-est (C., 2119). But see § 384. a.

(b.) The relative is sometimes attracted to the gender of a noun in its own clause: fulpiht-tid, þarve (hi) Tpelfta-dag hátad, baptism-time, which they Twelfth-day call (Men., 13).

(c.) For relative adverbs, see §§ 396-398.

384. Incorporation. The same word may represent both antecedent and relative. It may have the case (a.) of the antecedent: gebyrgde þæs gepéor, tasted of what grew (C., 483); such cases are frequent, þæs=þæs þe. Those in § 383, a, may be similar, seó=seó þe, seó appositive with treóp. Compare § 381, 3. (b.) Of the relative: hi næfdon hpæt hīg æton, they had not what they might eat (Mc., 8, 1). Here the clause hpæt hīg æton is the object of næfdon. (c.) The case of þe is not discriminated. For examples, see § 380, 4.

385. Omission. Phrases of naming often lack their subject: án munac, Brihtnóð þæs geháten, a monk (who) was called Brihtnoth (Chr., 963); sealde áne þeópene, Bala hátte, gave her a maid, (who) was called Bilbah = Old Eng. Bilbah hight (Gen. xxix, 29). M. H. German used the same idiom. Similar phrases sometimes have a relative expressed, sometimes a personal pronoun: se þæs háten Penpald, who was called Penwald (St. G., 1); Agado hé þæs geháten (Chr., 675). Compare gefór Ælfréd, þæs geréfa. Alfred died (who) was sheriff (Chr., 906). But the Anglo-Saxon does not omit the relative freely, like the English.

INDEFINITES, § 136.

386. Án:—indefinite article: án man hafde tpegen sunâ, a man had two sons (Matt., xxi, 28); ástâh on hime spâ án culfre, (the Spirit) descended on him, like a dove (Luc., iii, 22); seldom, if ever, in poetry; but a pretty indefinite án after its noun occurs; hé eorðsele áne pisse, he knew a cavern (B., 2410);—with numeral or measure: án fiftig sealmâs, a fifty psalms (Æðs., 5, 3); áne healfre tide, a half time (W. P. T., 12); án geâr án man, they ruled a year a man=each man one year (Oros., 2, 2, 3); áne feápa pordâ, a few words (Nic., 11), áne is plural and means only.

(a.) The English an>a has several shades of meaning. A nurse said, "a spoonful an hour is a dose for a child till a doctor comes"—A certain nurse said, "one spoonful each hour is what is called dose for any child till some doctor comes." The first, second, and third of these uses are sometimes found in Anglo-Saxon, as in Latin (unus). Our second example is nearly the fourth use, which is the most characteristic use of the proper article, i. e., simple sign of a singular use of a generic term: but compare it is a dove with it is like a dove. Nán means not any: is nán caru, is there not any care? (Mc., 10, 40). The Goth. ains translates Gr. εἷς; sums, τις. O. Norse einn is sometimes proclitic, so Germ. einer. See sum.

(b.) Án (indefinite pronoun) is adjective or substantive. Peculiar uses: (1) his ánes cræft, his own power (C., 272);—(2) þuhte þé ánum, it seemed to thy self (Sat., 55);—(3) án æfter ánum (Sal., 385)=áne and áne (Oros., 2, 3)=án æfter eallum (B., 2268)=án æfter óðrum (Sat., 26)=ánes and ôdres (Met., 25, 52), one after another;—(4) bútan þám ánum, except the ones (Sat., 147): for unc ánum tpám, for us two alone (Rid., 61, 15);—(5) án sunu, only son (Rid., 81, 10);—(6) þæt pæs án cynning, that was a (true) king (B., 1885);—(7) ánrá with indefinite pronouns: ánrá gehpylc, each one (<of ones) (Matt., xxvi, 22); so æghpylc (Gú., 4); hpá, gehpá, etc., compare gehpyle þegná, each of thanes=each thane (B., 1673);—(8) ánes hpæt, somewhat, in any degree (Boet., 18, 3);—(9) on án, in one, together, once for all (Psa., cxxxii, 1; lxxxii, 9; lii, 4).

387. Nân, æmg, næning have both substantive and adjective syntax.

388. Sum; (1) indefinite article=án: sum man hæfde tpegen suná, a man had two sons (Luc., xv, 11), see § 386;—(2) pronoun: ánum hē sealde fif pund, sumum tpá, to one he gave five pounds, to another two (Matt., xxv, 15);—(3) eóde eahta sum, he went one of eight (B., 3123);—(4) sum feól, some (seed) fell by the way (Mc., 4, 4);—(5) sume þá bócerás, some (of) the scribes (Matt., ix, 3); sume gé, some of you (John, vi, 64), see § 287, c;—(6) sume tén gear, some ten years (Boet., 38, 1), see § 148.

389. Man, piht, ápiht, nápiht: gif mon píf ofsleá, if one a woman slay (Ælf. B., 9); læde mon hider, some one led hither (Béd., 2, 2); lúdes piht, anything of pain (painful) (Ex., 144, 1); ópiht elles, anything else, something (Béd., 3, 22); nópiht yfeles, nothing evil (Béd., 2, 12); so nán þung grēnes, nothing green (Exod., x, 15).

390. Hpá and compounds: hpá=man, any one (Matt., xxi, 3; Mrc., 12, 19); spylces hpæt, some what (B., 880), summ whatt appears in Orm, 958; gehþá, each (Mc., 15, 24); æghþá, each (Rid., 66, 2); hpæt-hugu, some what (Béd., 1, 27).

391. Gehþæder, each of two, áhþæder, any, are substantive, æghþæder, either of two (Béd., 2, 3; 1, 7), of many (B., 1636), subst. and adj.

392. Compounds of -lic are used substantively and adjectively: ælc, each, every (Matt., vii, 17; xx, 2), æuer ælc>everyche>every appears in Layamon, 2814; ælc with óder, are both inflected: hi cpædon ælc tó ôtrum, they said, each to the others (Mc., 4, 41); ælc ôdres fêt, each wash the other's feet (John, xiii, 14); spilee þri, some three (Luc., 1, 56).

NUMERALS, §§ 138-148.

393. Cardinals: oftenest substantive with gen.: feópertig dagá, forty (of) days (C., 1351): with of: án of þisum, one of these (Matt., v, 19);—apposition: án fiftig sealmás, a fifty psalms (Ælf.s., 5, 3);—with pronoun: hi þrý, they three (Ex., 190, 11);—alone: þá fornan tpá, the first two (=pair), Adam and Eve (C., 194);—adjective: mid L scipum, with fifty ships (Chr., 1052); týn þúsend, ten thousand (Matt., xviii, 24). Compounds with and: six and fiftig, 56 (Béd., 2, 5);—with læs, pana, bútan: tpá læs XXX. 28 (Chr., 641); ánes pana þrittigum, thirty less one (Béd., 1, 1); tpéntig bútan án, 19 (Béd., 5, 19); numerals with sum. see § 388, and compare French quelque, Gr. τις.

For ordinal dates: sixtigum pintrá, 60 years (=60th year) B.C. (Béd., 1, 2);—multiplicative: six spá micel, six times as much (LL., p. 398);—distributive: tpám, by twos (Lc., 10, 1); ánne and áinne, one by one (Oros., 2, 3, 4);—how often: sixtýne sídum, 16 times (An., 490);—division: ou tpá, in two (Ap. 11).

394. Ordinals. Adjective, with or without an article: se eahtoda dæg, the eighth day (St. G., 3); þridan dæge, the third day (Lc., 9, 22);—with of (rare): óðer of his leorning-cnihtum, a second of his disciples (Matt., viii, 21), án óþerr appears in Orm., 5778;—compounds: (1) ordinal+ordinal: þý tpéntigdan and þý feórdan, the 24th (day of September) (Béd., 4, 5); (2) cardinal+ordinal: án and tpéntigóðan, 21st (Exod., xii, 18); (3) ordinal+cardinal: sixta eác feópertigum, 46th (Béd., 1, 15).

Division: seofedan dæd, seventh part (Oros., 2, 4, 6); before healf (ð 147): niugouteóde half gear, 18½ years (Chr., 855); feórde half hund sciþe, 350 ships (Chr., 851).

395. Indefinites (1.) eal: eal here, the whole mob (C., 150, 12); peróð eal, the host all (C., 184, 1); eal seó w, all the law (Matt., xxii, 40); uninflected (B., 2042, and often when parted from its noun);—with pronouns: pé ealle, we all (C., 268, 27); ealles þæs, all that (186, 25); hig ealle, they all (Matt., xiv, 20);—substantive: eallum gumená cynnes, all of mankind (B., 1057); geornást ealles, eagerest of all (Psa., 83, 12); hpæt ealles, what on the whole (cxix, 3); calrá ricóst, richest of all (Vid. 15, § 312, c); tpelfá ealrá, twelve in all (B., 3171).

(3.) Micel, much; má, mára, more.

(4.) Feápa, few; feá(p)um ánum, few only, a few (B., 1081); feá(pe)rá sumne, one of few=with few companions (B., 3061).

(5.) Lyt: lyt freóndá, few (of) friends (C., 2626); cynnes lyt-hpon, few of the race (Jud., 311). For hpon, see Grein.

ADVERBS.

395*. Adverbs modify verbs, adjectives, and other adverbs.

Adverbs could for the most part be parsed as cases of nouns, as they were, § 251. They make

Adverbial combinations: hê peóp bitterlice, he wept bitterly (Matt., xxvi, 75); spá geongum, so young (B., 1843); spá miceles gepáh, he throve so greatly (C., 186, 24).

Predicative, mostly adverbs of place: hpær is se Iudeá cyning, where is the Jews' king? (Matt., ii, 2); pé hér beón, we are here (Mc., 9, 5); hær ic eom, there I am (Matt., xviii, 20);—expletives, so called, hær pearð geporden mycel eorðbifung, there was a great earthquake (Matt., xxviii, 2).

Attributive, rare: mín u magíster, my of-yore master (Béd., 5, 10).

396. Interrogative and demonstrative adverbs may be used like their pronouns, §§ 252, 260.

A. To govern a case: hpær eorðan Abel pære, where (=in what part) of the earth Abel was (C., 1003); hpider (Jul., 700):—governed: setl þær þú on sitest, seat where on thou sittest (Hy., 7, 41), so other prep. often.

B. To introduce clauses.

397.—I. LEADING CLAUSES.

Declarative: þær may introduce a clause like an indefinite hit (§ 365, 5): þær pearð geporden mycel eorðbifung, there was a great earthquake, Germ. es geschah ein gross erdbeben. Gr. συσμὸς ἐγένετο, Lat. terre motus factus est (Matt., xxviii, 2); hence English so-called expletive there.

Interrogative.—Interrogation may relate to the general affirmation of a sentence, or to some particular point connected with it, the subject, object, time, place, manner.

(1.) General questions are expressed by inversion or tone: hæfst þú hafoc, hast thou a hawk? (Ælf.) :—by hpæder with the subjunctive: hpæder gē nú pillen pēdan, will ye now hunt? (Met., 19, 15).

(2.) Particular questions are expressed by interrogative pronouns or adverbs: hpær is heorá God, where is their God? (Psa., cxiii, 10); hpider, whither? (C., 2269); hpanon, whence? (B., 333). For pronouns, see § 377-8.

(a.) Negative questions add ne: ne drincst þú pín, dost thou not drink wine? (Ælf.).

(b.) The particles ac, ah, hú, lá, are used to strengthen questions.

Ac for hpan, wherefore then? (Sal., 342); ah ne pé fordrifon, did we not cast out (devils)? Matt., vii, 22; North.); hú ne synd gē sêtran, are not ye better? (Matt., vi, 26); hpæt is þis lá manná, who is this (lá) man? (El., 903); so are used forms of secgan and cpedan, say: segst þú mæg se blinda þone blindan lædan, (sayst thou) can the blind lead the blind? (Luc., vi, 39); cpede gē hæbbe gē sufol, (say ye) have ye any meat? (John, xxi, 5); cpede pé ys þes Daudes sunu, (say we) is this David's son? (Matt., xii, 24).

(3.) Disjunctive questions may have inverted clauses, or the sign hpæder: ys hit riht þæt man þam Casere gafol sylle, þe ná, is it right to give tribute to Cæsar, or no? (Luc. xx, 21); hpæder first: hpæder is mære. þe þæt gold, þe templ, which is greater, the gold or the temple?

(Matt., xxiii, 17);—before second clause: pæs Iohannes fulluht of heofone, hpæder þe of mannum, was John's baptism of heaven, or of men? (Luc., xx, 4).

398.—II. SUBORDINATE CLAUSES.

1. Indirect questions: frægn, hpær Abel pære, asked where Abel was (C., 1003). See further, §§ 421, 425.

2. Relative clauses: hús, þanon ic út còde, house whence (=from which) I went out (Matt., xii, 41); þà dagás, þonne se brýdguma byð áfýrred, the days when the bridegroom shall be taken away (Lc., 5, 35); on stænihte, þær hyt næfde mycle eorðan, on stony ground, where it had not much earth (Matt., xiii, 5).

(1.) The relative adverb is often made a conjunction by incorporation (§ 384): ne máge gé cuman þider ic fare, ye may not come whither I go (John, viii, 21).

PARTICLES OF AFFIRMATION AND NEGATION, § 261.

399. Answers. The particles geá, gese, ne, nese, ná, in answer to general questions, have the syntax of declarative clauses. (Other tongues have particles of like syntax.)

(a.) They are quasi-clauses. § 278, d: lufäst þú mé? geá, lovest thou me, Yea (=I love thee) (John, xxi, 16); gise, lá gese, yes, O yes (Boet., 16, 4);—object of a verb: ne, seege ic cóp, I say to you, no (Luc., xii, 51); ná (xiii, 3); nese (i, 60); cpyst þú, eart þú of þyscs leorning-cnihtum? nic, ne com ic, art thou of his disciples? Not I, I am not (John, xviii, 17).

400. Negative Adverbs. Repeated negatives strengthen the negation. (So in old Teutonic and Greek, not in Latin.)

1. General negation is expressed by ne. It may be repeated before the verb, subject, object, adverb: ne on móde ne murn, do not mourn in mind (An., 99); nán spílç ne cpom, none such comes (Cri., 290); ne nán ne dorste nán þing ácsian, no one durst ask him anything (Matt., xxii, 46); ne pép þú ná, weep not at all (Lc., 7, 13).

(a.) A positive word of emphasis may be added: ic ne forhtige þiht, I shall not fear a whit (Psa., lxi, 2); often náþiht (Matt., xxvii, 24); so French point, pas.

2. Particular negation is expressed by un-, -lcás, ná, nalæs, nôht: nalæs ríðende on horse, ac on his fótum gangende, not riding on horseback, but going on his feet (Béd., 3, 28); nalæs micelre tide, no long time (4, 6); heó tiliað tó cpémanne Gode mid wordum, næs mid peorcum, they try to please God with words, not with works (Psa., xlvi, 12); nôht fear, not far (4, 3).

USES OF THE VERB-FORMS.

PERSONAL ENDINGS.

Agreement.

401. A finite verb agrees with its subject in number and person.

(a.) Participles in compound tenses agree;—passives: pes þú gebletsód. he thou blest (An., 510); pesat gè gebletsáde, be ye blest (Psa., cxiii. 23):—perfect: hér syndon gefereðe, here have come (B., 361). After habban, transitive participles agree with the object, intransitives have no ending: hê hæfít mon geporhtne, he has man made (C., 25, 18); hie gégán hæfídon, they had gone (Jud., 140). But the endings early fell away. See further examples, §§ 412–419.

402. Simple Subject.—1. Its forms. 1. A substantive. 2. An adjective used as a substantive. 3. A pronoun. 4. A numeral. 5. An infinitive. 6. Any word or phrase as such. 7. A clause, or clauses. So in all tongues. Impersonals generally have their subject hit. For examples, see § 366, 5. See þær, § 397. Indefinite personals (man, etc.), see §§ 389, 390.

2. Collectives singular may take a plural verb by synesis: se here gebrohton, the army brought (their ships) (Chr., 1016);—a singular and plural: *þæt folc sæt * **, and árison, the people sat, and they arose (Exod., xxxii. 6); se here spór þæt hie poldon, the army swore that they would (Chr., 921): þín ofsþring sceal ágan heorá feóndá gata, thy offspring shall possess the gates of their foes (Gen., xxii, 17).

3. Numerals plural may take a singular verb, generally before them: þá pæs ágán V̄ pintrá, then was gone 5000 years (Chr., 616, 655). Compare hm gelicáde hire þeápás, him pleased her manners (?) (Chr., 1067).

403. Compound subject, § 282.

Copulate singulars take a plural (1) after them regularly: Maria and Martha páron tpá gespystru, Mary and Martha were two sisters (Hom., 1. 130);—before them sometimes: þá cpædon Annanias, Azarias, Misahél, then said Hananiah, Azariah, Mishaël (Hom., 2, 18);—oftener: þá pearð hê gedrífed, and eal Hierosolym-paru, then was he troubled, and all Jerusalem folks (Matt. iii. 2).

(a) Copulate words may be really a simple subject, 1, a repetition of the same notion, often a climax: mín sápl and mín mind is spude gedrífed, my soul and my mind is greatly troubled (Psa., vi, 2; Milton, P. L., 1. 139);—2, complements of one notion: fláse and blòd ne arceápde þé, flesh and blood hath not showed to thee (Matt., xvi, 17, North.; so Lat., Greek, etc.); tor and burh stód, tower and burg stood (C., 102, 17; Milton, P. L., 2, 495, 6, 511. etc.).

(b.) Logical copulates connected by a preposition may take a plural by

-synesis: se feond mid his gefærum feollon, the fiend with (=and) his mates fell (C, 306). So in Latin, Greek, and elsewhere.

404. Agreement with a predicate may take place

1. When the subject is his or þæt: þis synt þá bebodu, these are the statutes (Lev., xxvi, 46): þæt pæron þá ærestan scipu, those were the first ships (Chr., 787).

2. When the subject is remote: gyf þæt leóht þe on þê ys, synt þýstru, if the light that is in thee is darkness, Lat. tenebræ sunt (Matt., vi, 23), and in other cases when the predicate is the more important to the thought.

405. Omission of the subject occurs (1) with imperatives, (2) where it would be repeated, (3) with reflexives, (4) in other rare cases, mostly of the first and second persons (for examples, see § 366);—of the verb: (1) the verb to be in exclamatory clauses: pá cōp, woe (be) to you (Matt., xxiii, 13, Cambridge); pel gesund, Apollōni, (may you be) very well, Apollonius (Ap., 7);—elsewhere (rare): pær leóht and lif, in heaven, where (is) light and life (C., 212, 26): (2) to give in certain phrases: eáge for eáge, and tōd for tōd, an eye (must be given) for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth (Matt., v, 38). For hpwt, what, § 377, b. For omission of the infinitive with auxiliaries, §§ 435–443. Answers, § 399.

406. THE KINDS OF VERBS.

Notional, § 55.

Intransitive, § 275, a.

Transitive, §§ 275, a; 290, b.

Copulative, §§ 273, b; 286, c.

Impersonal, §§ 290, c; 299, a; 366, 5.

Reflexive, §§ 150, a; 290, d; 298, c.

Factive, §§ 275, a; 294, a.

Causative, § 292, c.

Relational, §§ 150–152; 176; 212; 435–443.

(a.) The emphatic form in do (§ 177, 2): spá dōt nú þá þeōstro piðstan-dan, (as a great rock withstands), so does now the darkness withstand (Boet., 6). This perhaps never occurs in Anglo-Saxon except as a repetition of a verb just used. See a possible example (Psa., cxviii, 25) Grein. But do+an object clause occurs as an emphatic form: ne dō þú æfre, þæt þú oncyrrre=ne avertas, do not (thou ever, that thou) turn away (Psa., cxxxi, 10); so cxviii, 97, 174, 170, etc.

(b.) The same verb may be in the same author notional in one connection, relational in another; so also transitive and intransitive, reflexive and not, causative and not, and the like.

(c.) Historically verbs change from one kind to another: especially from notional to relational, from intransitive to transitive (causal), from transitive to intransitive. They acquire factitive, reflexive, or passive senses, or drop them. Such changes may be noted in comparing Anglo-Saxon verbs with their English descendants. See impersonal and reflexive examples at the §§ referred to above.

VOICES, § 150.

407. A transitive verb may take two forms as the agent or the object is made more prominent.

408. Active. The active voice is used to make the agent the subject of predication.

(a.) It is the common form of all verbs.

409. Passive. The passive voice is used to make the direct object of the action the subject of predication.

For its forms, see §§ 178–182, and tenses, §§ 412–416.

(a.) The agent is expressed with passive verbs by an oblique case after fram, þurh, or the like: fram Silvestre lærde þæron, they were taught by Silvester (El., 190).

(b.) A factitive object becomes a predicate nominative: Crist þæs Hælend gehâten, Christ was called Hælend (Saviour) (Men., 4); but if expressed with a preposition, it is unchanged: þæs tō pápan gesct, was made (to a) pope (Chr., 1058).

(c.) Other objects are unchanged with passives: (dative) þæs ærende wætelum cempum áboden, the message was given to the noble knights (An., 230);—impersonals: is mē gepuht=mē þyncd, it seems to me (Ex., 163, 6);—genitive: bcámás þæron ofættes gehlædene, trees were laden with fruit (C., 30, 4);—instrumental: Ióhannés þæs heafde becorfen, John was cut off from his head (Béd., 1, 27).

410. Middle. For middle forms, see §§ 150, a; 290, d; 298, c.

TENSE, § 152.

411. In relation to time action is represented by A.-Sax. verbs as in its own nature indefinite, continued, or completed; and in regard to the time of speaking as present, past, or future.

	Indefinite.	Continued.	Completed.
Present	{ ic nime , I take.	{ ic eom nimende , I am taking.	{ ic hæbbe numen , I have taken.
Future	{ ic nime , ic sceal (pille) nman , I shall (will) take.	{ ic beo nimende , I shall be taking.	{ ————, I shall have taken.
Past	{ ic nam , I took.	{ ic þæs nimende , I was taking.	{ ic hæfde numen , I had taken.

For subordinate clauses, see § 418.

412. The endings of the Anglo-Saxon verb discriminate only past time from other time.

1. The so-called present tense is used for present and future acts.
2. The so-called imperfect is used for all past acts.

3. Compound forms in which the auxiliary has the present form discriminate varieties of present and future action.
  4. Compound forms in which the auxiliary has the imperfect form discriminate varieties of past action.
- (a.) The present, future, and perfect are called principal tenses; the imperfect and pluperfect, historical tenses.

INDICATIVE TENSES.

413. The Present expresses

- (1.) What exists or is taking place now: þone maddum byred, he bears the treasure (B., 2055);—progressive: þeôs corde is berende, the land is bearing (=produces) (diverse birds) (Béd., 1, 1);—passive: ic eom gelufôd, I am loved (Ælf. Gr., 26); corde is gecpeden Godes fôtsceamel, earth is called God's foot-stool (Hom., 2, 448); pyrd bereâfâd (Met., 28, 42); beôd fangene (Béd., 1, 1).
- (2.) Customs and truths: þær þin goldhord is, þær is þin heorte, where thy treasure is, there is thy heart (Matt., vi, 21).
- (3.) Author's language: se pitega ûs manâd, the prophet exhorts us (Hom., 2, 124, rare).
- (4.) Future: after þrim dagon ic ârise, after three days I shall arise (Matt., xxvii, 63); ne gâst þu þanone, ær þu âgilde, thou shalt not go thence, till thou shalt have paid (Matt., v, 26).
- (5.) Imperative: six dagâs þu þirst, § 420, c.
- (6.) Narrative clause dependent on a past tense: þi noldest þu secgan þæt heô þin wif is, why didst thou not say that she is thy wife? (Gen., xii, 18, frequent). § 419. III.

414. The Imperfect (preterit) expresses

- (1.) What took place or was occurring in time fully past: hê sægde, he said (they were magicians) (Jul., 301);—progressive: spâ ic ær secgende pæs, as I was saying before (An., 951);—passive: ic pæs gelufôd, I was loved (Ælf. Gr., 26); þa pæs þrudpord sprecen, then a mighty word was spoken (B., 642); þurdon heofenâs ontýnede, the heavens were opened (Matt., iii, 16).
- (2.) Perfect: nû þu lætst þinne þeôp, forþam mine eâgan gesâpon þine hæle, now lettest thou thy servant depart, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation (Luc., 2, 30).
- (3.) Pluperfect: þa hi þæt gebod gehýrdon, þa fêrdon hîg, when they had heard the command, they went (Matt., ii, 9).

415. The Future is expressed (1.) by the present, § 412 (future perfect, § 413, 4);—progressive: beôd feohtende, will be fighting (Jos., x, 25);—passive: ic beô gelufôd, I shall be loved (Ælf. Gr., 26); wle treôp byd forcorfen, each tree shall be hewn down (Matt. iii, 10; Luc., 6, 38); pyrd him wite gegearpôd, punishment shall be prepared for them (C., 28, 6).

- (2.) By sceal: ic þú sceal mīne gelæstan frcōde, I shall keep my regard for thee (B., 1706); þú scealt peordan, thou shalt be (=wilt be) a comfort to the people (B., 1707); sceal gár pesan hæfen on handá, spear shall be raised in hand (B., 3021); hē sceal pesan Ismahēl hāten, he shall be called Ishmael (C., 2286); sceal pesan pridende (C., 1762).
- (3.) By pille: pēne ic þæt hē gyldan pille, I think that he will pay (B., 1184); þú pilt secgan, thou wilt say (Met., 24, 48); Northumb. has often uillo in the first person (Matt., xii, 44; x, 33).
- (4.) By gá: hē gād rēdan, Lat. pergit lectum, he is going to read (Ælf. Gr., 25), Fr. Je vais lire. See § 445, 6, and uton, § 443.
- (5.) By hæbbe: þone calic þe ic tō drincenne hæbbe, North. done ic drinca uillo, the eup that I have to (=shall) drink of, Lat. bibiturus sum (Matt., xx, 22); rare. See § 453, a. So in Goth., Romanic.
- (6.) By eom: Mannes Sunu is tō syllyenne, North. sunu monnes gesald bid, the Son of Man is to (=shall) be betrayed, Lat. tradendus est (Matt., xvii, 22). See § 451. The three last forms perhaps give no pure futures in the Anglo-Saxon literature.
- (7.) The future perfect is not discriminated. In its place may be a future: ær þú águlde, thou shalt not go thence, before (=till) thou shalt have paid (Matt., v, 26); a perfect: pit eft cumad siddan pit ágifcn habbad, we will come again, after we (shall) have completed (C., 174, 25).
- (a.) The future forms are sometimes imperative, § 420, c.
- (b.) Pure futures in sceal and pille are not sure in large numbers, and the English distinction between the persons is not made out.

416. The Perfect represents an action as now come to completion. It is denoted

- (1.) By hæbbe: hē hæfit mon geporhtne, he has made man (C., 25, 18); pē habbad lydre gefēred, we have got along badly (Sat., 62).
- (2.) By eom, with a few intransitives mostly of being and going: ic eom hider gefēred, I am (have) hither journeyed (C., 498); so synd fordfarene, have departed (died) (Matt., ii, 20); ágán, gone (El., 1227); geporden, geseten, urnen; so in German.

Passive: eom + pp. of transitives: ealle þing me synd gesealde, all things have been given me (Matt., xi, 27); —eom geporden + p. p.: nú syndon hī gepordene tólýsde (Psa., lxxii, 15; ic pæs fulfremedlice gelufód = amatus sum (Ælf. Gr., 26).

417. The Pluperfect represents an action as completed at some definite past time. It is denoted

- (1.) By hæfde: hæfde hine geporhtne, he had made him (C., 17, 4); gefarene hæfdon, they had gone (Béd., 1, 23).
- (2.) By pæs with such as have a perfect in eom: pæs þá lencten ágán, spring had gone (El., 1227). Passive: —pæs + p. p. of transitives: þi se Hælend gefullód pæs, hē ástáh, when the Saviour had been baptized, he came up (Matt., iii, 16); —pæs geporden + p. p.: ccaru pæs gempód

geporden, care had been renewed (B., 1304); ic pæs gefyrn gelufod= Lat. amatus eram (Ælf. Gr., 26).

SUBJUNCTIVE TENSES.

418. The tenses follow in general those of the indicative, but time is indefinitely expressed in relation to the speaker. Futurity runs with doubtful possibility. In indirect sentences the time is to be taken in relation to that of the principal verb.

The Imperfect often expresses time as future from a past of the principal verb: ic spōr þæt ic hinc hām brohte, I swore that I would bring him home (Gen., xlv, 32);—with auxiliary: þohtan þæt hit ofergān sceolde, they thought that it would go by (Chr., 1053); pold þæt sceoldon bodian, wished that they should preach (Hom., 2, 20);—Future perfect: þæt polde þyncan pundorlic, gif ænig ær þam sǣde þæt hit spā gepurdan sceolde, that would have seemed wonderful if any before that had said that it should so happen (Chr., 1052).

SEQUENCE OF TENSES.

419. Principal tenses depend on principal tenses; historical on historical.

Exceptions.—I. Present + Past. (a.) A present narration or question of a past fact: art þú se mon þe pære áféd, art thou the man who was fed? (Boet., 3, 1);—comparison of present and past: hé is gēn spā hé pæs, he is still as he was (Ex., 334, 5). II. Perfect + Past: þú hæfst forgiten þarā pēpná þe ic hé sealde, thou hast forgotten the weapons that I gave thee (Boet., 3, 1). III. Past + Present:—a truth in narrative: þā Sciddeás, þe on ódre healfe búgjad, ne geheórdon, the Scythians, who live on the other side, had not heard (the Roman name) (Boet., 18, 2);—quasi oratio directa in past narration: § 413, 6. Compare § 288, e.

MODES.

THE INDICATIVE, § 151.

420. The indicative is used in assertions, questions, and assumptions to express simple predication.

(a.) Primary. It is the primary form, to be used every where unless there is reason for some other.

(b.) Real.—Since there is a special mode for what may be and might be, the indicative is used in contrast to speak of things as real or fact. So in a protasis, § 431.

(c.) Imperative.—The indicative future may be used for the imperative: six dagás þú pírcst, six days shalt thou labor (Exod., xxxi, 15); ne pylt þú mê gescyndan, Lat. noli mê confundere, please not confound me (Psa., cxviii, 31). So in Greek (Hadley, 710) and Latin (Harkness, 470).

THE SUBJUNCTIVE, § 151.

421. The subjunctive is used to express mere possibility, doubt, or wish.

The Teutonic subjunctive has the general range of the Latin subjunctive, together with the infinitive having a subject accusative. Compare § 293, a.

1. In declarative sentences (hypothetical): nære mîn brodor deád, my brother would not have died (Joh., xi, 21); punige þær hê punige, he may dwell where he may dwell=wherever he may dwell (Ælfr., vi, 3, 1). So in Greek (Hadley, 722) and Latin (Harkness, 486).

2. Interrogative sentences (doubt): hpâ ne mæge páfian, who can fail to wonder? (Met., 28, 43); hpi þú æfre polde, how couldst thou ever wish? (Met., 4, 33). So in Greek (Hadley, 720, c) and Latin (Harkness, 486).

3. Imperative sentences, 1st person (exhortation or request): fare pé on túnás, go we to the towns (Mc., i, 38); up-áhebben pé his naman, exalt we his name (Psa., xxxiii, 3); uton gán, let us go (Mc., 14, 42);—2d person (command): ne sperigen gé, swear not (Ælf. LL. 48); nellon gé pesan, do not be (Matt., vi, 16);—3d person (wish, demand): sá Gode lof, praise be to God (Chr., 1009), sib si mid eôpe, peace be with you (Ex., 282, 25); beón gegaderôde þá pateru, let the waters be gathered (Gen., i, 9). So in Greek (Hadley, 720, a) and Latin (Harkness, 487).

4. Exclamatory (wish, abridged subordinates): Eá lá! þæt hit purde, Oh! that it might be (Met., 8, 39); Eá lá! gif ic móste geefentæccan, Oh! if I might imitate (the blessed Lawrence) (Hom., 1, 432); Eá lá! gif þú pære hund, Ah! if (=would) thou wert a dog (Hom., 2, 308). So in Greek (Hadley, 721) and Latin (Harkness, 488, 1).

5. In Co-ordinate and Subordinate clauses the subjunctive may every where be used as in the above examples to express a separate possibility, doubt, or wish. Disjunctives (doubt): sam pé pillan, sam pé nyllan, whether we will, or nill (Boet., 34, 12); si hit man, si hit nýten, be it man, be it beast (Exod., xix, 13). For adversatives, § 432; for causals, § 433.

(a.) Subordinates share in the general possibility, doubt, or desire of their sentence, and take the subjunctive in many cases where it is not obviously the expression of either. Hence the following discussion, §§ 422-434.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE IN SUBORDINATE CLAUSES.

422. The subjunctive may be used by attraction in clauses subordinate to a subjunctive.

(a.) Cases of so-called attraction are mostly better explained as illogical conformation with some of the other rules: þonne þú ænig þing begite þæs þe þú péne þæt mé lícige, when thou any thing mayst take of that thou mayst know (=knowest) that may please me (=I like) (Gen., xxvii, 3). Compare Latin (Harkness, 527), Greek (Hadley, 738).

A. SUBSTANTIVE CLAUSES, § 283.

423. The subjunctive may be used in a substantive clause expressing something said, asked, thought, wished, or done.

(a.) The indicative is used in the same clauses to emphasize reality or fact, § 420, b.

(b.) These clauses oftenest represent an infinitive with a subject accusative in Latin and Greek, but sometimes in them also the subjunctive is used (Harkness, 549-553; Hadley, 763+).

424.—I. The clause may be a subject, oftenest of a copula, impersonal or passive.

(a.) An indirect assertion or question: hit is sæd þæt hê âhôte, it is said that he raised (up his hands) (Béd., 3, 16); ne þæs mé ead, hpæder egesa pære, it was not known to me, whether there was fear (of God) (C., 2710).

(b.) Something cognized: þuhte him þæt fægre stode pudubeam, it seemed to him that a forest tree stood fair (C., 247, 17).

(c.) Something to be desired, as fit, necessary, enough, pleasant, etc.: þe ys betere, þæt ân þinra forpeorde, it is better for thee that one of thy members perish (Matt., v, 30); gedafenad þæt hi heora lare gymon, it be- seems (priests) that they their lore heed (Hom., 2, 342).

425.—II. The clause may be an object.

(a.) An indirect assertion or question: epedad þæt þu sie hlæfdige, they say that thou art a lady (Ex., 18, 15); saged þæt hit come, he says that it came (from God) (C., 683); hê sagde þæt Sarra his speostor pære, he said that Sarah was his sister (C., 158, 27);—hpæt seege gê þæt ic sig, what say ye that I am? (Matt., xvi, 15); Gregorius befran hpæder fole Cristen pære, þe hæden, Gregory asked whether the people Christian were or heathen (Hom., 2, 120); frægn gif him pære, asked if to him were (a pleasant night) (B., 1319).

(b.) Object of cognition: pénde þæt se mæsta dæl pære, weened that the most was (aboard) (Chr., 911); gelyfe þæt hit come, I believe that it came (from God) (C., 679).

(c.) Object of desire or fear (hope, heed, doubt, pray, etc.), see § 315: ic pylle þæt hê punige, I will that he wait (John, xxi, 22); hopode þæt hê gesápe, hoped that he might see (Luc., 23, 8); so onégan, fear (C., 110, 1); begýmad, heed (Matt., vi, 1); biddad, pray (Exod., ix, 28), etc.

(d.) Object done: dô symble þæt ic æ þine metige, I do continually that I meditate thy law=English emphatic form I do meditate (Psa., cxviii, 174); see further § 406, a.

426.—III. The clause may limit a noun or adjective: syll þonne ad þæt hê nelle þeóf beon, take the oath that he will not a thief be (LL. Crut., ii, 21); heô geornāst bið þæt heô áfære fleogan, she is earnest to (that she) frighten flies (Ps., 89, 10).

(a.) The clause is an appositive or genitive; in most cases might be conceived as adverbial of purpose or result. The same modal idea is here in a noun or adjective which in I. and II. is in the verb.

B. ADJECTIVE CLAUSES, § 283.

427. The subjunctive may be used in indefinite adjective clauses.

Hypothetical relative sentence (Harkness, 501; Hadley, 757): syle þam þe þê bidde, give to him that asketh thee=if any one ask (Matt., v, 42); gehýre se þe eáran hæbbe, let him hear who has ears (Mc., 4, 9); pyree hpá þæt þæt hê pyree, oðte dô þæt þæt hê dô, one may work that, that (what-ever) he may work, or do that, that he may do (Boet., 37, 2).

C. ADVERBIAL CLAUSES, § 283.

428.—I. Clauses of Place. The subjunctive may be used in indefinite adverbial clauses of place. Compare § 427.

Far, þær þú freôndá pêne, go where thou hopest for friends (Gú., 262); hafã bletsunge þær þú fêre, take a blessing wherever thou goest (An., 224); pic geceôs þær þê leofôst sie, choose a residence where to thee pleasantest may be (C., 2723). Oftenest indicative: punã þær þê leofôst ys, dwell where to thee pleasantest is (Gen., xx, 15); so with spá hpár spá, wherever (Chr., 1130); spá hpider spá, whithersoever (Mc., 11, 14).

429.—II. Clauses of Time.

The subjunctive may be used in adverbial clauses of future or indefinite time. (Compare Hark., 518–523; Hadley, 769.)

(a.) Future: ne gæst þú þanone ær þú ágyldre, thou goest not thence before thou shalt pay (Matt., v, 26); ic wæs ær þam þe Abraham wære, I was before Abraham was (John, viii, 58); gespræc Beôpulf, ær hê stige, Beowulf said before he mounted (B., 676); puniat þár ót þæt gé útgán, stay there till ye depart (Mc., 6, 10); hê sohte ót hê funde, he sought till he found (the cup) (Gen., xlv, 12). In Greek, πρίν with an infinitive, Hadley, 769.

(b.) Indefinite: þonne þú fæste, smyrã þín heafod, when thou fastest, anoint thy head (Matt., vi, 17); bád, hþonne pearð reste ágeáfere, waited, (for the time) when the Lord should give rest (C., 1428); so with þenden, until (B., 1224); spá lange spá (Deut., xxii, 29); þá hpile þe (LL. Ædr., vi, 12).

430.—III. Clauses of Manner (intensity).

The subjunctive may be used in clauses of comparison expressing that which is imagined or indefinite, or descriptive of a force (Hark., 501, 4).

(a.) wæs se móna, spilce hê wære mid bláde begoten, the moon was as it it were with blood washed (Chr., 734); béte spá hit riht sie, let him pay as it may be right (LL. Ælf., 38); strengre þonne róse sý, (I am) more fragrant than any rose may be (Ex., 423, 19); þú gesyhst máre þonne þus sý, thou shalt see more than this is (John, i, 50), an extreme case.

(b.) Consecutive clauses, descriptive of a force: spá stearc pinter þat ic durre lítian, winter so severe that I dare to stay at home (Ælf. Col.). Compare § 434.

431.—IV. Conditional Clauses, § 283, p. 141.

The subjunctive is used in a protasis when proposed as possible, the imperfect when assumed as unreal. (So in Latin and Greek, Hark., 502+; Had., 744+.)

(The indicative proposes as real: gif ge Abrahames bearn synd, since ye Abraham's children are (do his works) (John, viii, 39).)

(a.) Present: gif mee hild nime, onsend Higeláe, if me battle take, send to Higeláe (B., 452). For inverted clauses, § 485, 6, c.

(b.) Imperfect: gif þú þære hær, nære min bróðor deáð, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died (John, xi, 32).

(c.) So with on þat geráð þat, on condition that (Chr., 945); pid þan þe, same (Gen., xxix, 27).

(d.) Negative condition: bútan hpá beó edupan gecenned, unless one be born again (he shall not see God's kingdom) (John, iii, 3); so nefne (B., 1056); ne mne (Ex., 124, 12); nymde (C., 205, 19); bútan þenne, (þá) except when (Men., 32; Sat., 391).

432.—V. Concessive Clauses.

The subjunctive may be used in a concessive clause.

Hþat fremad, þeáh hê gestryne, what profiteth it, though he gain (the whole world) (Matt., xvi, 26); þú scealt dreógan, þeáh þín wit duge, thou shalt suffer, though thy wit is good (B., 589); þeáh þú tó banan purde, though thou wast a murderer (B., 587). For inverted clauses, § 485, 6, c.

(a.) The indicative is used in similar clauses. The English discrimination between the first and second examples was growing.

(b.) So in Latin (Hark., 514+); for Greek, see Hadley, 874.

433.—VI. Final Clauses. The subjunctive is used in clauses expressing purpose. (So in Latin and Greek, Hark., 500+; Had., 739+.)

(a.) Present: sete þine hand ofer hīg, þat heó hál sý and libbe, lay thy hand upon her, that she may be whole and live (Mc., 5, 23).

(b.) Imperfect: genam þat piþ þat hê bespice, (the devil) took the woman (as aid) that he might deceive (the man) (Job, 166)

(c.) Negative clauses with þý læs, Lat. quo-minus, or þý læs þe > Eng. lest: sælde scip, þý læs ýdá þrym forþrecan meahste, fastened the ship, lest the waves' force might wreck it (B., 1918); beron, þý læs þe þín fót ætsporne, they bear (thee), lest (so that less by that) thy foot may dash against (a stone) (Matt., iv, 6).

434.—VII. Consecutive Clauses.

The subjunctive may be used to express a result.

Gif mon sîe dumb odde deáf geboren, þæt hê ne mæge his synnâ onsecgan, if one be born dumb or deaf, so that he can not deny his crimes (Ælf. I.L., 14). Consecutive modal clauses in spá þæt, see § 430, b. So in Lat., Hark., 501; in Greek, ὥστε with an infinitive (Hadley, 770).

THE POTENTIAL, §§ 151, 176.

435. The potential expresses power, liberty, permission, necessity, or duty.

(a.) In some cases it is only a periphrastic form of the subjunctive or imperative; in most cases it adds a distinct notion of power in some form.

(b.) The indicative form of the auxiliary sometimes takes the place of the subjunctive ending of the principal verb, but generally a subjunctive clause retains the subjunctive form of the auxiliary, making a doubly-expressed possibility, or doubt, or wish: ic nú syllan polde, I now would wish to give (B., 2729).

(c.) The principal verb takes the infinitive, except after eom and habban, where the gerund is used.

(d.) The principal verb is often omitted, especially a verb of motion before an adverb of place. Examples under each.

436.—1. Mæg (§§ 176, 212), physical power;—declarative: ic mæg pesan God, I can be God (C., 18, 35);—(hypothetical), cæte mihte Crist punian, easily might Christ have dwelt (Hom., 1, 164);—subordinate clauses, e. g. conditional; gif heô meahste, if she might, (she chose) (Béd., 4, 23);—final: heô polde hire êdel forlæten, þæt heô meahste gecearnian, she would give up her estate, that she might earn (one in heaven) (same);—principal verb omitted: helle gatun ne mægon ongeân þá, hell's gates can not (prevail) against it (Matt., xvi, 18).

437.—2. Can (§§ 176, 212): ne can ic eôp, I know you not (Matt., xxv, 12; frequent). Intellectual power;—declarative: ic can eôp læran, I can teach you (Sat., 250);—subordinate clauses;—conditional: þonne hê ne can ongitan, if he can not understand (Boet., 39, 2);—principal verb omitted. sagã, gif þu canne, say, if thou can (say) (El., 857); dydon spá hie cûdon, did as they could (do) (C., 232, 11).

438.—3. Môt (§§ 176, 212), possibility through permission: þær ic sittan môt sumorlangne dæg, there I may sit the summer-long day (Ex., 443, 28);—duty: môt ic him forgifan, should I forgive him (seven times)? (Matt., xviii, 21);—necessity (rare): ealle pé môton speltan, all we must die (Exod., xii, 33);—subordinate clauses;—object: bæd þæt he môste niman, besought that he might take (away the body) (John, xix, 38);—omission of principal verb: gif (pê) þider môton, if we thither might (go) (Sat., 302).

439.—4. Dear, dorste (§§ 176, 212), power of will in danger: ne dear ford gân, I dare not go forth (C., 54, 1); subordinate clauses;—result: hê pas tô-gefultumiende, þæt him mon nôht hefíges gedôn dorste, Lat. ipse júrans, ne qui (iis) quicquam molestia inferret, he was helping, so that no one might (dare) do anything grievous to them (Béd., 5, 11), rare.

440.—5. pille (§§ 176, 212). Present:—declarative future indicative, see § 415;—imperative: ne pille þú pépan, Lat. noli plorare (Hark., 538), please not weep (Béd., 4, 29); ne pylt þú, same (Psa., cii, 2). Imperfect:—declarative: ic suná minum syllan polde, I to my son would give (if I had one) (B., 2729). Subordinate clauses;—purpose, result: pas gepunôd þæt hê polde gân tô sê, was wont to go to the sea (Hom., 2, 138);—principal verb omitted: hpanne þú mé pylle tô, when thou wilt (come) to me (Psa., c, 1, and often).

441.—6. Sceal, sceolde (§§ 176, 212): hú micel scealt þú, how much owest thou? (Luc., 16, 5. Matt., xviii, 24);—necessity under law or external force: be úre æ hê sceal speltan, by our law he ought to die (John, xix, 7);—necessity for a purpose: ic hie sceal ærest gefimian, þæt ic sittan mæge, I must first dispel them, that I afterward may (bring light (Boet., 5, 3);—a future sign, see § 415;—imperative: gê sculon herigean, Lat. laudate, praise ye (the name of the Lord) (Psa., cxii, 3). Imperfect: spyle sceolde secg pesan þegn, such a warrior should a thane be (B., 2708);—subordinate clauses: hê cwæð þæt helle healdan sceolde, he said that he should inhabit hell (C., 530);—passive: forhtian þæt hê gelæded beôn sceolde, to fear that he should be led (to hell) (Béd., 3, 13);—result: nýd þæt hê hradlicôr fêran sceolde, need that he should travel more rapidly (Béd., 3, 14);—principal narrative: þá sceolde cuman hund, then came the hound (Boet., 35.6), Germ. Dan.;—verb omitted: ic him æfter sceal, I shall (go) after him (B., 2816).

442.—7. þearf, need (§§ 176, 212), common as a notional verb, rare as an auxiliary: syle mé þæt wæter, þæt mé ne þyrste, ne ic ne þurfe hér feccan, Lat. ut non sitiam neque veniam huc haurire, give me the water, that I may not thirst, nor need (come) here to draw (John, iv, 15).

443.—8. Uton, putun, O. Saxon wita (§§ 176, 224, c), pres. subj. plur. 1st of pitun, to go. Compare Lat. canus, age, It. andiamo, Fr. allons;—imperative clauses: putun gangan tô, let us advance (B., 2648); utan tô-breccan, let us break (their bonds) (Psa., ii, 3); uten is in Layamon, but the common form is the subjunctive with we: lete we þeos ferde bilæue, and speke we of Ardure, let we this host remain, and speak we of Arthur (25407). The English pure auxiliary let is later yet.

For potential eom, §§ 451; 415, 6. For hæbbe, §§ 453, a; 415, 5.

THE IMPERATIVE, §§ 149, 151.

444. The imperative is used in commands.

Gá, go (Mc., 5, 8); gang þú, go thou (Matt., iv, 10); gád, go ye (Exod., v, 18); ne beôd gé, be not ye (C., 194, 11).

(a.) In hypothetical sentences: sêcað and gê hut findað, seek and (=if ye seek) ye shall find (Matt., vii, 7).

(e.) Subjunctive for imperative, § 421, 3.

Indicative for imperative, § 420, c.

Potential, pille, § 440; sculon, § 441.

THE INFINITIVE AND GERUND.

445. Their forms, §§ 173–175, 177, 181, 352, V.

1. The infinitive in an rarely uses tô: micel is tô secgan, there is much to say (Gû., 502); âfjysed bið tô sêcan, it is prepared to seek (Ph., 275); so B., 316; C., 220, 25; Ex. 187, 27, etc. Grein.

2. The gerund in -ende appears in the later manuscripts of the Chronicle, and spreads: Nero âgan tô rîxiende, Nero began to rule (Chr., 49) hê sende tô bodiende, he sent to preach (604); coman Crist tô purdiende, they came to honor Christ (?). See § 460. So in Ælfric's Grammar.

3. The infinitive and gerund sometimes interchange in most of their uses, if not all.

4. The progressive future is rare: ongeâte hine habbende beôn, he knew himself to be about having, Lat. se fuisse habiturum (Bêd., 5, 8).

5. Future passive: ne tpeôge ic mê gelâded beôn, I did not doubt myself about to be led, Lat. me rapiendum esse (Bêd., 3, 13).

6. Ælfric gives as the Latin future active anatum ire vel amaturum esse, Anglo-Saxon faran lufian, to be going to love; vis doctum ire, pilt þu gân leornian, will you go to learning (Ælf. Gram., p. 25). The English is a true future=to be about to love. Sure examples of faran or gân, without notional force, are needed from Anglo-Saxon literature. See §§ 443; 415, 4.

INFINITIVE, §§ 149, 151.

446. The infinitive is construed as a neuter noun. (So in other tongues: Latin, Hark., 548; Greek, Ilad., 762+.)

447.—1. A subject: hine ridan lystc, to ride pleases him (Boet., 31, 7); âlýfit on Reste-dagum pel dôn, is to do well lawful on Sabbath days? (Luc., 6, 9); sometimes with tô: is âlýfed on Reste-dagum pel tô dônne. It is lawful on Sabbath days to do well (Matt., xii, 12).

448.—2. Direct object.—(1) Of beginning and ending (acts exerted on other acts): ongunnon rîran riht, began to establish right (C., 2, 17); Rómâne blunnum ricsian, Romans ceased to rule (Bêd., 1, 11);—(2) of  motive (acts moving to other acts—desire, seek, intend, expect, dare, dread, etc.): pille faran, I wish to go (Hom., 2, 372); sêcað tô (John, viii, 40); þencað (C., 2436); myntan (B., 712); ne dear ic faran, I dare not go (Gen., xlv, 34); ccara (C., 2279);—(3) definitive object of ability, duty, habit (acts and states defined by acts): ic mæg secgan, I am able to say (Cr., 317): eúton dôn, were able to do (C., 189); hê seeal speltan, he ought to die (John, xix, 7); gepuncdon môder eýgcaw, they were wont to call (her) mother (Bed., 4, 23);—(4) general motion defined by specific motion: fleôn gepát, he went to fly = he flew away (C., 136, 23); com fleôgan, came flying (89, 10); com gongan (B., 710); com drifan, came driving=fell (on a rock) (Béd., 5, 6); so with faran, fêran, glîdan, ridan, scridan, sîdan, tredan, etc. See further under Participles, § 458, 2.

(a.) These forms run to periphrastic forms of the future and potential, see §§ 415, 435†.

449.—3. The infinitive is used as a final object to express an act of the first object.

This occurs oftenest after verbs of (a.) Cognition: geseah rucâ manige spefan, saw many heroes sleep (B., 729); leôde secgan hýrde, heard people say (B., 1346); ongcate hine habbende beôn, he knew (himself to be having) that he should have (this number of years) (Béd., 5, 8); so after seôn, gehýran, gefrignan, findan, (â)fandian, gemêtan, etc. The direct object is sometimes omitted: seegan hýrde, I heard say (B., 582). Teaching: lêr ús gebiddan, teach us to pray (Luc., 11, 1).

(b.) Bidding: bæd hine faran, bade him go (Chr., 1050); hátan men gepyreccan, ordered men to build (B., 69); so with (he)beôdan, forbeôdan, etc. Direct object omitted: hæt fealdan þæt segl, orders to furl the sail (Boet., 41, 5).

(c.) Let: lêton holm beran, let the sea bear him (B., 48); lêtat þá lyttingâs tô mê euman, suffer the little ones to come to me (Lue., 18, 16). So forlêtan, alýfan.

(d.) Make: dêd hi ealle beofian, makes it all tremble (Psa., ciii, 30).

(a, b, c.) With passives: pæs gesepen blôd peallan, blood was seen to spring from the ground (Chr., 1100); harâ and spýn synt forbodene tô æt-hrinenne, hares and swine are forbidden to touch (Lev., xi, 6–8);—wishing: polde hyne genemuedne beôn, he wished him to be named (Luc., 1, 62).

NOTE.—This construction gives rise to the accusative before the infinitive, for which see § 293.

GERUND, §§ 173, 175.

450. The so-called gerund usually answers to the Latin gerund, supine, or ut with the subjunctive. But see § 445, 3.

451.—I. The gerund after the copula expresses what must, may, or should be done.

Mannes sunu is tô syllanne, the Son of Man must be delivered up (Matt., xvii, 22); his apostolâs tô farene pæron, his apostles were to go (LL. Ælf., 49, 1); seô lufu is ââ on môde tô healdanne, love should always be kept in mind (Béd., 1, 27).

(a.) The act may be done to or by the subject.

(b.) Latin periphrastic conjugations in -rus and -dus (Hark., §§ 227-233).

452.—II. Attributive. The gerund is sometimes used to describe or define a noun.

Néod is tô dônnne, there is need of acting (LL. Æðr., vi, 42); gepeald tô gyrpanne, power of working (C., 280); miel tô fêran, time to go (B., 316); mihte tô forlâtenne, power to forgive (John, xix, 10; Mc., 2, 10).

(a.) Latin genitive of the gerund (Hark., 563).

453.—III. Objective. The gerund may be used as a final object to express an act on the first object.

After verbs of having and giving: ic hæbbe mete tô etanne, I have meat to eat (John, iv, 32); sylt mê hlâf tô etenne, gives me bread to eat (Gen., xxviii, 20); ic sende flæsc tô etanne, I send flesh to eat (Exod., xvi, 12).

Note nin þæt ic þê tô sillenne hæbbe, take that I to thee to give have. (Ap., 12); ic hæbbe þê tô secgenne sum þing, I have something to say to thee (Luc., 7, 40), Lat. hac dicere habeo (Cic. N. D., 3, 39), ὀφείβιν ἀντιπεῖν ἔχω (Æsch. Prom., 51);—direct object omitted: hire syllan etan, to give to her to eat, Lat. bibere dari (Liv., 40, 47), δοθῆναι φαγεῖν (Luc., 8, 55).

(a.) Hence a periphrastic future I have to drink = I shall drink, § 415, 5.

(b.) The gerund as genitive object is pretty common: ondrêd tô faranne, dreaded to go (Matt., ii, 22); wished to see (xiii, 17.) Other objects occur, § 448, 2).

454.—IV. Adverbial. 1. The gerund is used to denote the purpose of motion.

Ût êode se sædere tô sâpenne, the sower went out to sow (Mc., 4, 3); so often without tô: grêtan êode, went to greet (C., 146, 31); geþât neôsean, went to see (B., 115); sende bodian, sent to preach (Béd., 3, 22).

(a.) The Latin supine in -um (Hark., 569).

2. The gerund with an adjective may express an act for which any thing is ready.

Hrate blôd tô âgeôtanne, ready to shed blood (Psa., xiii, 6); fûse tô fareanne, ready to go (B., 1805); so gearu, rôope, spûd, etc. Compare hû þære þû dystig ofstician bâr, how could you be daring (=how dared you) stab a boar? (Ælfrc.), § 448, 2; gearpe gehýran, ready to hear (Ælfrc.).

(a.) Latin supine in -u, and infinitive (Hark., §§ 570, 552, 3).

3. The gerund with an adjective may express an act in respect to which any thing is pleasant, unpleasant, easy, worthy, §§ 321, 302.

Gladu on tó lócienne, pleasant to look on (Boet., 6); grimlic tó geseónne, grisly to see (Ex., 57, 15); êde on tó findanne, easy to find (Psa., lxxvi, 16); pyrde tó âlâtenne, worthy to receive pardon (C., 622; Matt., iii, 11).

(a.) The Latin supine in -u, for which often an infinitive (Hark., 570).

PARTICIPLES.

455. The Relation of the Forms.

1. The -nd of the present denotes continuance; the -en, -d of the past denote completion. The completed acts are naturally used to describe the things completed, i. e., are passive.

(a.) A few past participles are active, druncen, forsporen, gesprecen, etc.: beoré druncen, drunken with beer (B., 531, and often); forsporen, forsworn, perjured (Gen., xxiv, 8, and elsewhere); hcom þus gesprecenum, they thus having spoken (Nic., 27, and elsewhere); gelyfed folc, people having believed (Hom., 1, 144); so Gothic (Mc., xv, 28), Lat. potus, juratus, etc.

(2.) The participles have (1) adjective endings, and agree with nouns; but the difference is so slight between an act asserted as done by the agent, and as descriptive of the agent, that the participles are used (2) like infinitives, and (3) as abridged clauses. The two last uses are less common in Anglo-Saxon than in Latin or Greek (Harkness, 571-581; Hadley, 785-806).

(3.) Weak and strong forms, see §§ 362, 119, b.

The Combinations.

456. A participle agrees with its substantive in gender, number, and case, § 361.

A participle may govern the case of its verb.

I. ATTRIBUTIVE: man rihtpís and ondrædende God, a man righteous and fearing God (Hom., 2, 446); seô foresæde bôc, the aforesaid book (Hom., 2, 118).

(a.) Abridged.—Here belong many abridged clauses, § 281: onlýht ælcne man cumendne tó þysum middanearde, lighteth every man coming (who comes) to this world (W. P. T., 4).

(b.) Subject omitted:—persons: calrá libbendrâ mōdor, mother of all living (Gen., iii, 20); Godes gecorenan, God's chosen (Hom., 2, 454);—things: frumripan gongendes and peavendes, first fruits of that going and growing (L.L. Ælf., 38).

(c.) Compounds with un- abound in the Teutonic tongues.

457.—II. PREDICATIVE: ic secgende þæs, I was saying (An., 951); þæs first ágân, the time was gone (An., 147); fēt sint gebundenc, feet are nound (C., 24, 18) : paldend licgad dreámê bedrorene, the powerful lie benefit of joy (Ex., 291, 8).

(a.) Hence the progressive forms, §§ 177, 411; the perfect of intransitives, §§ 163, 416; the passives, §§ 178, 409.

458.—III. OBJECTIVE: (1.) direct object after verbs of beginning and ending: geendude bebeódende, he stopped giving commands (Matt., xi, 1).

(2.) Definitive after verbs of motion: com ríðende, came riding (Hom.,
 2, 134); com gangende (Matt., xiv, 25, and often); epom gefered (Sal., 178; perhaps never exactly the Germ. kam gegangen); piud pēdende færed.
 (El., 1274); purhpunedon ácsiende, they continued asking (John, viii, 7).

(3.) Genitive object after verbs of emotion: ondrēdon hine ácsigende, dreaded asking him, ἰφοβοῦντο ἐπερωτῆσαι (Mc., ix, 32); pundredon gescōnde dumbe spcēnde, they wondered to see the dumb speaking (Matt., xv, 31).

(4.) Final object after verbs of cognition: hine geseah sittendne, saw him sitting (Luc., xxii, 56); geseah his hūs áfyllēd, saw his house filled (St.
 G., 6); gehýrdon hine spcēnde, heard him speaking (John, i, 37).

(5.) Final after having: hē hafde hine geporhtne, he had him wrought
 (C., 17, 4). Hence the perfect in Teutonic, Romanic, Romaic, rare Gr., Lat.

(a.) These correspond with infinitives, §§ 448, 449, 453.

459.—IV. ADVERBIAL. (1.) Time: hē pæccēnde geseah, he, when he waked, saw (St G., 4); nolde, gelatōd, síðan, he would not, when invited, go (Hom., 1, 128).

(2.) Cause: dyde āgder tō ánun, tōpurpende fēōndscipás, made both at one by abolishing enmities (Hom., 1, 106).

(3.) Concession: syllad, nān þing gehyhtende, lend, though hoping nothing (Luc., vi, 35).

(4.) Co-existence: gecyrdon þā hyrdás puldrigēnde and herigēnde God, the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God (Hom., 1, 32).

(a.) Such constructions are often abridged clauses, § 281.

(b.) For the absolute construction, see §§ 304, a; 295, b.

VERBALS.

460. 1. The Anglo-Saxon verbal in -ung, -ing (§ 233), is a true noun,
 e. g., governed by a preposition: ic pæs on huntunge > Engl. I was a hunting (.Élfé.).

2. The gerund in -ende (§ 445, 2) changed to -ing (Layamon, 2617), and hence the old English use of the form in -ing as a verb: I am tō ac- cusinge you (John, v, 45, Wycliffe, Oxford edition).

3. The present participle in -ende changed to -ing; and, in English, noun, participle, adjective, and infinitive (gerund) mix.

INTERJECTIONS, § 263.

461. The interjection has the syntax of a clause, § 278, d

(a.) Compare vocative, § 289, d; answers, § 399.

(b.) For the dative after so-called interjections, see § 298, b.

CONJUNCTIONS, § 262.

CO-ORDINATE CONJUNCTIONS.

462. Co-ordinate conjunctions connect sentences and like parts of a sentence.

463. COPULATIVES.

1. And connects like clauses; cum and geseoh, come and see (John, i, 16); words, often an emphatic repetition: littan and littan, by littles and littles (Chr., 1110); spūtōr and spūtōr, worse and worse (Chr., 1086);—correlatives: feor and neāh, far and nigh (C., 177, 27).

It is a general sign of connected discourse;—introductory to a sentence: And ne forseoh þū cyrliscne man, (Hail to thee, Apollonius). And do not neglect a plain man (Ap., 7); so Shakespeare, “Yet ask.” “And shall I have?” (Rich. II., iv, 1); and often beginning a lyric, Southey, Moore; so in German, Goethe.

Strengthened: sunu and fæder ægder, son and father both (Hy., 7, 42); and butu, and both (Ex., 125, 8); and eac, and also (Chr., 894); and eac spā (896); and eac spā ilce (same), and also (Psa., xxx, 10; El., 1278); and ealspā, and likewise (Luc., v, 33); and samod, and together (C., 456); and sōdlīce, and verily (Matt., ii, 9); and tō, (nine hundred), and (seventy) too (C., 1224); and hūru (Sat., 523); and mid, also (B., 1649).

Correlative: and . . . and, both . . . and (John, xii, 28); so Wycliffe, Mc., ix, 21, and often).

ægder (ge) . . . and (eac) both . . . and (By., 224); bu (bātpā) . . . and, both . . . and (Ex., 64, 12).

ge . . . and, both . . . and (C., 46, 31); samod . . . and, both . . . and (C. 239, 27).

(a.) As a general connective, and may connect clauses having various logical relations, and with or without other specific conjunctions.

Adversative: God geseah þone deofol, and se deofol spā-þeāh pæs bedæled Godes gesihde, God saw the devil, and the devil though was deprived of the sight of God (Hom., 2, 448); and nā þē læs, and nevertheless (Chr., 1011); ic pylle mild-heortnysse, and nā onægdnysse, I wish mercy, and not sacrifice (Matt., xii, 7); so beginning a sentence to enforce a contrast: And do you now put on your best attire? (Shakespeare, J. C., i, 1).

Causal: gelyff, and heô bið hâl, believe, and she shall be whole (Luc., viii, 50); and for þon ne, and not for that (Deut., i, 32).

Distributive: tpâm and tpâm, by two and two (Me., vi, 7). See § 392.

(b.) And is often an emphatic particle (Gr. kai): se þe næfd, and þæt þe hæ hæfd, him bið ætbroden, whosoever hath not, even that which he hath, from him shall be taken away (Matt., xiii, 12); And þú pære mid þam Galileiscean, thou also wast with the Galilean (Matt., xxvi, 69); so in Wycliffe: Go and yee, go ye also (Matt., xx, 4, and often); not in use now.

2. Bu, correlative with and; which see.

3. Eac, êc, eke;—with like clauses: eortan porhte, lif êc gesceôp, God earth wrought, life also created (B., 97). It is also used as an emphatic particle alone, and with and, ge, hpædre, ne, oððe, spâ, spilce, þeáh.

Eal spâ, see spâ.

Eornostlice, see sôðlice, § 463, 8.

4. Ge;—with like clauses: sæ bræc ge stecoran forlêton, the sea broke, and the stars ceased their light (Ex., 70, 33, rare);—words: caldc ge geonge, old and young (Jud., 166).

Strengthened: æghpæder ge, both (Æðs. LL., 1); butu ge, both (C., 46, 30); ge êac, and also (Cri., 1170); ge êac spâ same, and also likewise (Met., 11, 10); somod ge, at once both (Bêd., 2, 9); ge spylce, and so also (B., 2258).

Correlative: ge . . . ge, both . . . and (B., 1864); ægder ge . . . ge, both . . . and (Joh., xv, 24); ge . . . and, both . . . and (C., 752), see and.

5. Gelice, likewise;—hê pundrôde, and ealle; gelice Iacôbum, i. e. Iacobus, he wondered, and all (that were with him); likewise James (Luc., v, 9).

6. Ne, nê, with like clauses: beorgâs þær nê muntâs steâpe ne stoundad, there hills nor mountains steep stand (Ex., 199, 6);—general connective: Nê ne eton gê, neither do you eat (Exod., xii, 8).

Correlative: ne . . . nê, not . . . nor (Gû., 670).

nâder ne . . . nê (ne), neither . . . nor (Levit., iii, 17; Psa., xxxiv, 12).

nâdôr . . . nê, neither . . . nor (Matt., vi, 20) . . . nor (repeated).

nâ (nawâs) þæt ân . . . ac êac spylce (spâ); and nawâs þæt ân þæt him þâ fugclâs, ac êac spâ þâ fixâs, and not only that the birds (were subject) to him, but also the fishes (St. G., 9); so Goth., ni þat ain . . . ac jah (1 Tim., v, 13).

Strengthenings, see § 400. Note piston and ne pëndon, knew (not) and hoped not (that they should see) (B., 1604).

7. Sam: bið oferfrozen, sam hit sý sumor sam pinter, is frozen over both when it is summer and winter (Oros., 1, 1, 23), compare § 464, 5; spâ same spâ, see after, spâ.

Samod, see and.

8. Sôðlice;—general sign of connected discourse: Sôðlice Philippus pas, Now Philip was (from Bethsaida) (John, i, 41), see under and; similar are cornostlice (Matt., ii, 1); pitodlice (iii, 11).

9. Spâ, correlative: sprecan spâ yfel spâ gôd, to speak as well evil as good (Nic., 6); for other uses of spâ, see § 473; spâ same spâ, beasts have these natures the same as men (Boet., 33, 4); eal spâ, also (Matt., xxi, 30).

10. Tô, see under and; pitodlice, see sôdlice.

464. DISJUNCTIVES, § 262.

1. Âpæter, âter, strengthens odde, which see.

2. Elles: begymad; elles nabbe gê mêde, take heed; else ye have no reward (Matt., vi, 1). § 262, b.

Strengthened: gehâlan hpæder þe forspillan, to heal (whether) or to destroy (Mc., iii, 4).

Correlatives: þe . . . þe, whether . . . or (Mc., xiii, 35): hpæder . . . þe (Ex., 95, 8); hpæder þe . . . þe (Matt. xxiii, 17); hpæder . . . hpæder þe, whether . . . or whether (Joh., vii, 17).

465. ADVERSATIVES, § 262.

1. Ac, ach, ah, but;—contrasted clauses: nis þis mæden deád, ac heô slêpt (þ) (Mc., v, 39).

Strengthened: ac spûlôr, but rather (Ap., 20); ac nâdemâ, but none the more (Chr., 1127): ac þeáh hpædere, but however (Hom., 1, 276).

2. Bûtan, see § 431, d.

3. Git, yet, correlative with concessive þeáh is not yet found in Anglo-Saxon.

4. Ono hpæt, but yet (Béd., 3, 24, Smith's ed.).
5. þeâh, yet;—contrasted clauses: âr ne cûdon; þeâh hie fela piston, they did not know before; yet they knew many things (C., 179, 16).
 Strengthened: and ne eode þeâh in, and (=but) he did not go in though (John, xx, 5); and spâ þeâh, Goth. svê þauh, and yet even so (Hom., 2, 448); enn spâ þeâh (Met., 9, 38); spâ þeâh hpædere, yet however (Psa., cxviii, 157); spâ > sê (Gû., 934, and often); ac þeâh hpædere, see ac.
 Correlative oftenest with a concessive although.
þeâh (þe) . . . þeâh, although . . . yet (Boet., 16, 3).
spâ . . . spâ þeâh, although . . . yet (El., 498).
6. And nâ þê læs (Chr., 1011); ac nâ þê mâ (Chr., 1127), nevertheless; for þon, notwithstanding (Deut., i, 32).

466. CAUSAL.—ILLATIVE.

1. Nû, now that, since;—causal: þû mē ne forpyrne, nû ic þus feorran com, (I pray) that thou wilt not deny me, since I thus far have come (B., 430); nû þe, since that (An., 485).
2. þâ, since (causal); þâ hie ofgifen hæfde, (now he could replenish the earth) since they had given it up (C., 96), see § 252, II.
3. Be þam þe, by this that; because: ongist þû hi be þam þe heô on nihte scined, thou mayst know it because it shineth in the night (Mandr.).
4. For þam þe (þam > þan, þon), causal: for þam þe Drihten behêt gôð, we will do thee good. for this that (=because) the Lord has promised good (Num., x, 29).
- For þam (causal): because (Boet., 19);—illative: therefore (C., 97).
5. þonne, since (causal): hpâ sceal tó his rice fôn, þonne hê bróðer næfd, who shall to his throne succeed, since he has no brother (or children) (Hom., 2, 146).

 Correlative: þý . . . þý þe, on this account . . . because (Chr., 836).
7. For þý (þi, þê);—causal (John, vii, 22).
 Correlative: for þi . . . for þan þe, for this reason . . . because (Hom., 1, 288).

SUBORDINATE CONJUNCTIONS.

467. A subordinate conjunction connects a subordinate clause and the word with which it combines, § 278, b.

(a.) Most are really relative adverbs, or adverbial phrases modifying a word in the principal and another in the subordinate clause.

(b.) The same word or phrase may denote different logical relations between different pairs of phrases, but we will follow our usual analysis of the subordinate clauses, § 283.

A. Substantive Clauses.

468. DECLARATIVE CONJUNCTIONS.

1. þæt, substantive sign (the article of a clause).

1. With a subject clause: þær gecýded pearð þæt God helpe gefre-mede, there was made known that God help gave (An, 91);—correlative þæt or hit: nis þæt feor heonon þæt se mere stoudeð, it is not far hence that the mere stands (B, 1362); hit gelamp þæt (hie) cþómon, it happened that they came (El., 272);—quasi-appositive: peátácen þæt hie gesóhton, the fatal sign (was spread) that they should seek (his death) (An., 1123).

2. With an object clause (a) accusative: ic pát þæt þú eart, I know that thou art (El., 815);—correlative þæt or hit: þæt gecýded manig þæt þæt geþeordeð, that the multitude shall show that it shall happen (An., 1439);—apposition: þá peádæd tó præce ne sette, þæt hie beræddon, he would not avenge the wicked deed, that they deprived (of life the guiltless) (El., 496).

(b.) Dative: tó þam arod, þæt hé nédde, ready for this, that he ventured (Jud., 275).

(c.) Genitive: gemýdig þæt hió gesóhte, mindful that she sought (El., 268);—correlative þæs: pé þæs sculon hycgan, þæt pé, we should strive for this, that we, etc. (C., 398);—appositive: cræftes, þæt þú mé getæhte, I would ask knowledge, that thou teach me (An., 485).

(d.) þæt is also used in final clauses, § 433; modal, § 473; consecutive, § 434; to introduce a wish or lamentation, § 421, 4.

The uses of þæt correspond with those of Goth. þater, O. H. Ger. daß, and generally with Lat. ut, quod, Gr. ὅτι, ὅς, ἵνα, and ὅπως, Sansk. jat, játhá.

2. þætte < þæt þe has the same uses as þæt; for examples, see Grein.

3. þæt is, introduces an explanatory clause: ongunnon hi þæt apostolice lif onhýrgean, þæt is, on singalum gebedum Drihtne þeóþdon, they began to imitate the apostolic life, that is, they served the Lord in continual prayers (Béd., 1, 26); mid feápum bróðrum, þæt is, seofenum oðde eahtum, (he lived) with few brothers, that is, seven or eight (Béd., 4, 3).

Nemlice is given by Koch and Thorpe for Lat. videlicet, like English namely; but it does not occur in the passages cited by them. Ælfric translates videlicet by pitodlice, Gram., p. 40.

4. Hú, how, object of cognition: pé gehýrdon hú gé ofslogon, we heard how (that) ye slew (two kings) (Jos., ii, 10); gesápon hú hé þæs astigende, we saw how (that) he ascended into heaven (Nic., 18), frequent:—of declaration: secgan hú him speóp, said (how) it was well with him (B., 3026).

Prepositions sometimes govern clauses: stóð ofer þær þæt cild þæs, stood over where the child was (Matt., ii, 9).

469. INTERROGATIVE CONJUNCTIONS.

1. Hræder: befran hræder folc Cristen pære, asked whether the people were Christian (Hom., 2, 120).
2. Gif: frægn gif him pære, asked if to him were (B., 1319).
3. Similar is the use of hpanon, whence, hpær, where; hpænne, when; hpider, whither; hú, how, and the like, see § 397-8.
4. For ne, ac, ah, hú, lá, as strengthening particles, see § 397.

470.—B. Adjective Clauses.

These are connected to their substantive,

1. By relative pronouns, §§ 379-385, 427.
2. By relative adverbs, § 398, 2.
  - (a.) Adverbs of place connect to names of places; of time, to names of time, etc.; ou sumum dæge, há há Godes englâs cõmon, on a day when God's angels came (Hom., 2, 446).

C. Adverbial Clauses.

471.—I. Place.—The connectives are relative adverbs: pær, where (§ 428); pær pær, North. suâ huer, wherever (John, xii, 26); ne mæge ge cuman hyder ic fare, ye can not come whither I go (John, viii, 21); huer, where (North., Matt., vi, 21); spâ hpâr spá, wherever (§ 428); spâ hpider spá, whithersoever (§ 428).

Correlative pær . . . pær (Matt., vi, 21).

472.—II. Time. 1. Adverbial conjunctives mentioned under the subjunctive, § 429: æþ hon þæt (John, iv, 49, North.), ær þon þe (Jud., 252), ær þon (C., 2, 20), ær, before (B., 676); ær . . . ær (B., 1370);—ôð þæt, óð, till (§ 429, a);—þonne, hponne, þenden, spâ lange spá, há hpile há (§ 429, b).

2. Others with prepositions: æfter þam þe ic arise, ic cume, after I arise I will come (Mc., xiv, 28); miã þam þe (Hom., 2, 136), mid þý þe (Matt., xxvii, 12), mid þý, whilst (Béd., 1, 1);—of þon, since (Mc., ix, 20, North.);—on-mang (ámang) þam þe hê pær pæs, while he was there (Chr., 1091), on þam þe, while (Chr., 1050);—sið þan, since (B., 656), as soon as (604), after that (106): siddon þat (Chr., 1128);—tô þon þæt, until (B., 2591).

3. Without prepositions,—pronominal: þá, when (B., 632); há . . . há (Matt., ii, 3), há há . . . há (Matt., iv, 2), há þe . . . há (Chr., 1013), when . . . then;—mid þam þe . . . há (Hom., 2, 450), mid þý þe . . . há (Ap., 5), on þam þe . . . há (Chr., 1049), ámang þam þe . . . há (Nic., 15), whilst . . . then; on sumum dæge . . . há, on a day . . . then (Hom., 2, 446); sóna þes þe . . . há, as soon after as . . . then (Béd., 1, 12);—þæs þe, after that (Béd., 1, 11);—nu (with causal shade), now that (Sat., 387); nu . . . nu, now . . . since (C., 403).

4. From nouns: hpilum (-on, -an) . . . hpilum (Ex., 156, 30), hpile . . . hpile (Hy., 3, 44, 45), sometimes . . . sometimes; pá hpile þe . . . pá hpile, while . . . then (Oros., 2, 4, 5);—sóna spá . . . spá, as soon as . . . so soon (Béd., 1, 1); sóna þæs þe . . . pá, as soon (after) as . . . then (Béd., 1, 12).

473.—III. Manner: æfter þam þe, after the manner that (Luc., ii, 24);—eal spâ, see spâ;—on efn, efen spâ, likewise (Ps., 138, 6);—gelice: elþendes hýd pyle drincan pætan gelice and spinge dêd, elephant's hide will soak up water like (as) a sponge doth (Oros., 5, 7, 2); spylce gelice and seô pære, such as if she were (Oros., 2, 4, 6);—hû, see § 468, 4;—spâ: beôð gleápe spâ næddran, be wise as serpents (Matt., x, 16); spâ spâ, so as (Hom., 2, 452); gelicôst spâ, most as if (Ex., 53, 15); cal spâ, wholly as (Ælfrc.); spâ . . . pá, as soon as . . . then (Ex., 200, 16); spâ spâ . . . spâ, as . . . so (Hom., 2, 450). Before and after an adjective or adverb: spâ fela spâ, so many as (Ælfrc.); spâ lange spâ, so long as (Me., ii, 19); spâ same spâ, just as (Oros., 2, 4, 8); etc. Interrogatives: spâ hýr spâ, (to such place as)=wheresoever (Matt., xxiv, 28);—with comparatives: spâ hê byt ylðrá, spâ hê fægerra byt, as it becomes older, so it becomes fairer (Béd., 1, 1);—spilce, as if (§ 430).

(a.) Intensity: (tô) þæs þæt, to such a degree that (Béd., 4, 28); (tô) þæs þe, so far as (B., 2410, 1350); þý . . . þý: bið þý heardra, þe spâdôr beátad, it becomes the harder, the stronger they beat against it (C., 80, 8).

(b.) Comparison: þonne: seô sâpul is mâ þonne se lichama, the soul is more than the body (Luc., xii, 23).

(c.) Consecutive: spâ, § 430, b; þæt; spâ þæt, § 434.

474.—IV. Causal, § 466.

475.—V. Conditional: gif, on þæt gerâd, pið þam þe, and the negative bûtan, nefne, nemne, nymde, bûtan þænne, bûtan þá, are illustrated in § 431;—þær, if (C., 797); se þe pille, whoever will, spâ hpâ spâ, whoever, see hypothetical relatives, § 427;—nære þæt, if it were not that (Chr., 943); ono nu, if now (Béd., 1, 27); ono gif, same; compare gelice and, § 473, III; an and and for if occur in Layamon, and are common in old English.

476.—VI. Concessive: þeâh, though, see § 432; spâ: forðif ús gyltás, spâ þe pið þe oft ábylgead, forgive us our debts, though we against thee often sin (Hy., 6, 22).

477.—VII. Final: þæt, and the negative þý læs þe, see § 433; tô þam þæt, to the end that (John, i, 31).

CONJUNCTIONS OMITTED.

478. Copulatives are often omitted.

1. Where clauses are numbered by adverbs: first . . . secondly, etc.
2. Where recurring words mark the related clauses: eâlû, þæt ic cam ealles læs . . . , þæt ic ne mæg geræcan, Alas, that I am of all bereft that I may not reach (heaven) (C., 275, 7); singad, singad, sing, sing (Psa., xlvii, 6); not so common as in English.

3. Between circumstances closely related, especially a climax: hê is mægnâ spêd, heafod ealrâ heâhgesceaftâ, freâ ælmihtig, he is of power the essence, head of all high creatures, Lord Almighty (C., 3).

4. Between antithetic clauses or words: pudu bæx sunu, fæder fýr, wood the son bore, the father fire (C., 2887).

(a.) Sometimes they are omitted from part only of a row of copulates: fýr, forst, hægel, and snâp, fire, frost, hail, and snow (Ps., cxlviii, 8);—especially between sets of pairs: frige and þeope, ædele and unædele, free and serf, noble and unnoble (Ap., 12).

479. Disjunctives are seldom omitted.

Sometimes between sets of pairs: gif pind cymd pestan odde eástan, súdan odde nordan, if wind come from west or east, (or) from south or north (C., 50, 10).

480. Adversatives are often omitted.

Between antithetic clauses or words, especially between a positive and negative: ne gelyfe pê . . . pê sylfe gehýrdon, we do not believe (on your report), we ourselves heard (John, iv, 42).

481. Causals and illatives are very often omitted, John, ii, 25; Gen., xi, 30.

LXXIII. The interjection has the syntax of a clause, § 461.

CONJUNCTIONS.

LXXIV. Co-ordinate conjunctions connect sentences or like parts of a sentence, § 462.

LXXV. A subordinate conjunction connects a subordinate clause and the word with which it combines, § 467.

ARRANGEMENT OF WORDS AND CLAUSES.

483. General rules for the arrangement of words and clauses are found in every language.

The Latin order is, 1. subject; 2. attributives; 3. adverbial factors; 4. objective factors; 5. verb.

The German is, 1. attributives; 2. subject; 3. adverbial factors; 4. objective factors; 5. verb.

The Anglo-Saxon is, 1. attributives; 2. subject; 3. verb; 4. objective factors; 5. adverbial.

Deviation from the general rules is frequent in all languages. This is either rhetorical or poetical, for perspicuity, emphasis, or euphony, or historical, preserving relics of old habits of the language. When any word is removed from its normal place, its attraction may take other words from their places.

(a.) These deviations are generally freest in the early literature of early nations. Objects are there presented concretely with many attributes picturesquely grouped, and inverted constructions and unusual combinations are sought as part of the art of the poet and orator. There is hardly a conceivable collocation of which examples may not be found in the Anglo-Saxon poetry, and the artificial meters and ornate periods of the Greeks and Romans. Very much of this freedom is still retained by the English poets and ornate prose writers. But the tendency of advancing speech is to an analysis of objects of thought, and to the use of simple clauses, orderly arranged.

The inflected languages allow more freedom in the placing of adjectives. In other combinations, the separable signs of inversion and of specific relations, possessed by the later analytic languages, would seem to leave them freer.

(b.) The additions of Alfred to Orosius, and his prefaces, have been specially studied as models of natural arrangement in Anglo-Saxon.

PREDICATIVE COMBINATIONS.

484.—1. The subject precedes the predicate.

(a.) So throughout the Indo-European tongues; in the Semitic the verb leads.

(b.) The rule holds for quasi-clauses, § 281.

2. The copulative verb or auxiliary precedes the predicative noun or verb.

485. Exceptions.

1. Declarative clauses.

(a.) Emphasis. The verb or predicative noun may begin a clause for emphasis: (verb very common in poetry, rare in prose) stóð se práða boda, stood the fell envoy (C., 686); þars se feônd ful neáh, was the fiend full nigh (C., 688);—(noun, not very common even in poetry) mycel is se fader, great is the father (St. Bas. 6); þará þæron six stæl-hránás, of these were six decoy deers (Oros., 1, 1, 15).

(b.) Attraction. When an object or adverbial factor begins a clause, the predicate is often drawn before the subject: (direct object) fela spellá him sǣdon þá Beormás, many tales to him told the Beorms (Oros., 1, 1, 14);—

(dative) and him pæs á píð sæ, to him was always a wide sea (1, 1, 13);— (adverb) ne mette hē ær nân gebūn land, not met he before any inhabited land (1, 1, 13); pá fór hē norðrihte, then went he northward (1, 1, 13); pær secal beōn gedrine, there shall be drinking (1, 1, 21); pær is mid Estum þeáp, there is among the Esthonians a custom (1, 1, 21); on þām mōrum cardiad Finnás, in the moors dwell Finns (1, 1, 16).

(c.) Inserted clauses are often inverted: ic pát, eparð Orosius, I know, quoth Orosius (5, 1, 1, and often; but in Alfred's own narration, hē eparð, 1, 1, 16). See also correlatives, § 485, 5, a.

2. Interrogative clauses.

In interrogative clauses the verb regularly precedes the subject, unless the subject contains the interrogative pronoun (so in other tongues): lufást þú mē, lovest thou me? (John, xxi, 15); but with an interrogative particle there is often no inversion. See, for examples, §§ 397–399. Questions of suggestion with no interrogative particle occur: odde þé óðres secolon abidan, or we for another shall look? (Matt., xi, 3).

3. Exclamatory clauses.

Exclamations with interrogative words often have the verb before the subject: cá lá! hū unprést is þela, alas! how unstable is wealth (Chr., 1087); often: cá lá, hū egeslic þeós stóp is, how awful this place is (Gen., xxviii, 17); so in other tongues, § 421, 4.

4. Imperative clauses.

In imperative clauses the verb precedes the subject (so in other tongues): hál pæs þú, be thou whole (Matt., xxvii, 29); purde góð se ende, may the end be good (Chr., 1066). The subject sometimes precedes a subjunctive form: sib sí mid eōþre, peace be with you (Ex., 282, 25); for other examples, see § 421, 3.

5. Co-ordinate clauses.

The verb often follows next to the conjunction: and liegáð píðe mórás píð cástan, and lie wild moors eastward (Oros., 1, 1, 16); and beráð þá Cpéuás hyrá seypu ofer land, and the Cwens bear their ships over land (1, 1, 17); ac him pæs þešte land, but to him was waste land (1, 1, 13). Compare § 485, b.

(a.) Correlatives often have the second clause inverted: þonne his gestreōn beóð þus cal áspended, þonne byrd man hne út, when his wealth is thus all spent, then beareth one him out (1, 1, 22). Parallelism is a marked feature of poetry; the second clause is often inverted: gár-secg hlynede, beóton brumstreámás, ocean roared, beat the sea waves (An., 239).

6. Subordinate clauses.

(a.) Substantive clauses generally have the subject first, even though an interrogative (in oratio obliqua): hē áxóde hū pære þeóde nama pære, he asked what the people's name might be (Hom., 2, 120).

(b.) Adjective clauses are inverted when the relative is governed by a preposition: eal flēsc, on þam þe is lifes gást, all flesh in which is the breath of life (Gen., vi, 17);—sometimes with no preposition: ænne, þam þæs Iudas nama, one, to whom was Judas a name (El., 584).

(c.) Adverbial clauses of place and time are rarely inverted: þær bud man deað, hē lið, when there is one dead, he lieth (Oros., 1, 1, 21);—modal sometimes: spá stóð se deofol spá spá dēt se blinde, so stood the devil as doth the blind man (Hom., 2, 446);—conditional and concessive, if without sign: bud se tor þyrel, be the door opened (Jul., 402); nāfde hē nāfre spá mycel yfel gedôn, had he never so much evil done (=though he had) (Chr., 1087);—sometimes with: nāfde hē peáh, he had not though (Oros., 1, 1, 15).

7. Quasi-clauses.

(a.) Participles sometimes precede their subjects: calle niht spincende pē, all night toiling, we (took nothing) (Luc., v, 5);—absolute: rixendum Eadbaldum, Eadbald ruling, (Mellitus departed) (Chr., 616).

(b.) Factitives sometimes precede for emphasis: bearnleásne gē habbad mé gedonne, childless ye have made me (Gen., xlii, 36).

486. Exceptions to the second rule are frequent, § 484, 2.

Gefaren hæfdon, they had gone (Béd., 1, 23); hē gyldan pille, he will pay (B., 1184); oferseón mæge, may look over (Oros., 1, 1, 18); eal þæt his man crian mæg, all that his man may till (1, 1, 16); þær hit smālōst þære, wherever it smallest were (1, 1, 16); odde hyt eal āléd bud, till it all laid is (1, 1, 22); polde hyne genemmedne beôn, wished him to be named (Luc., i, 62). So in the old French and other early Romanic tongues (Diez, 3, 439).

ATTRIBUTIVE COMBINATIONS.

487. Attributive adjectives or genitives stand next before their substantive, appositives or prepositions with their cases next after.

So in the Teutonic tongues. In Latin, attributives generally follow their substantive. The Greek is freer. The old Romanic were free, the new have different habits for different words (Diez, 3, 433).

1. Before. Descriptives: pilde morás, wild moors (Oros., 1, 1, 16); hpales bāne, whale's bone (1, 1, 15);—definitives, pronominal: on sumum stōpum, in some places (1, 1, 16); heorá spēddá, their wealth (1, 1, 15);—numerals: tpám pucum, in two weeks (1, 1, 16).
2. After. Appositive: his hláforde Ælfrède, (said to) his lord, Alfred (1, 1, 13); Sidroc, se geonga, Sidroc, the young (Chr., 871), so in Romanic (Diez, 3, 431);—with preposition: reáf of hārum, garment of hair (Matt., iii, 4).

488. A definitive precedes a descriptive.

Se betsta hþæl-huntat, the best whale hunting (Oros., 1, 1, 14); þá pildan hránás, the wild rein-deer (1, 1, 15); áu mycel éa, a great river (1, 1, 13); þone ylcan sæs earm, (they have) the same sea's arm (1, 1, 12); fram his ágnun háme, from his own home (1, 1, 13). So in other tongues.

489. Of definitives, quantitatives precede demonstratives, which precede possessives, which precede articles, which precede numerals.

Quantitatives: cal þeós poruld, all this world (C., 604); calle his spédá, all his goods (Oros., 1, 1, 22); calle þá men, all the men (1, 1, 22); butu þá scyppu, both the ships (Luc., v, 7); healfne þone speoran, half the neck (Jud., 105; Mc., vi, 23); sume þá bócerás, some of the scribes (Matt., ix, 3); mid feápum þám getrýpestum mannum, with a few of the truest men (Ap., 6); ánuig óder þing, any other thing (John, x, 29). So in Romanic (Diez, 3, 438).

Demonstratives: þás míne pord, these my words (Matt., vii, 24).

Possessives: mín se gecorena sunu, my (the) chosen son (Matt., iii, 17).

Articles: on þære áne míle, in the one mile (Oros., 1, 1, 22); on þám óðrum þrím dagum, in the second three days (Oros., 1, 1, 13; Chr., 897). So in Romanic (Diez, 3, 436).

(a.) Forma (first) and óder (second, other) are sometimes used in the plural describing a class, and are then arranged as descriptives, § 488: þá þreó forman gebedu, the three first prayers (Hom., 1, 270); þegen óðre mánfulle, two other malefactors (Luc., xxiii, 32), so in other languages: ἐπὶ τὰς ἑσχατάς, Lat. septem novissimas, the seven last (plagues) (English Bible, Rev., xv, 1; xxi, 9); I read to Albert the three first cantos of the Lay of the Last Minstrel (Queen Victoria, Life in the Highlands, p. 46); our two eldest children (Same, 76, 231); two other keepers (Same, 70); in den sechs ersten conjugationen (J. Grimm, D. G., 1, 1038); les onze premiers chapítres, the eleven first chapters (Renan, Hist. Sem. Lang., 1, 27); las dos primeras partes (Don Carlos, quoted in Motley, R. D. R., iii, 193); las cuatro primeras (Don Quijote, 352); i dieci primi libri (Diez, 3, 436).

(b.) The English a, an, after many, such, half, too (great), so (great), how (great), as (great), etc., is in the Old English, but not in Anglo-Saxon: manig burh, many (a) town (Oros., 1, 1, 20), etc.

490. Exceptions.

1. Descriptive adjectives sometimes follow.

(a.) Two descriptives the substantive often stands between (so in the Romanic tongues [Diez, 3, 435]): spíte micle merás fersce, very large seas fresh (Oros., 1, 1, 17); tamrá deórâ unbebohrâ, tame deer unbought (1, 1, 15);—often with a conjunction: gôd man and clâne, good man and pure (Chr., 1056);—sometimes both precede: þam fægerestan reádan hiþe, of the fairest red hue (Gt. G., 1); for þēm mistlicum and manigfealdum þeoruld-bisgum, for the various and manifold secular occupations (Boet., Pref.);—sometimes both follow: ealrā þingá, gescepenlicrá and ungescepenlicrá, of all things seen and unseen (Hom., 1, 274).

(b.) In poetry: gléd-egesa grim, fire-fear grim (B., 2650); magobegn módig, hero spirited (B., 2757); mihstig (1519), etc. Poetic inversion is used in all languages (Diez, 3, 430).

2. Definitives often follow.

(a.) Quantitatives: þær bid medo genóh, there is mead enough (Oros., 1, 1, 20); þás land eal hýrat, those lands all belong (to Denmark) (1, 1, 20); land eal, all lands (Sal., 185); úre ealrā mōder, mother of us all (Bas. Hex. 11); magodriht miccl, great youth-throng (B., 67); manig (B., 838); hcorá begrá eágan, eyes of them both (Gen., iii, 7);—(b.) possessives, in poetry often: þcōden min, master mine (B., 365); hláford þinne, lord thine (B., 267); sínne, his (B., 2789); úserne, our (B., 3107); eóperne, your (B., 2889);—(c.) numerals, rare (þām wdelestum eastrum ánes pana þrittigum, with the noblest towns, thirty less one (Béd., 1, 1). So sometimes Romanic derivatives of totus, tantus, talis, and possessives (Diez, 3, 436, 437).

3. Genitives partitive and characteristic freely follow.

Numerals (regularly): tpéntig sceápá, twenty of sheep (Oros., 1, 1, 15);—other words (occasionally): on ódre healfe þæs móres, on the other side of the moor (1, 1, 17); nán þing grénes, nothing green (Exod., x, 15); feóper circulás hpítes hípes, four circles of white hue (Chr., 1104);—possessive and other genitives may sometimes follow, §§ 310–313.

4. Appositives in the genitive are often separated by a governing word: Aldpulfes dóhtor þæs cyninges, daughter of Aldwulf the king (St. G., 18): this was common as late as the Morte d'Arthur.

5. Any attributive may be separated by words which modify it, from its subject. Poetry allows the interposition of parenthetical clauses even, between the adjective and noun.

6. For participles and adjectives in quasi-predicative combinations, see 484, b.

491. OBJECTIVE COMBINATIONS.

1. Objects follow the verb or predicate adjective.

2. A genitive follows a dative which follows an accusative.

For the factitive object, see §§ 484, b; 485, 7, b.

Hi brohton sume þam cyninge, they brought some to the king (Oros., 1, 1, 14); benēman nergendne Crist roderá rices, to deprive the Savior Christ of heaven's kingdom (C., 286, 3); oudréd hé him þæs, he took dread to himself at that (John, xix, 8). A dative and genitive are seldom found after the same verb, § 492, 3. See after adjectives, §§ 315–319.

492. Exceptions.

1. Emphasis. An object often begins a clause for emphasis: þá deór hí hátat hréniás, those deer they call rein-deer (Oros., 1, 1, 15); sometimes a repeating pronoun follows: þá úd hi brohton sume þæm cynunge, these teeth they brought some (of) to the king (1, 1, 15).

(a.) So the interrogative regularly: hpæt gódes dô ic, what good must I do? (Matt., xix, 16).

2. Relics. In German objects precede their verb, and their order is (1) dative, (2) accusative, (3) genitive.

(a.) A genitive object very often immediately precedes the verb or adjective. For examples, see §§ 315-319.

(b.) The dative of the personal pronoun generally precedes impersonals and copulatives: him þuhte, it seemed to him (Oros., 1, 1, 14); him þæs, to him was (=he had) (1, 1, 13).

(c.) A direct object often stands between the subject and verb: pé hit witon, we it knew (Oros., 1, 1, 11); þe spyfste hors habbad, who swiftest horses have (1, 1, 22).

(d.) An object often stands between the auxiliary and verb: Hi mágon cyle gepyrean, they can cold produce (Oros., 1, 1, 23).

3. Attraction. Inversion of one part of the predicate draws others.

Two objects very often precede the verb: fela spellâ him sædon, many tales to him told (they) (Oros., 1, 1, 14). See more examples, §§ 297, a, 315, a, b.

(a.) The relative is regularly attracted to the beginning of its clause: gârseeg, þe man Cpên-sê hêtt, the sea, which one calls Cwen-sea (Oros., 1, 1, 11); gafole, þe þá Finnâs him gyldat, tribute, which the Finns to them pay (1, 1, 15).

493. ADVERBIAL COMBINATIONS.

1. An adverb follows its verb, but precedes its adjective or adverb.

2. A preposition with its following (attributives+) noun follows next the word to which it shows the relation.

494. Exceptions.

1. Emphasis. Any adverbial factor may begin its clause for emphasis.

On þæm landum eardôdon Engle, in those lands dwelt Angles (Oros., 1, 1, 19); Eásteperd lut mæg biôn syxtig milâ brâd, eastward it may be sixty miles broad (1, 1, 16); Ne mette hê, he met not (1, 1, 13).

(a.) Adverbs of time, place, order, very often begin a clause: þá fôr hê, then went he (1, 1, 13); þyder, hê cwæð, thither, he said (1, 1, 18); þonne arnat hi calle, next run they all (1, 1, 22).

(b.) Interrogatives regularly begin their clause: hpâr is heorâ God, where is their God? (Psa., cxiii, 10).

2. Perspicuity. When two or more adverbial factors modify the same word, their order is free. They are usually some before and some after the word: þá hê þiderpcard seglôde fram Sciringes heale, when he thither sailed from Seiringsheal (Oros., 1, 1, 19); calle þá hpíle hê sceal seglian be lande, all the while he must sail along the land (1, 1, 18).

(a.) In German the order is (1) time, (2) place, (3) cause, (4) co-existence, (5) modality or negation, (6) manner, all before the verb. There is more or less approach to the same order in Anglo-Saxon.

3. Old habits. (a.) Adverbial factors are very often found between the subject and verb: þá hpæl-huntan fyrrest farad, the whale hunters furthest go (Oros., 1, 1, 13); hê fram his ágnun háme fôr, he from his own home went (1, 1, 13); so regularly the negative: hý ne dorston, they durst not (1, 1, 13).

(b.) Adverbial factors are very often found between an auxiliary and its verb, or the copula and predicate: hê mihte on feôper dagum gesealian, he might in four days sail (1, 1, 13, and everywhere); þat land is eástepeard brádost, the land is eastward broadest (1, 1, 16).

(c.) The adverb before its adjective or adverb is regular: hyrá hýd bú spide gôd, their hide is very good (1, 1, 14).

(d.) The preposition is sometimes separated from its case to take the place of an adverb: Se here him fleáh beforan, the army him flee before (Chr., 1016); þe hê on bûde, which he dwelt on (Oros., 1, 1, 18); þe heorá spêdá on beód, which their riches are in (1, 1, 15; 1, 1, 22). Sometimes it follows its case: hi pyrcaþ þone cyle hine on, they produce cold on him (1, 1, 23); ne dorston þær on cuman, they durst not there on come (1, 1, 13).

4. Attraction. Relative adverbs begin their clause: hús, þanon ic eóde, house whence I went (Matt., xii, 44). For other cases, see § 485, b, and examples in § 494, 2.

495. ARRANGEMENT OF CLAUSES.

1. Co-ordinate clauses are free to follow the order of thought.

(a.) Courtesy.—Copulate subjects of different persons should have the first person follow the third, and the third follow the second.

A royal speaker may perhaps be an exception: "I and the girls," "I and Alice" (Queen Vict., Life in Highlands, 173).

SUBORDINATE CLAUSES.

1. Substantive clauses regularly follow their leading clause. For examples, see § 468.

2. Adjective clauses regularly follow the word they describe. For examples, see § 470, and sections there referred to.

3. Adverbial clauses freely take any place in the sentence according to the demands of emphasis, perspicuity, or euphony. They incline to the order of adverbial factors of a clause, §§ 493, 494.

(a.) Conditional and concessive clauses oftenest precede. Examples, §§ 431, 432.

(b.) Insertion.—Leading clauses are sometimes inserted in subordinates. and norðþeard, hê cpæd, þær hit smalósti þêre, þæt hit mihte beón, etc., and northward, he said, where it was narrowest, that it might be (three miles broad) (Oros., 1, 1, 16).

(c.) Variations are found with substantive and adjective clauses after the analogy of substantives and adjectives, §§ 485–490.

PART IV.

---

496. Prosody treats of the rhythm of Poetry.

497. Rhythm is an orderly succession of beats of sound.

This beat is called an ictus or arsis, and the syllable on which it falls is also called the arsis. The alternate remission of voice, and the syllables so uttered, are called the thesis.

498. Feet are the elementary combinations of syllables in verse.

(a.) Feet are named from the order and make of their arsis and thesis. A monosyllabic arsis+a monosyllabic thesis is a trochee; +a dissyllabic thesis is a dactyle, etc.

Stress. In Anglo-Saxon these depend on the accented syllables, which are determined by the stress they would, if the passage were prose, receive to distinguish them from other syllables of the same word, or from other words in the sentence.

Accent is therefore verbal, syntactical, or rhetorical. An unemphatic dissyllable may count as two unaccented syllables, like the second part of a compound. Secondary accents may take the arsis.

1. A tonic is a single accented syllable+a pause.

2. A trochee is an accented+an unaccented syllable.

3. A dactyle is an accented+two unaccented syllables.

4. A pæon is an accented+three unaccented syllables.

5. A pyrrhic is two unaccented syllables; a spondee is two accented; an iambus is an unaccented+an accented; an anapæst is two unaccented+an accented; a tribrach is three unaccented; a single unaccented syllable is called an atonic; and unaccented syllables preliminary to the normal feet of a line are called an anacrusis (striking up) or base.

(b.) Time. The time from each ictus to the next is the same in any section. It is not always filled up with sound. More time is given to an accented than an unaccented syllable.

(c.) Pitch. The English and most other Indo-Europeans raise the pitch with the verbal accent; the Scots lower it. With the rhetorical accent the pitch varies every way.

(d.) Expression. Feet of two syllables are most conversational; those of three are more ornate; those of one syllable are emphatic, like a thud or the blows of a hammer. The trochee, dactyle, and pæon, in which the accented syllable precedes, have more ease, grace, and vivacity. Those feet in which the accented syllable comes last have more decision, emphasis, and strength (Crosby, § 695). The Anglo-Saxon meters are trochaic and dactylic; the English oftener iambic and anapæstic.

499. A verse is an elementary division of a poem.

It has a twofold nature; it is a series of feet, and also a series of words.

(a.) As a series of feet, it is a sing-song of regular ups and downs, such as children sometimes give in repeating rhymes.

As a series of words, each word and pause would be the same as if it were prose, as persons who do not catch the meter often read poetry.

The cantillation never is the same as the prose utterance; lines in which it should be would be prosaic.

The art of versification consists in so arranging the prose speech in the ideal framework of the line that the reader may adjust one to the other without obscuring either, and with continual happy variety.

(b.) The manner of adapting the arsis and thesis to the prose pronunciation is different in different languages. In Sanskrit, and classical Greek and Latin, the arsis was laid on syllables having a long sound, and variety was found in the play of the prose accent. In other languages, including modern Greek and Latin, the arsis is made to fall on accented syllables, and free play is given to long and short vowel sounds, and combinations of consonants. The Sanskrit and Greek varied farther from prose speech in the recitation of poetry than modern habits and ears allow. The Hindoos still repeat Sanskrit poetry in recitative.

500. Verses are named from the prevailing foot trochaic, dactylic, iambic, and anapaestic, etc.

Verses are named from the number of feet. A monometer is a verse of one foot; a dimeter of two, a trimeter of three; a tetrameter of four; a pentameter of five; a hexameter of six; a heptameter of seven; an octometer of eight

(a.) A verse is catalectic when it wants a syllable, acatalectic when complete, hypercatalectic when redundant.

501. Cæsure.—Anglo-Saxon verses are made in two sections or hemistichs. The pause between these sections is called the cæsure. A foot cæsure is made by the cutting of a foot by the end of a word.

(a.) Expression. The character of versification depends much on the management of the cæsuras. When the weight of a verse precedes the cæsure, the movement has more vivacity; when it follows, more gravity.

502. Rime.—Rime is the rhythmical repetition of letters.

Nations who unite arsis and prose accent need to mark off their verses plainly. They do it by rime. Other nations shun rime.

1. When the riming letters begin their words, it is called alliteration.
2. When the accented vowels and following letters are alike, it is called perfect rime (= rhyme).
3. When only the consonants are alike, it is called half rime.
4. When the accented syllable is final, the rime is single; when one unaccented syllable follows, the rime is double; when two, it is triple.

(a.) Line-rime is between two words in the same section. Final-rime between the last words of two sections or verses.

503. Alliteration is the recurrence of the same initial sound in the first accented syllables of words.

1. Consonants.—The first initial consonant of alliterating syllables must be the same, the other consonants of a combination need not be:

Beópulf: breme::blæd (B., 18); Caines: cynne::cpealm (107); Cristenrā::Cyriacus (El., 1069); cūde::cuhht (B., 372); funden::frōfre (7); frātpum: flet (2054); geong: geardum::God (13); geógode::gleápōst (C., 221, 1); grinna: gæst (B., 102); heofenum: hlæste (52); hæledā: hryre::hpate (2052); huītan::hrungum (Rid., 87, 4); sōdlice::spectolan (B., 141); seecarp: scyld::scād (288); scridende::sceapum (Trav., 135); Scottā::scip (Chr., 938); þeōd::þrym (B., 2); pēn: plenco::præc (338).

2. Vowels.—A perfect vowel alliteration demands different vowels: isg: ūtfūs::welunges (B., 33),—sometimes the same vowels repeat: eorlā: eordan::eōper (B., 248).

(a.) sc, sp, or st seldom alliterate without repeating the whole combination; but: scyppend::scrifen (B., 106); sper: sprengde::sprang (By., 137); strælā: storm::strengum (B., 3117).

(b.) Words in ia-, iō-, iu-, Hie-, alliterate with those in g-. They are mostly foreign proper names. See §§ 28, 34. Silent h (Gn., Ex., 118).

Iacobes::gōde (Psa., lxxxvi, 1, and often); Iafed: gumrincum (C., 1552); Iordane::grēne (C., 1921); Iōbes::God (Met., 26, 47); gōda: geāsne::Iudas (El., 924); Iudēā::God (El., 209); gleáp: Gode::Iuliana (Jul., 131, and often); gomen: geardum::iu (B., 2459), so frequently iu=geō, giō (formerly) and its compounds; Hierusolme::God (Ps. C., 50, 134); gongad: gēgnunga::Hierusalem (Gūth. 785); written gold: Gerusalem::Iudēā (C., 260, 11). (é::g, p::g, B., 1960, 461)?

(c.) It is said that þ may alliterate with s by Dietrich (Haupt Zeit., x, 323, 362). No sure examples found. C., 287, 23, is a defective line.

504. A perfect Anglo-Saxon verse has three alliterating syllables, two in the first section, the other in the second.

Frum'sceaft | Fir'á || Feorr'an' | recc'an' (B., 91).
the origin of men from far relate.

(a.) The repeated letter is called the rime-letter; the one in the second couplet the chief-letter, the others the sub-letters. The F of feorran in the line above is the chief-letter; the F in frumsceaft and firá the sub-letters.

(b.) One of the sub-letters is often wanting.

Leánes . . Leóhte . . || . . Léte . . Lange (C., 258).

In pairs: þæt | hē | God'e | pold'e || geong'ra' | peord'an'.
that he to God would a vassal be (C., 277), where g and p both rime, and so often.

505. The Anglo-Saxons used line-rime and final-rime as an occasional grace of verse. See § 511.

506. Verse in which alliteration is essential, and other rime ornamental, is the prevailing form in Anglo-Saxon, Icelandic, Old Saxon. Specimens are found in Old High German. Alliteration in these languages even ran into prose, and is one of the causes of the thoroughness with which the shifting of the initial consonants has affected the whole speech, § 41, B.

507. Verse with final rime, and with alliteration as an occasional grace, is the common form in English and the modern Germanic and Romanic languages. It is common in the Low-Latin verses of the Anglo-Saxon poets, and it is by many supposed to have spread from the Celtic.

COMMON NARRATIVE VERSE.

508. Beda says of rhythm: "It is a modulated composition of words, not according to the laws of meter, but adapted in the number of its syllables to the judgment of the ear, as are the verses of our vulgar poets. * * * Yet, for the most part, you may find, by a sort of chance, some rule in rhythm; but this is not from an artificial government of the syllables. It arises because the sound and the modulation lead to it. The vulgar poets effect this rustically, the skillful attain it by their skul."—Beda, 1, 57. These remarks on the native poets are doubtless applicable to their Anglo-Saxon verses as well as their Latin; and whatever general rules we may find running through these poems, we may expect to find many exceptional lines, which belong in their places only because they can be recited with a cadence somewhat like the verses around them.

509. The common narrative verse has four feet in each section.

A. 1. An arsis falls on every prose accent, § 15, and the last syllable of every section. But note contractions below, 7.

2. At least one arsis on a primary accent, or two on other syllables follow the chief alliterating letter, § 504.

3. An arsis should fall on the former of two unaccented syllables after an accented long (the vowel long or followed by two consonants), and on the latter after an accented short.

scyld'um' bi|scer'e'de', || scynd'an' ge'ner'e|de' (Rime Song, 84).

4. An arsis should not fall on an unaccented proper prefix (ā-, be-, ge-, etc., § 15), or proclitic monosyllables (be, se, þe, etc.), or short endings of dissyllabic particles (nefne, odde, þonne, etc.), or short tense-endings between two accented shorts in the same section.

5. An arsis may fall on a long, on a short between two accents (after a long frequent, after a short, less so), on the former of two unaccented shorts.

grorn' | torn' | græf'|ed', || græft' | ræft' hæf'|ed' (Rime Song, 66).

spyle'e | gi' | gant' | ás' || há' pid | God'e | punn' | on' (B., 113).

np'|e' | nih't-|peard' || nyd'|e' | secol'|de' (C., 185, 1).

burh' | tm'bre' | de' (C., 2840). Rare with short penult of trisyllable.

B. 6. The thesis is mute or monosyllabic; but syncope, elision, synizesis, or synalepha is often needed to reduce two syllables.

7. An anacrusis may introduce any section. It is of one syllable, rarely two, sometimes apparently three, with the same contractions as the thesis.

Lel'on | þ(ä) of'er | fif'el | pæ'g' || fám'|i'ge | serid'|an' (Fl., 237).

puld'or|-cyn'ing|es' | por'd' || ge'peot'an | þá' þá' | pit'(i)gan | þr'ij' (An, 802).

spic'ód.(e) ymb' þá' | sáp'|le' || þe' hir'e | ær' þá' | sien'(e) on|láh' (C., 607)

sorh' as | mē' tō | secg' | anne' || on' | sef an | mīn' | um' (B., 473).

þæt' nāfre' ) Grend' | e' | spā' | fīl' | e' || gry' | rā' | ge | frem' | e' | de' (B., 591).

So we find hpær' re (B., 573), dissyllabic; hinc (B., 688), ofer (B., 1273), monosyllabic; and many anomalous slurs in the thesis or anacrusis.

8. The order of the feet is free, varying with the sense. In later poetry, as more particles are used, the fuller thesis grows more common.

9. The Anglo-Saxons like to end a sentence at the cæsura. So Chaucer and his French masters stop at the end of the first line of a rhyming couplet. So Milton says that "true musical delight" is to be found in having the sense "variously drawn out from one verse into another."

10. The two alliterating feet in the first section, and the corresponding pair in the second section, are chief feet. Some read all the rest as thesis.

510. Irregular sections are found with three feet, or two.

1. Sections with contracted words where the full form would complete the four feet.

hcân' hūses = hcā' | han' | hū' | ses' (B., 116).

deâtpic' seôn = deâ' | pic' | seô' | han' (B., 1275).

2. Sections with three feet and a thesis:

lif' | eac' | (ge) | sceôp' (B., 97).

Heyne finds in Beowulf feet of this kind with â-, æt-, he-, for-, ge-, of-, on-, to-, þurh-. Similar sections with proclitic particles are found: men' | (ne) cunn' | on' (B., 50); (be) yð' | lif' | e' (B., 566); Lél' | (se) | heard' | a' (B., 2977); (þe) | him' | þæt' | pif' (C., 707).

3. Sections with Proper Names. Foreign Names are irregular:

Sem' | and' | Cham' | (C., 1551), and so often.

4. Sections with two feet and a thesis:

man' | (ge) | þeôn' (B., 25). Loth' | (on) | fôn' (C., 1938).

511. Rhyme is found occasionally in most Anglo-Saxon poems. A few contain rhyming passages of some length. One has been found which is plainly a Task Poem to display riming skill. All sorts of rimés are crowded together in it. It has eighty-seven verses.

LINE-RIME.

Half-rime: sâr' | and' | sor' | ge' ; || sūs' | prôp' | ed' | on' ,

pain and sorrow ; sulphur suffered they (C., 75).

Perfect-rime :

Single : flâh' | mâh' | flît' | ed', || flân' | mân' | hpît' | ed', [62].
 foul fiend fighteth, darts the devil whetteth (Rime-song,
gâst' | â' | pearð' | um'. || Hæfd' | on' | gleâm' and | dreâm'.

Double : frôð' | ne' and | gôð' | ne' || fæd' er | Un' | pên' | es', [12].
 wise and good father of Unwen (Trav., 114).

Triple : fer' | eð' | e' and | ner' | e' | ðe'. || F'if' | tén' | a' | stôð' —,
 (God) led and saved (C., 1397).

FINAL-RIME.

Half-rime : spâ' | lif' | spâ' | deâ' | ð', || spâ' | hum | lœf' | re' | bi' | ð'.
 either life or death, as to him liefer be (Ex., 37, 20 ; Crist., 596, and a riming passage).

Perfect-rime :

Single : nê' | forst' | es' | fuêst', || nê' | fýr' | es' | blêst', no frost's rage, nor fire's blast,

Double : ne' | hægl' | es' | hryr' | e', || ne' | hrím' | es' | dryr' | e', nor hail's fall, nor rime's descent (Phœnix, 15, 16 ; Ex., 198, 25, where see more).

Triple : hlûd' | e' | hlyn' | e' | ðe' ; || hleod' | or' | dyn' | e' | ðe',
 (The harp) loud sounded ; the sound dinned (Rime-song, 28).

LONG NARRATIVE VERSE.

512. The common narrative verse is varied by occasional passages in longer verses. The alliteration and general structure of the long verse is the same as of the common ; but the length of the section is six feet. Feet are oftenest added between the two alliterating syllables of the first section, and before the alliterating syllable of the second section.

Spâ' | epæd' | snott' | or on | môd' | e', ||
ge) sæt' | him' | sund' | or' æt | rûn' | e'. ||
Til' bið | se þe his | treôp' | e' ge) heald' | ed' : ||
ne) sceal' | næfre his | torn' | tô | ryc' | e' | ne'
beorn' | of' his | breôst' | un' â | cýd' | an',
nemd e hê | ðr' þâ | bôt' | e' | cunn' | an',
eorl' | mid' | elu' | ê' ge) fremm' | an' :
pél' bið' | þan' þe him | âr' | e' | séc' | ed',
fróf' | re' | tô | Fæd' | er' on | heof on | um',
þær' | ús' | eal' | seô | fæst' | nung | stond' | ed' (Wanderer, 111+).

(a.) Sometimes a section of four feet is coupled with one of six :

ge) pinn' | es' | puð' | heor' | á | pall' | end' || pí' | e' | hol' | iad' (C., 323).

(b.) Four or more alliterative letters are found oftener than in common verse. Three seldom fail. A secondary weak alliteration is sometimes found in one of the sections.

(c.) This verse is rather a variety of the Common Narrative than another kind.

513. The Common Narrative is the regular Old Germanic verse. Rules 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, of § 509, are rules of that verse. In the 5th the Anglo-Saxon uses greater freedom. It also corresponds with the Old Norse fornyrtdalug. In it Old English alliterating poems are written.

In a | son'er | ses'on' || whan) soft' | was' the | sonn'e'
I) shop'e | me' in | shroud'es' || as) I a | shep'e | wer'e'
In) hab'ite | as' au | her'e'mite' || un)hol'y' of' | work'es'
Went' | wyd'e | in' þis | world' || *wou*d' res' tō | her'e'.
Ac) on' a | May' | morn'ing'e' || on) Mal' uern'e' | hull'es'

Piers the Plowman, 1-6.

(a.) The anacrusis has a tendency to unite with the following accented syllable, and start an iambic or anapaestic movement. The change of inflection endings for prepositions and auxiliaries has also favored the same movement. In Old English it often runs through the verses. See Final perfect-rime, § 511.

ALLITERATIVE PROSE.

514. Some of the Anglo-Saxon prose has a striking rhythm, and frequent alliteration, though not divided by it into verses. Some of the Homilies of Ælfric are so written (St. Cuthbert). Parts of the Chronicle have mixed line-rime and alliteration.

515. Verses with the same general form as the Anglo-Saxon continued to be written in English to the middle of the fifteenth century. Alliteration is still found as an ornament of our poetry, and the old dactylic cadence runs through all racy Anglo-Saxon English style.

So they went | up to the | Mountains † to be | hold the | gardens and | orchards,
The | vineyards and | fountains of | water; † where | also they | drank and | washed themselves,
 And did | freely | eat of the | vineyards. † Now there | were on the | tops of those | Mountains,
 Shepherds feeding their flocks; and they stood by the highway side.
 The pilgrims therefore went to th' m. and leaning upon their staffs,
 As is common with weary pilgrims, when they stand to talk with any by the way,
 They asked, Whose Delectable Mountains are these?
 And whose be the sheep, that feed upon them?—BUNYAN, Pilgrim's Progress.
